GOVERNOR TO MEET GOMPERS IN EFFORT TO END B. R. T. STRIKE

Conference Here Monday Arranged with J. H. Vahey, Counsel for Amalgamated.

REQUEST MADE BY MAHON

Smith Asked to Join in Appeal to Judge Mayer for a Settlement.

NINE INDICTED FOR MURDER

Strikers Accused of First-Degree Crime in Killing of Passenger—Transit Conditions Improve.

Governor Alfred E. Smith will meet Samuel Gompers and James H. Vahey, general counsel for the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, in this city on Monday afternoon in an attempt to end the Brooklyn Rapid Transit strike.

The Governor's willingness to confer with the union leaders was expressed in a telegram to Mr. Vahey replying to a request for a conference "to join with Mr. Gompers and myself in appeal to Federal Judge Mayer to help end the strike." Mr. Vahey's telegram supplemented a personal appeal made to the Governor on Thursday by William D. Mahon, President of the Amalgamated Association. It was learned yesterday that Mr. Vahey, whose headquarters are in Boston, was also present at the conference in Albany.

The telegram which Mr. Vahey sent to the Governor said:

Boston, Mass., Sept. 10.

Honorable A. E. Smith, Governor, Albany:

I have been instructed by the executive officers of the Amalgamated Association to ask you to join with Samuel Gompers and myself in appeal to Federal Judge Mayer to help end the strike on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system, affecting a great multitude of people, by meeting with Mr. Gompers and me in New York City, or any other convenient place, on Saturday or Monday. I thank you in advance for anything you may do in the situation and await an early reply.

JAMES H. VAHEY.

Agrees to Meet Leaders.

The Governor sent the following reply:

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 10, 1920.

Mr. James Vahey, Boston, Mass.:

Will be glad to meet Samuel Gompers and yourself at Biltmore Hotel, New York City, at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, as requested in your telegram just received.

ALFRED E. SMITH.

Leaders of the Amalgamated at the Hotel Continental last night said that there was nothing to add to the telegraphic correspondence between Mr. Vahey and the Governor in which the meeting was arranged. It was admitted, however, that Mr. Mahon, during his conference with the Governor on Thursday, had discussed the Brooklyn strike, as well as the Buffalo strike, which was the primary purpose of the meeting. The leaders here said, however, that the details of the strike itself had not been discussed and that that was the purpose of the meeting here Monday.

Officers of the Amalgamated Association and representatives of the American Federation of Labor last night at a poorly attended meeting of the strikers in the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum, Willoughby and Myrtle Avenues, urged the men not to return to work, declaring they had information that the strikebreakers were quitting. Less than 1,500 of the strikers attended the meeting.

Vice President Shea of the Amalgamated told the gathering he had been informed that 400 strikebreakers had failed to report for work at the carbarns and that many others were talking of deserting the company.

"We are going to win this strike boys," he said, "and all we want you to do is to stick it out. We'll win through the conference next Monday which will be attended by Governor Smith, Samuel Gompers and other prominent officials and labor leaders. So certain is Mr. Gompers that we are going to win this strike that he canceled an important engagement in another part of the country to participate in the conference with the Governor."

Edward A. Adams, an official of the American Federation of Labor, also urged the men to remain on strike and intimating hope through the conference with the Governor.

The indictment yesterday of nine strikers by the Brooklyn Grand Jury on charges of murder in the first degree in connection with the death of Ferdinand Friedman, 17 years old, of 2,111 Sixty-fourth Street, who was struck on the head with a stone twelve days ago during an attack on a Sea Beach train near the Fort Hamilton Station, seemed to have a discouraging effect on the strikers.

Earlier in the day the B. R. T. officials maintained a service which they declared was on a par with that of the preceding day, but after news of the indictments reached the strikers' headquarters reports were circulated that many of the strikers had decided to return to work. A statement attributed to Lindley M. Garrison, receiver of the B. R. T., that 2,000 of the strikers up to noon yesterday had returned to their jobs was vigorously denied by leaders of the strikers, but it was obvious that

William Says He Will Make Heads Fly When He Returns

BERLIN, Sept. 10.—An extraordinary declaration by the ex-Kaiser, made on the grounds of his residence at Doorn, is reported by Vorwärts in a story purporting to emanate from a Prussian Junker who recently visited him.

It is stated that the former Emperor was chopping a tree when he suddenly exclaimed, as he struck furious blows with his axe: "This is the way heads will fly to the right and left when I return to Germany."

Commenting on the remark, Vorwärts says: "It shows Wilhelm in all his old greatness as a politician."

B. R. T. CAR AND BUS IN CRASH; 24 HURT

Fifth Avenue Trolley Strikes Sightseeing Auto Speeding Across Track.

FORTY HURLED TO STREET

Two Women Likely to Die—Green Motorman Disappears After the Accident.

An open trolley car of the B. R. T.'s Fifth Avenue line, westbound, with a green motorman in charge, crashed into the rear of a sight-seeing automobile carrying forty men, women and children, at Fifth Avenue and Sixty-eighth Street, Bay Ridge, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, hurled the vehicle against a telegraph pole, and threw all of the automobile pasengers into the street.

Twenty-four of the passengers in the automobile suffered injuries requiring the attention of six ambulance surgeons from nearby hospitals. Two of them, Mrs. Ida Smith, 59 years old, of 622 Main Street, Buffalo, and Mrs. Rose Cooper, 48 years old, whose address was not obtained by the police, suffered fractured skulls, and were reported last night to be dying at the Norwegian Hospital.

The Injured.

BERMAN, Mrs. SYLVIA, 24, Surf Avenue and Bay Fiftieth Street, Coney Island, right arm probably fractured.

CONIGINO, CARL, 24, 45 Ocean Parkway, lacerations of face and scalp.

COOPER, Mrs. ROSE, 48; address not learned, fractured skull; removed to Norwegian Hospital.

DAVIDOFF, NATHAN, 28, 2,916 West Twenty-fourth Street, Coney Island, contusions.

DRESLER, LEO, 20, 860 West Sixteenth Street, Coney Island, laceration on head.

FISHMAN, MORRIS, 34, 400 West Fifty-seventh Street, Manhattan, thigh probably fractured.

GUICINO, CHARLES, 25, 1,230 Ocean Parkway; laceration of scalp.

KALMOSKY, Mrs. SUSAN, 48, his wife; sprained knee.

KLEIN, Mrs. ROSE, 37, 973 Sumpter Street; shock.

SCHEMLEY, Mrs. MARGARET, 30, his wife; sprained elbow.

SCHEMLEY, JEANET, 5, their daughter; cuts on forehead and knees.

SINGER, LILLIAN, 24, 1,098 Manhattan Avenue; contusions.

WERLER, Mrs. SADIE, 34, 973 Simpson Street, the Bronx; contusions.

The accident was attributed by detectives, after an investigation, to an attempt by the chauffeur of the sightseeing bus to cross in front of the trolley car. The automobile, in charge of Harry Ambof, 22 years old, of 92 First Street, Manhattan, was going at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour, witnesses told the detectives, while the trolley car was speeding along at fifteen miles an hour when it struck the bus. James Wallace was the motorman of the trolley car. He disappeared after the crash.

Trolley Hits End of Bus.

Ambof was driving his automobile through Sixty-eighth Street, and when he neared Fifth Avenue he saw the trolley car, which was less than half filled, coming along at a fast clip. The chauffeur, according to the police, put on more speed, and had almost passed the front of the trolley car, the motorman of which had not checked his speed, when the upper structure of the trolley car struck the protruding end of the bus, driving it across the street.

The impact of the trolley car hurled most of the bus passengers to the street. The automobile continued to skid diagonally across the street until it reached a telegraph pole on the sidewalk with which the shed of the automobile came in contact, righting the machine on its four wheels, tearing the shed from its fastening, the shed pinning about ten of the passengers to the sidewalk.

The crash was heard for blocks around, and within five minutes about 5,000 persons had gathered at the scene. Ambulances were hastily summoned by Policeman Thomas Kerrigan of the Bergen Street station, who was a passenger on the trolley car. Several of the first arrivals began to blame the motorman

PARIS AUTHORITIES INVESTIGATE DEATH OF OLIVE THOMAS

Police Seek Evidence on Rumors of Drug and Champagne Orgies.

REFUSE TO RELEASE BODY

Former American Officer, Sentenced for Selling Cocaine, One of Those Questioned.

PICKFORD IN DOCTOR'S CARE

Police Have Not Yet Obtained His Story of How the Actress Drank Poison.

PARIS, Sept. 10.—The French police have begun a thorough investigation into the death of Olive Thomas, the American moving picture actress, who succumbed this morning to poison taken, it is said by mistake, several days ago. The authorities have issued a permit for the embalming of the body of Miss Thomas, but have not yet sanctioned its shipment to the United States on the steamship Mauretania, sailing from Cherbourg on Sept. 18.

Investigation also is being made by the police of rumors of cocaine orgies, intermingled with champagne dinners which lasted into the early hours of the morning, that have been afloat in the American colony and among the habitués of the French cinema world during the last week.

Tonight in the Santé Prison the police were closely questioning a man named Spalding, said to be a former American Army Captain, who was sentenced to six months in jail Monday for vending cocaine.

In connection with the death of Miss Thomas the police say they desire to interview Jack Pickford, a motion picture actor and husband of Miss Thomas, and also a woman friend of the actress, who is said to have accompanied Miss Thomas during her last pilgrimage to the Montmartre district on Saturday evening.

Mr. Pickford left the Ritz Hotel, where he had been stopping, and has taken up quarters in the Hotel Crillon. He declined to receive visitors today. The physician who is in attendance on Mr. Pickford said he was in a very bad state of health.

Police Commissioner Docrocq said this evening that he had intrusted the investigation of the death of Miss Thomas to Captain of Police Catrou of the First District. When questioned concerning the case Captain Catrou said he had not concluded his inquiry. He had received the testimony of the waiters, porters and chambermaids at the Ritz Hotel, where Miss Thomas is said to have taken the poison, but had been unable as yet to obtain Mr. Pickford's account of the affair.

Several of the Montmartre resorts which Miss Thomas visited on Saturday night were subjected to a close investigation today.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 10.—Olive Thomas died at 10:15 o'clock this morning in the American Hospital at Neuilly. She had been in a state of coma since yesterday evening and the end was without pain. The medical report of the doctor in charge of the case ascribes death to acute nephritic inflammation.

Miss Thomas was certified as perfectly well a few weeks ago for a very heavy insurance policy by the same doctor who later attended her to the end.

In the circumstances, and in accordance with French law, the municipality in which she died would order an inquiry by a medico legal expert.

Only a few years ago Olive Thomas, whose maiden name was Olive Elain Duffy, was working for $8 a week as a shop girl in McKees Rocks, a suburb of Pittsburgh. At that time she married Bernard Krug Thomas, whom she divorced in 1915. Her rapid rise to fame and fortune in the theatrical world was due almost entirely to her unusual beauty, which led a friend to persuade her to leave McKees Rocks and try her fortune in New York on the stage.

Although her rôles in the "Ziegfeld Follies" and "Midnight Frolic" were not important, theatrical managers and artists soon began to call her one of the most beautiful girls in America, Harrison Fisher, according to report, even going so far as to term her "the most beautiful girl in the world."

In 1917 she left the spoken stage for the screen and soon attained great prominence as a star for the Triangle Studios. That same year she was quietly married in this city to Jack Pickford, also a motion picture star, and a brother of Mary Pickford. One of the early pictures in which Miss Thomas appeared was entitled "Limousine Life." She was born at Charleroi, Pa., in 1898.

TERRORISM IN IRISH TOWN.

Police Reported to Have Shot Up Tullow Following Murder.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—A dispatch to The Westminster Gazette from Dublin says it is reported that the police in Tullow, County Carlow, where a constable was shot dead yesterday, shot up the town last night, and that during the trouble a number of buildings were set on fire. At midnight there were terrifying scenes in the town, and some of the inhabitants left the place and spent the night in the open country.

When the Coroner arrived on Thursday to hold an inquest over the body of the constable none of the jurors who had been summoned obeyed the call.

Alien Tide Swamps Inadequate Staff Here; Eight Vessels Wait to Discharge Immigrants

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Immigration is increasing by leaps and bounds, with indications that the pre-war record will be equaled this year, according to Anthony Caminetti, Commissioner General of Immigration, who said today that the rush had become so great at New York as to make it impossible for the immigration officials, because of insufficient force and facilities, properly to handle those now seeking these shores. At present, he said, eight vessels were anchored in the stream waiting to discharge immigrants.

One of the great problems growing out of the rapidly increasing immigration is the desire of the new arrivals to seek the industrial centres, which have also attracted the aliens of less recent arrival from the rural districts which in the ten years preceding the war claimed more than a majority of the newcomers. This has tended to increase the housing problems in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia and has left the farming sections without the needed labor.

Until recently the greatest portion of the arrivals went West, having been headed for Oregon. Less than 25 per cent. of those who arrived in August went far from the Atlantic Coast.

Commissioner General Caminetti said that the Federal Government could do nothing and even State laws were helpless to make proper distribution. All that can be done in this direction, he said, was for States to become active at the immigration stations and try to induce the immigrants to make their residence within their borders.

"California and other States furnish examples of the good work that may be done in this connection," said Caminetti. "The national Government, while it is true that it provides for the distribution of aliens in terms, has not conferred authority to direct where an alien shall go after admission. It has the right to prevent exploitation, and it does other things, but it cannot direct or enforce his going into any particular locality or any particular field of industry.

"Any State may keep an agent at Ellis Island or other immigration sections, for the purpose of presenting to the new arrivals the resources and advantages of the same. Notwithstanding the importance of this matter, so far the record shows that Pennsylvania is the only State that has taken advantage of this opportunity. The matter of extending this class of work is now receiving consideration in the bureau, and recommendations thereon will form part of its forthcoming report for the last fiscal year."

SIX CAUGHT HERE IN FRAUD ON BANKS

FIVE BANKS ARE SWINDLED

They Hold Greek Institutions That Issued Letters of Credit, but Suits Are Likely.

George D. Pteriosis, who, although he is only 26 years old and looks even younger, is said by agents of the Department of Justice to have been the "master mind" in a bill of lading forgery scheme that netted at least $250,000 in a month, was arrested on the White Star Line pier shortly after the liner Adriatic docked late yesterday afternoon.

The warrant on which Agents Dunn and Navarro arrested him was issued under a secret indictment returned by a Federal Grand Jury on Sept. 3. It charged that he had "wilfully, fraudulently and unlawfully" forged and raised bills of lading.

As soon as he was in custody Special Agents Kennedy, Fogarty and Weissman arrested five other men on similar charges. They were George Brouzos, 34, of 20 Clinton Street, Brooklyn; A. J. Dritsas, 20, of 86 Wadsworth Avenue; Thomas Tsomas, 28, of 529 West 111th Street; Joseph Sakell, 29, of 329 West Thirty-sixth Street, and Ernest Theodos, 19, of 449 West 124th Street. A seventh man is being sought on a warrant also based on a secret indictment.

T. M. Reddy, Acting Division Superintendent of the local Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, made public last night the amazing tale of how, it is charged, Pteriosis rose from poverty to affluence within a few days, and of the equally interesting method by which he was induced to return to the United States.

Banks That Advanced Money.

Banking institutions that advanced cash to Pteriosis, according to the agents, are the Guaranty Trust Company, the Irving National Bank, the Mechanics and Metals National Bank, the American Express Company and the National City Bank. He took to them the forged bills of lading, according to the charge, and they lent him money on them, as is customary in bona fide commercial transactions of the sort, on the strength of letters of credit from banks in Greece.

Agents of the Department of Justice and representatives of the New York banking institutions said the banks here would lose nothing by the transaction. They said the loss would be upon the Greek banks that sent the letters of credit.

Henry E. Kelly, Assistant United States Attorney, however, who is in charge of the prosecution of the defendants for the Government, and who was questioning the "master mind" at the offices of the Department of Justice last night, said that he believed law suits between the banks might ensue. He was not so sure that the institutions in Greece would take the whole loss without a murmur.

Five banks in Greece were said to be involved. Among them were said to be the Bank of Industry, the Bank of Athens, and the Iona Bank.

Other Victims Probable.

Mr. Kelly said he did not know of more than $217,000 in cash that had been obtained by the alleged conspirators. Representatives of banks said they knew of at least $225,000 as having gone out through their institutions and were sure of at least $25,000 more. They thought that, as soon as the matter was given publicity, many more banks here and in other cities might be heard from as having been victims, or as having been agents for victims elsewhere.

Agents said that Pteriosis was the "smoothest" individual they had ever had dealings with. They said he left this country last June 5, and has been in France and England since. He went with a handbag. He returned with a wardrobe of English clothes, a diamond ring valued by the agents at $2,000, a fur overcoat valued by them at a like amount, three swagger English leather handbags and two prosperous looking trunks.

When the agents read the warrant to him they said he acted as calmly as if they were inviting him to have a cup

MACSWINEY IN PAIN, NEARS DANGER POINT

Physician Describes the Mayor as Drawing on His Last Reserves of Energy.

CORK YOUTH TO QUIT FAST

His Father Authorizes the Nuns to Keep Him Alive Until His Innocence Can Be Shown.

LONDON, Sept. 10. — The Gaelic League's bulletin issued late this evening says:

"Lord Mayor MacSwiney grows weaker. He suffers much pain, but his mind is perfectly clear."

A bulletin issued this evening by the league said:

"Lord Mayor MacSwiney is very low. The severe pains in his limbs and body continue."

This was the twenty-ninth day of the Lord Mayor's hunger strike. Mary MacSwiney, sister of the prisoner, when leaving the prison this afternoon, told the newspaper men that her brother was able to speak to her this morning. He asked her what day it was.

"When I said it was Friday, the tenth," said Miss MacSwiney, "Terence said: 'It is the beginning of the fifth week of my hunger strike.'"

Referring to her visit to Portsmouth yesterday, Miss MacSwiney said the labor officials at the trades union congress definitely refused to give her a hearing. She was told by an official that the congress could not help her, and she said she thought they were afraid of her urging direct action for the purpose of obtaining the Lord Mayor's release.

"I did not want to urge direct action," Miss MacSwiney declared. "I desired only to have three minutes of plain talk with the representatives of six and a half millions of working people of England. I was told that if a strike was called tomorrow they would not be able to get a half million men to leave work."

"Mayor MacSwiney is entering the danger stage of his fast," one of the physicians in Guy's Hospital, a recognized authority on metabolism, said today.

"Observation of previous cases of the same nature has taught that at the end of four weeks' abstinence from food a man begins to draw on his last reserves of potential energy, so that unless the Lord Mayor resumes eating, any day may bring collapse and the end."

The physician declared that he thought it extremely unlikely that nourishment in the form of soluble protein was being placed in the prisoner's drinking water, as except in an almost negligible quantity its presence would easily be detected. "The fact that the prisoner is taking water," added the physician, "fortifies him to a considerable degree."

Cork Prisoner to Eat.

CORK, Sept. 10 (Associated Press)—The father of Sean Hennessy, the 19-year-old lad who is on a hunger strike in Cork jail, consented today to permit the nuns to try to keep him alive until it is possible to present to the Government proofs of his innocence. These proofs, it is asserted, have been obtained.

The nuns, under direction of the Government's physician, are endeavoring to ameliorate Hennessy's condition.

The physician today told the correspondent that not only Hennessy but Michael Burke, Michael O'Reilly and Donovan were in an extremely critical condition and that it was problematical whether the lives of any of them could be saved, even if they were released immediately.

Hennessy, who is suffering from heart disease, collapsed this morning, and for a time the doctors thought him dead.

Thomas Donovan of Emly, Limerick, is suffering from the effects of a septic tooth, which has poisoned his entire system, and his death is expected. Burke is extremely low as a result of an ulcer of the stomach. He is suffering internal pain, but permits the nuns to relieve this with hot water bottles. Michael O'Reilly, like Hennessy, has heart disease.

Whether Joseph Murphy, one of the hunger strikers, is an American citizen hinges on a technicality, it is under-

HOLDUP ATTEMPT, SHOTS AND CHASE STIR GRAND CENTRAL

Robbers' Vain Effort in Restaurant Causes Pursuit and Excitement.

CAPTURE IN FLOUR BARREL

One Fugitive Excites Concourse Travelers, but Is Soon Run Down.

TRY TO BIND CAFE OWNER

Thieves Aim to Obtain $2,500, but Are Foiled by Their Victim's Battle.

Bullets flew over the heads of suburbanites rushing through Grand Central station this morning to catch the 1 o'clock trains when Jacob Mendel chased three hold-up men from his restaurant on the lower level after they had knocked him down with a blackjack and tried to steal the day's receipts of $2,500. No one was injured, although Mendel and two of the hold-up men emptied their weapons.

In the confusion following the shooting one of the men quietly walked up the main concourse leading from the lower level of the station to the entrance at Forty-second Street and Vanderbilt Avenue, passing policemen who were rushing down to ascertain the cause of the shooting. He disappeared in the theatre crowds issuing from Times Square to catch suburban trains.

A special patrolman of the New York Central Railroad, who was near a baggage checking stand when the shooting started, arrested a man he had seen dodging into a telephone booth just across from the restaurant. Accepting the special policeman's charge that the man knew something about the shooting the police of the East Fifty-first Street Station held him on suspicion. He refused to give his name and declared that he knew nothing whatever about the robbery. He was not armed.

Caught in a Flour Barrel.

A third man, who had seized the bag of money from Mendel, ran across the space in front of the restaurant and, witnesses said, dived through a small door into the sloping runway that carries foot passengers to the lower level from the street. Fifteen minutes after the excitement had subsided the police learned that this man had escaped.

Told by Mendel that this door led by a winding stairway to a bakery shop under the sloping runway, the police went down the stairs cautiously in the darkness, expecting the fugitive to fire on them.

Instead of being greeted by bullets the patrolmen were greeted with the astonishing sight of a man stuck in a flour barrel. He had a bag of money in his hand and was covered with flour.

Mr. Mendel said he had been about to put away the day's receipts in a safe when he was hit on the head. The safe stood in a corner of his office and the men apparently had hidden in a dark corner.

In the office of the station master, to which the prisoners were taken, Mr. Mendel identified one as a man who had worked in the restaurant for several days and had left early this week. The prisoner refused to give any information about himself, and he denied that he had taken any part in any attempted robbery.

It had been the custom of Mr. Mendel to dismiss most of his employes shortly before 1 o'clock, and none was present at the time of the attempted robbery.

Prepared for Robbers.

Mr. Mendel said he had always thought that he could defeat any hold-up man and had kept a pistol within easy reach for years. He said he was struck without warning, however, and did not have time to grab his gun.

He said he felt the bag snatched from his hand, and the thought came to him to fire a few shots to attract the station guards.

Although the men tried to tie him with napkins and tablecloths, Mr. Mendel got his gun and opened fire. Then they ran, shooting as they fled.

Several men who had rushed into telephone booths when the shooting began, upon coming out of their hiding places found themselves confronted by the police, who wished to ask them questions about what they had seen of the shooting. Some of these men lost their last train to suburban towns.

Squads of special police and detectives from the East Fifty-first police station went through the vast station, looking for a trace of the third man who was believed to have been implicated in the attempted robbery, but did not find him.

After questioning, the man who was arrested in the bakery said he was Fred Hardin of 150 West Forty-seventh Street. The police say he admitted planning the robbery and that he refused to give the names of his companions.

Many Maine Women Register.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 10.—The important part which women will take in the Maine election on Monday was indicated tonight by a canvass of registration figures by The Associated Press. Out of a registration of 94,704 in the cities, 29,854 are women. If this proportion is maintained among the towns, where registration will continue until election day, the total woman's registration for the State will be about 93,000.

Reports Cruiser Pittsburgh Is in No Immediate Danger

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10. — The Navy Department received a dispatch from Vice Admiral Huse today in which he stated that the cruiser Pittsburgh was on the rocks in the Baltic Sea at latitude 56 degrees 33 minutes north and longitude 20 degrees 52 east in four fathoms of water. The dispatch added that there was no immediate danger and that the destroyer Bfoome was "returning to the assistance of the Pittsburgh."

In case the Pittsburgh was not able to get off the rocks Admiral Huse stated that he would send for lighters.

RIOT OVER CONTROL OF BIG LABOR UNION

One Delegate Found Unconscious on the Floor After Meeting Adjourns.

The Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York and Vicinity came into being at the Central Opera House, 205 East Sixty-seventh Street, last night, amid scenes of wild disorder that broke out intermittently during the evening as the radical and conservative elements in the local labor movement struggled for control of the gathering and culminated in a riot at midnight in which a number of persons were roughly handled and one delegate knocked unconscious and robbed of $40. The Police Reserves of the East Sixty-seventh Street Police Station were called to quell the disturbance, but the final rumpus of the evening was over when they arrived.

The last outbreak of the evening occurred when Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, who presided, announced among others on a committee of fifteen to draft a constitution for the new labor body the names of James P. Holland, President of the State Federation of Labor, and Peter J. Brady, Supervisor of the City Record and head of the Allied Printing Trades Council. The mention of these names brought a storm of protest from all parts of the house. There were cat calls and boos which drowned the combined voices of Gompers, Hugh Frayne, Frank Morrison and other labor leaders on the platform in an effort to restore order.

Delegates Surge About Holland.

There was a motion to eliminate these names from the list, when a semblance of order had been restored. This brought forth the suggestion from another delegate that the President inquire of Holland and Brady if they would accept the appointment. Mr. Gompers replied that he would accept the suggestion and then called upon Mr. Holland, who was in the rear of the gathering, composed of more than 1,000 labor unionists.

Immediately the delegates began arising and surged into the aisles and around Holland, who tried to make himself heard from where he stood. Failing in this, he tried to make his way to the centre aisle. Reaching the aisle, several persons of the same element in the labor movement as Holland rushed to his assistance to clear the aisles and act as his bodyguard to the platform. His progress was several times halted by clashes between the men of the opposing factions.

Meanwhile Gompers was appealing with all his strength for the men to be quiet and be seated. Mr. Holland finally reached the stage and after a short talk by Gompers in which he upbraided the unionists for their conduct, Holland was allowed to begin his address amid absolute silence.

Boos and Applause Mingled.

"I know where the booing comes from," Holland declared, "and I also know the reason. I fought the Bolsheviki during the war and I will fight them as long as I live."

At this the crowd broke loose again and it was some time before he could finish, which he did by saying that he would gladly accept the appointment. There was applause from the opposing faction which just about equaled in volume the boos.

President Gompers then called upon Brady, who walked unhindered to a place in front of the platform, but before he could begin to speak the disturbance broke out anew and with greater vigor. Men ran about, punching each other in the face indiscriminately. In the rear of the hall there appeared to be in progress a free-for-all fight. Several delegates rushed up to President Gompers and excitedly declared that one man already had been killed and others were being unmercifully beaten.

President Gompers refused to be swept off his feet by the excitement and continued to hammer with his gavel. A large number in the rear began to surge toward the door and finally went out.

It was later reported to the East Sixty-seventh Street Police Station that Herman Markel, a striking painter and a delegate of 1,344 Park Avenue, who earlier in the meeting had a verbal clash with Robert P. Brindell, President of the Building Trades Council, had been found lying on the floor of the hall in a

Michigan, Ohio and Indiana Quotas Raised So as to "Approach Desired Amount."

UPHAM WANTED LIMIT UP

Treasurer Takes Responsibility for the Attempt to Get Gifts Up to $10,000.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—On the eve of ending its inquiry here into Governor Cox's charges concerning the Republican campaign funds, a rumpus started between Republican and Democratic leaders as to the question of whether the recent evidence, given by Republican officials and workers, had sustained the allegations made by the Democratic nominee.

Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey, Republican, refused today to participate longer in the inquiry into Cox's charges and absented himself from the afternoon session of the sub-committee. He gave out a statement in which he declared that further investigation of the Cox charges was a waste of time. He said he would join in other activities of the committee, but not sit with it while it took up the Cox charges.

Chairman Kenyon refused to discuss Edge's statement, but Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, retorted with a statement that Edge's assertions were "highly improper, if not indecent."

Edmond H. Moore, Governor Cox's representative, also took exception to Edge's statement, declaring that much of the nominee's charges had been proved already.

The Edge statement, apparently, had little effect on the committee's plans. Tomorrow morning it will conduct an inquiry into the fund-raising campaign of the Republicans in Chicago, where a drive to collect $500,000 is now in progress. William Wrigley, Jr., Charles A. Piez and Frederick Courtenay Barber, have been subpoenaed.

The sub-committee also expects to hear the testimony of girl employes in the Internal Revenue Office at Aberdeen, S. D., who are said to have been asked to give $40 each to the Democratic campaign fund.

The committee plans to finish its hearings soon after noon and the committee members expect to leave the city immediately after. It will reconvene Sept. 22 in Washington or New York. Then it expects to go into charges that violations of the Federal Prohibition law in Pennsylvania have been permitted in order to swell the Democratic campaign fund. It also expects to take up other phases of Governor Cox's charges.

Change in Republican Plans.

During the day's testimony inflation of quotas fixed by the Republican National Committee was told of by its paid agents. It was also brought out, through the introduction of letters, that there had been a sudden change in the Republican fund raising campaign plans about the time that Governor Cox made his original charges. Witnesses denied, however, that the Cox charges had anything to do with this.

Charles Boeschenstein, National Democratic Committeemen from Illinois, admitted writing letters to postmasters throughout the State, soliciting campaign contributions, but denied that they had been assessed. He insisted that all campaign contributions were voluntary.

Senator Edge in his statement about the inquiry said:

"After eight days' probing, including a severe cross-examination by experienced and able lawyers, members of the committee, of numerous witnesses suggested by Governor Cox or his representatives endeavoring to prove the Democratic nominee's charges of 'sinister influences' organized to arrange a corruption fund of $15,000,000 to 'buy the American electorate' and 'settle industrial disputes with the bayonet,' I am convinced that the committee is simply becoming the vehicle for all types of insincere political charges and rumors for partisan effect.

"I recognize other responsibilities of the committee and will gladly give my time in an endeavor to carry them out. But in my opinion and in the light of the evidence Mr. Cox has been given even more consideration than his responsible charges warrant. We have almost ignored the finances of the other party, which have not been made the subject of abuse of its party opponent."

The statement reviews the evidence given and concludes:

"We have called his own (Governor Cox) witnesses; Democratic members of the committee have severely cross-examined them and not a sinister charge has been substantiated. Governor Cox owes it to the American people to withdraw his extravagant statements or stand convicted of descending to the most despicable type of professional politics imaginable.

"In my judgment the committee's activities will serve a beneficial purpose—tend to deter any possible 'over extravagant' financial campaign within either party and that is my understanding of the real reason for its existence."

Senator Reed answered Edge as follows:

"I regard it as highly improper if not indecent for a member of this committee which is investigating certain charges to give out conclusions concerning those charges before the investigation has fairly begun," he said. "A man who had the slightest conception of the duties of a senatorial investigator would refrain from making comments at this time."

E. H. Moore also took exception to Edge's statement. His statement reads:

"Governor Cox's charges have been verified in a surprising manner considering the limited time that has been given to their investigation and the fact that our sources of evidence must necessarily be the money diggers who raised the Republican campaign fund themselves. Neither Governor Cox nor any member of the Democratic National Committee keeps the Republican books.

"To begin with, the article of Chauncey C. Brainard, Washington correspondent of The Brooklyn Eagle, describing in minute detail the Republican plan to raise $16,000,000, has been read into the records and the testimony has shown that it was authentic, if not inspired by Republican sources.

"While at first the Republican Chairman and the Republican Treasurer, in newspaper statements, loudly disclaimed that 'quotas' existed, it has been positively established by testimony here that they did exist, and Mr. Upham has testified to the existence at various times of quotas aggregating between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000. He further testified that these quotas did not include amounts of $2,000,000 raised before the national convention, which, added to the other figures, gives us $7,000,000 or $8,000,000.

"It is admitted by the money diggers' testimony that these quotas, admitted by Mr. Upham, were doubled and in some instances even trebled by them. This shows that these doubled and trebled quotas would amount to around $15,000,000, the figure fixed by Governor Cox.

As to Revelations in Ohio.

"In only one State has there been anything like a complete investigation. That was Ohio. We find here from the testimony of the Ohio director himself that quotas fixed by him for the State, were near $1,500,000 instead of the $650,000, which the Treasurer testified he had fixed. In Governor Cox's list there were mentioned eight cities in Ohio. While it was admitted that the quotas for the Ohio cities were at times revised, the testimony given here by Republicans shows that the aggregate quotas for these eight cities was precisely the same as that given by Governor Cox. Governor Cox did not attempt to say how much of the Republican fund had been collected, except that it was being rapidly raised, and in Ohio nearly 500,000 had been raised.

"The testimony of the Republican agents in Ohio was that $483,000 had been raised by pledges and $387,000 actually paid in. Personally I think that the amount raised in Ohio was much larger, as I know that two men in Trumbull County, the county adjoining mine, gave $1,000 each, and the records of the Republican agents show only $100 collected there.

"In the other State about which we have received partial information through testimony the quotas mentioned by Governor Cox have been confirmed.

"From the reluctant mouths of Republican witnesses there has been established the genuineness of 'Form 101,' which was read to audiences by Cox and denounced as 'phony' by Republican campaign managers. The text of that form letter is in the record and the Republican campaign managers have been forced to admit that it was prepared by them and that copies of it 'got out,' if it was not issued.

"Some of the witnesses have been frank and truthful when their obligations to their employers are considered. Others have been conspicuous for the absence of these qualities, but even from them have been forced admissions that Governor Cox's charges have been substantiated in detail. The inquiry has only begun. If it is continued we will get more evidence of their truth."

Workers Tell of Increasing Quotas.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10 (Associated Press).—Investigation of the Republican campaign to raise funds in Chicago will complete tomorrow the Senate Committee's inquiry here into the charges of Governor Cox that the Republicans were seeking to corrupt the electorate by soliciting $15,000,000.

Today's testimony showed that the practice of Republican State workers of boosting the quotas assigned them by the National Committee was general in many States.

"A quota," Charles Mavity, former director of the West Virginia campaign, explained, "is a target at which we shoot, but we don't expect to hit it."

Mavity and other witnesses told how they sometimes doubled the figures assigned them to raise. They testified that Governor Cox's figures of quotas in many cities were correct, but that these figures were those they personally had set, and not those supplied by Fred W. Upham, National Treasurer.

Mr. Upham, recalled to the stand, said he took full responsibility for the defunct plan outlined in "Form 101" to set aside Chairman Will Hays's limit of $1,000 on contributions and substitute a limit of $10,000. The National Ways and Means Committee, however, vetoed the proposal, he said.

Mr. Upham defended the work of Harry M. Blair and other former Y. M. C. A. Secretaries who are assistants.

"You assume responsibility for the 'Psalm Singers'?" Senator Pomerene asked.

"I do, and I am proud of the work my ex-Y. M. C. A. campaigners are doing," said Mr. Upham. "I believe that in the showing here of results I could, as a business man, get the job of raising the Democratic campaign fund, and when they reorganize their finances I think they will adopt our system."

"Getting Away from Wall Street."

Mr. Upham pointed out that hitherto the East has always paid the bills of both parties. "But up to date two-thirds of our funds have come from what New York considers 'the West,'" he said. "That fact, I think, is a pretty good argument that we are getting away from what is called the Wall Street influence, about which we have heard so much here."

Summarizing "all this budget and quota business" into what he called "a plain business statement," Mr. Upham said that the State quota list of about $4,800,000 made up in his office included both the pre-convention and actual Presidential campaign periods. He then pointed out that more than $1,100,000 of this total had been raised and spent before the present budget of $3,679,000 was made up.

He estimated that with the State and National Committee funds and the loans of $400,000 to the Congressional and $200,000 to the Senatorial committees of the party, there would pass through his hands a total of $4,879,000.

Edmond H. Moore, Governor Cox's personal representative, was recalled to the stand and asked concerning reports that liquor interests in Ohio had supported the Democratic nominee in the Gubernatorial campaign four years ago, and charges that the New Jersey liquor dealers were raising funds to assist the Democratic candidate this year.

Mr. Moore denied any knowledge of the charges and said the use of his name in a prospectus of the Association Opposed to National Prohibition was unauthorized. He asked if Senator Spencer, his questioner, was attempting to inject a wet and dry issue into the Presidential campaign."

Tells of Quotas in Twenty-three States.

Charles W. Lee of South Beach, Conn., told readily from memory details of the organization work and quotas in the twenty-three States of which he has charge as divisional director of the Republican campaign drive.

Senator Reed asked him about letters written last month to A. G. McPike, a former regional director in Southern California. Mr. Lee recalled that McPike's name went off the payroll about three weeks ago, but he could not remember that about Aug. 16 he had written him, mentioning the present investigation and saying that recent events had thrown California plans into the discard. He promised to produce all the correspondence with McPike later.

Mr. Lee, reviewing conditions in New England, said it was not necessary to use in that section the "campaign expedient" of expanding quotas as practiced in Ohio, Michigan and West Virginia. He cited Maine, which he said raised two-thirds of its quota of $30,000 in three weeks, and indicated that the amounts assessed against neighboring States were expected. In Massachusetts he said, the general campaign plan had been set up only in "metropolitan Boston" and in Fitchburg because former Senator Weeks, Ways and Means Chairman for New England, had found it unnecessary to use the drive method in other communities.

Asked by Senator Pomerene why the expansion of quotas varied from 30 per cent. in West Virginia to 100 per cent. in Ohio, the witness explained that the mental attitude of field workers had much to do with it and the expansion was supposed to take care of the "margin of safety, which was a factor in all financial campaigns."

The Ohio Senator remarked that some of the States seemed to have raised all of their quotas before the national convention, and instanced Arkansas. Mr. Lee said that just for that reason no work had been done there since the nomination of Senator Harding.

Mr. Lee said he had heard a rumor that the Non-Partisan League had a campaign fund of $4,000,000 in the Northwest, but he could give no information.

The witness instanced four Western States where the drive had been closed with the contributions short of the total. Oregon, he said, had contributed $21,000 on a quota of $25,000; Washington half of its $40,00 assessment; Idaho a third of the $12,500 it was asked for and Utah about half of its $25,000. He said that returns from Southern States were "only nominal" and that in Minnesota there was a quota of $50,000, but no effort to collect it.

"I wish you would tell me what the trouble is in Minnesota," said Senator Reed.

"I only know, as Mr. Upham explained, that internal conditions there make it unpropitious for us to enter that field," said Mr. Lee.

While Mr. Lee returned to his office for more papers the committee was left without witnesses, so Edmond H. Moore, Governor Cox's personal representative, volunteered to take the stand and, although assured by Senator Kenyon that "we are through with you," he resumed his testimony for the fourth time.

Senator Kenyon objected to Mr. Moore making a "political speech" or reading into the record a stack of telegrams and letters from all parts of the country which alleged that the Republicans were raising large funds. The committee accepted a report that $25,000 was being raised in Honolulu and promised to investigate it, and also took a letter purporting to have been written by O. W. Coursey, representative of the Republican National Treasurer in South Dakota, to C. H. Harvey, County Chairman at Fort Pierre, stating that the South Dakota quota was $25,000, while Mr. Moore said that Fred Upham testified that South Dakota was to raise but $7,500.

Raised Iowa Quota to $200,000.

Charles W. Mavity said Iowa's quota was $50,000 for State purposes and $75,000 for the national campaign, but that Charles McNider, Mason City, Iowa, the State Ways and Means Chairman, apportioned county quotas which totaled $200,000.

The West Virginia quota, he said, was $40,000 for national purposes. The State conducts a separate campaign for its local funds. The witness said he boosted the National Committee's goal to $55,000, dividing it as follows:

Wheeling district, $12,000, with $8,240 raised; Morgantown, $4,000, with $1,105 raised; Clarksburg, $6,000 quota, $4,429 raised; Huntington, $8,000 quota, $3,250 raised; Bluefield, $2,000 quota, $1,730 raised, Charlestown, $12,000 quota, $2,950 raised, and Logan County, a mountain district, $1,500, with nothing raised. The total raised was $21,714, he said.

In explaining an alleged quota of $1,300,000 for Ohio, John A. Kelly, State ways and means head in that State, yesterday said, "We shot at the moon, hoping to hit the tree tops." He said quotas were assigned State directors and they in turn assigned quotas to city or county directors, who often increased o rdouble them in order to get the original amount desired. The actual sum wanted in Ohio, it was brought out by Senator Pomerene of that State, was $650,000.

"Don't you think they rather buncoed the people of our State by doubling their quotas?" inquired the Senator.

"Ohio buncoed the country by getting all the candidates for President," interposed Senator Kenyon of Iowa.

Carl D. Fritsche, Secretary of the Michigan Republicin Ways and Means Committee, said that when he subdivided the State quotas he boosted figures for Detroit to $200,000, an increase of "50 to 60 per cent." An assistant, A. R. Strine, in charge of Detroit, then sent out letters, he said, without his knowledge, announcing the Detroit quota as $300,000, or $50,000 more than was sought in the entire State.

John G. Bryson of Brazil, Ind., Chairman of the Republican Ways and Means Committee of that State, said he was appointed to that post by the Chairman of the State Central Committee. He said that Fred W. Upham, Treasurer of the National Republican Committee, asked him to try to get $100,000 from the State.

It then developed that Mr. Bryson had used the increased quota idea adopted in Michigan and Ohio, asking his district committees for about $450,000. He explained that this total included $200,000 which he was trying to raise for the State Central Committee, and that under the Indiana Corrupt Practices law, subscriptions intended for the State Treasury could not go to the National Committee.

"Of course you can't raise that much money in Indiana," he added, and then stated that to date $38,942 had been raised for both the State and national funds. There was one subscription for $2,000 in his list, this amount coming from William Irwin, a banker at Columbus, Ind.

Says Democrats Can't Get Funds.

Charles Boeschenstein, Democratic national committeeman for Illinois, said there was no fund-raising organization of his party in this State. He said he was just starting to get a fund together, the limit being "the ability and willingness of the men who contribute."

Mr. Boeschenstein said a letter campaign was in prospect and that he hoped to get county chairmen in most of the counties.

"There are some counties in Illinois where you can't find two Democrats willing to work," he said.

The witness told Senator Kenyon he had no hopes of raising a large fund this year and was in fact a bit discouraged over the outlook. He knew nothing of any other organization trying to raise Democratic funds in the State.

"I sent out letters to twenty men asking them to co-operate with me, but have not had one reply," he said.

"Can't you find some Y. M. C. A. secretaries to help you?" asked Senator Pomerene.

"Mr. Upham may loan you some," suggested Senator Kenyon.

The witness was asked about letters sent to Joseph Coffman, the Augusta (Ill.) postmaster, and given to the committee yesterday. He said he had no list of Federal office holders and none of postmasters, but "suspected" he had sent some letters to postmasters. He assumed responsibility for the letters.

The envelope stamped "deliver at home address only" was shown him, and he said he frequently used that stamp to call attention to the letter. He said the practice was not confined to letters sent to Federal office holders.

"Is it not true that you are trying to get funds from Federal officers in Illinois?" queried Senator Kenyon.

"Positively not," said Mr. Boeschenstein. He explained that Federal laws prevented solicitations and it was too much trouble to go to the men as merely party members.

"How then do you get your money?" asked the Iowa Senator.

"I don't know. We manage to get by and pay our rent," said the witness.

"In the last State campaign we used less than $10,000 throughout Illinois."

Senator Reed asked the Chairman to issue subpoenas for Charles Piez, former President of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, who is in charge of the Republican fund raising campaign in Chicago; William Wrigley, principal owner of the Chicago National League baseball team; Caleb Enochs of Chicago and Frederick Courtland Barbour of New York, who is receiving $600 a week and expenses to direct the Chicago campaign. They, with W. A. Woodford, Mr. Upham's representative in Cleveland, who failed to appear today, will be examined on Saturday.

ENLARGES ON FUND CHARGES

One Former Progressive Leader Comes Out in Favor of Democratic Ticket.

Special to The New York Times.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Sept. 10.—Governor Cox, in speeches in the State of Washington today, set forth the doctrine of progress in Government and a square deal for all, which he told large crowds he represented and would fight for relentlessly from now until November. He found that the voters—men and women—were interested in the charges he had made of the collection of large funds by the Republican leaders to "buy the Presidency" and place a reactionary in the White House.

In some of his addresses during the day and at Walla Walla tonight he charged that the Republican National Chairman, Will H. Hays, and his associates had been "caught with the goods" and were now adopting the attitude of Boss Tweed, namely: "What are you going to do about it?"

"They will not get away with that," Governor Cox said.

A challenge to Senator Harding to speak his mind in the face of the "scandal" which had been created was issued by Governor Cox in his addresses, and he declared that Chairman Hays should be cast aside by the Republican Party.

"The statement of former Senator Weeks in New Jersey yesterday, to the effect that $15,000,000 contributed to the Republican campaign fund by the business interests would be a good investment, is not surprising," said Governor Cox. "First, Will Hays and his associates made broadcast denials. Now, that they have been caught with the goods on them, the policy to be adopted manifestly is that which Senator Weeks expresses. It will remind the country of the days of Boss Tweed. When he was caught he asked, 'What are you going to do about it?' The people answered by sending him to the penitentiary. Present symptoms are pretty strongly suggesting the need of the same kind of remedy now.

"Certain interests in America look upon the government of the people as a business affair, pure and simple, and they are determined to control it. In the face of obvious violation of the law, Hays, the head of the 'money-diggers,' is still in charge. With scandal enveloping the affairs of the Republican 'headquarters' the Presidential candidate is silent."

Referring to reports that Republican members of the Senate Committee at Chicago held that his "leads" had shown that no sinister influence was being exerted, and that the taking of evidence in regard to contributions should be closed. The Governor argued that such an attitude was in line with the Tweed attitude, and he promised that there would be some lively skirmishing, if such a course were followed out.

Governor Cox today received a bit of information about the campaign fund quota levied by the Republicans on the City of Spokane. He was told by the Progressive State Chairman that the quota was $60,000, and not $50,000.

Washington was one of the States which Roosevelt carried in 1912. President Wilson carried it in 1916. Governor Cox asked that the voters look upon him, not as a Democrat, but as the "only progressive candidate." The Governor dwelt at length on his assertion that the Republican Party was again under the control of "the gang" against which Roosevelt fought in 1912.

On his arrival at Spokane at 10 o'clock Governor Cox addressed a group of business men and voters at the station and then went to the State fair grounds. He concluded his day of campaigning here tonight.

Declare Harding Sentiment Small.

Democratic State leaders report resentment against Harding and the group of men who Governor Cox alleges nominated him, among the Progressive voters of Washington. They say the State may be counted upon as for Governor Cox. They declare there is little sentiment and no enthusiasm here for the election of Harding, and that Republican leaders are conducting their fight along the line that there must be a change and that President Wilson and his Administration failed in their duty to the American people.

Leroy Slater, Progressive State Chairman since 1912, has issued a statement in which he said: "I am against Harding because he is against labor."

Slater said he would support Governor Cox as a progressive who had established a splendid record as Governor of Ohio. He added that he believed the majority of the Progressives, who cast 114,000 votes in 1912, would be found at the voting booths on Nov. 2 casting their ballots for Cox.

Governor Cox received warm greetings during the day. The people wanted to see and hear him and "size him up." His addresses have received wide publicity in this section and it is generally admitted that he has aroused interest in the campaign.

Governor Cox told the people here of his record in behalf of progressive government in Ohio, backing his statements by citing such reforms as the Workmen's Compensation law, the Widows' Pension law and the initiative and referendum established under the new constitution, which he charged Senator Harding tried to defeat in 1912.

The Governor traveled from the northeast corner of the State to little towns and hamlets in the southwest, talking to big crowds and small crowds. It was raining and cold when the train reached Spokane this morning, but no appeal could force the Governor to spare himself and he talked half an hour at the Fair Grounds.

Couples Progress and League.

Governor Cox coupled progress in government with the League of Nations and accused the Republicans of hitting below the belt in charging that the League was a Wilson League, or that the President had insisted upon its adoption without the crossing of a "t" or the dotting of an "i."

"The clear waters of American public opinion have been poisoned with malicious misinformation," the Governor declared. "But you can't fool the people long. Our opponents have been saying that the League of Nations proposed by the Democratic platform and approved by the Democratic candidate is a 'British League,' and then, in the next breath, they have said it is a 'Wilson League.' The plain truth of the matter is that it is neither a British League nor a Wilson League. The facts are already history.

"During all the years of the war, while the soldiers of democracy were fighting to destroy arrogant militarism, the scholars and statesmen of the world were hammering out the details of a League of Nations. Commissions, official and unofficial, were drawing plans and drafting specifications. Certainly no less than 500 of the best minds in all the civilized nations had a share in the preliminary work.

"At the Paris Peace Conference a special committee of nineteen, representing fourteen different nations, was selected to draw up a definite plan. President Wilson was made Chairman of this committee. Corps of experts advised the representatives of all the nations. After laboring for many weeks, they published a 'draft convention' and invited all the nations of the world, including the neutral nations, to criticise it and offer suggestions for its improvement.

"It is a despicable falsehood to say that Mr. Wilson would not permit the crossing of a "t" or the dotting of an 'i.' Not only were 't's' crossed and 'i's' dotted, but ex-President Taft offered four amendments, all of which were adopted; Judge Hughes offered seven amendments, five of which were adopted; Elihu Root suggested six amendments, and the substance of five of these found their way into the final covenant—in several instances Mr. Root's exact words being introduced.

"Mr. Root even approved the inclusion of Article X. for a period of five years. Does any Republican honestly think that if Mr. Root believed Article X. would 'sacrifice our sovereignty' he would have advocated that we sell ourselves into political peonage for any period, however brief?

"When all these suggestions were in the committee consumed its session, and on April 28, 1919, reported the finished covenant of the League to a plenary session of the Peace Conference. It was approved unanimously by the representatives of forty-five nations."

Governor Cox will continue his campaigning in Washington tomorrow, concluding with an address at Seattle in the evening.

SAYS FUNDS DON'T MATTER.

Prohibition Candidate Declares the Country Isn't Interested.

HAMLINE, Minn., Sept. 10.—The country at large will not care thirty cents to find out the exact figures or even the approximate figures of any campaign fund, said Aaron S. Watkins, Prohibition candidate for President, in a speech at the Minnesota State Fair today.

"It is said by some that all the national elections since the Civil War have followed the line of largest contributions," Mr. Watkins continued.

"The fact that the side with the largest campaign fund has usually won may be a case of cause and effect one way or another. It may be true that the party which is on the way to victory may easily secure the largest campaign funds, because a going concern always attracts followers and supporters. So the man who calls attention too largely to his opponent's campaign funds may be betraying the fact that the swing is against himself.

"The real questions of this year are the League of Nations, the labor problem and the extinction of the liquor traffic. On all these questions we believe that the rural population can be reached with reason and will vote in accordance therewith."

He said that the solution of rural problems was to develop a genuine loyalty to the farm. He concluded:

"As long as boys and girls on the farm are taught that the great opportunities, intellectual, social and financial, are in the cities, we shall cry out in vain against the exodus from the farm. Whenever we begin to plan the farm as a permanent place to live and the best place to enjoy life, then the farm will be in condition at least to state its problems to the country and to assist in their solution."

HITS HARDING AMERICANISM.

Senator Owen Says All Who Were Disloyal in War Back Him.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 10.—"Americanism as preached by Warren G. Harding, has gone to seed," said Senator Owen of Oklahoma, speaking here today to a school of instruction for Democratic orators. "This great apostle of Americanism has behind him every man that was disloyal during the war."

In principle, practically all of America has agreed to the League of Nations, said Senator Owen.

"The treaty would have been ratified," he added, "but for partisan and personal pride. That's the plain truth of it. I personally had Lodge and Hitchcock around a table whittling down differences until they had almost disappeared and then they refused to agree.

"Of the League of Nations we know where Governor Cox stands and we do not know where Harding stands, except by Hiram Johnson, and Harding is satisfactory to Hiram. Those who want the League ought to support Cox."

HAYS AT PHILADELPHIA URGES 'SMALL GIFTS'

But May Ask Larger Ones Later if Needed to Prevent 'Surrender of Independence.'

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—Will H. Hays, Republican National Chairman, and former United States Senator John W. Weeks of Massachusetts, with other prominent Republicans, addressed members of the Republican Ways and Means Committee of Pennsylvania today at a luncheon at which the collection of campaign funds in this State was discussed. William H. Folwell is Chairman of the committee and Mrs. George Horace Lorimer is Vice Chairman.

The meeting was strictly an executive session, but copies of Mr. Hays's remarks were given to the newspaper correspondents after the luncheon.

"It is only by a great many personal workers interesting themselves in the solicitation that small amounts can be successfully secured, and hundreds of the finest men and women in the nation are engaged in this part of our party work, as in the other divisions," said Mr. Hays.

"It is an innovation of merit recognized by all. Because it is the first effort, it may not succeed. However, we have been several months in a campaign of publicity and organization to develop the idea and we have every reason to believe that it will succeed.

"If it fails to produce the requisite sum, we shall state so publicly, increase the maximum and seek additional contributions."

Mr. Hays declared a Democratic victory and "a resultant entry of America into the League of Nations would be a surrender of American independence."

"That surrender, please God, shall never be made," he added, "as long as the spirit of patriotism continues to animate the hearts of American freemen."

Referring to the local committee's efforts, Chairman Hays said:

"It is the purpose to endeavor to develop in Pennsylvania as in other States the effort to popularize the giving of money for campaign purposes by getting small contributions from a great many men and women, rather than large contributions from a small number, thus forever eliminating any possible opportunity for sinister influences in connection with money in politics. This effort grows out of a real desire to work a real reform in the elimination of any possible improper obligation. It brings also an increased interest in politics, with all of the good effect incident thereto."

Mr. Hays expected to see Senator Penrose before he left the city.

HARDING PROMISES JUSTICE TO NEGROES

Tells Visiting Baptists and Methodists They Have Met the Test of Citizenship.

PRAISES THEIR PATRIOTISM

General Pershing Thanks Their Race for "Splendid Service" in the World War.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Sept. 10.—Senator Harding, addressing several negro delegations from his front porch today, said that the American negro had met the test and would not fail his country, and that "America has not and will not fail the American negro."

"Citizenship," he went on, "is not based on what one can get, but is based upon what one gives. I say—and I wish that I could speak through you to all America—'let's serve.'"

Inez McWhorter, Senator Harding's cook, left her kitchen for the front yard, where the negroes were gathered this morning, and stood beside Frank Blacksten looking up at an overcast sky.

"Frank," she said to the Senator's chauffeur, "every time the white folks has a delegation the sun shines bright, but every time the cullud folks has a delegation the Debbil comes with his rain and clouds."

But the sun finally came out, driving a few shadows away from the front porch, and the negroes, representatives of two branches of both the Baptist and Methodist churches and the National Equal Rights League, staged a ceremony that had all the fervency of a camp meeting. They sang "Old Time Religion" and other camp meeting tunes, while "Hallelujahs!" and "Amens" and "You tell it!" interrupted the speeches.

The numerous negro speakers grew eloquent in praising Senator Harding, and one preacher in his prayer invoked the Almighty to look down on Pennsylvania Avenue March 4, on "the inauguration of President Harding."

Another speaker implored his hearers to "march in a solid phalanx to the polls Nov. 4." Another put Confederate buttons on William McKinley, but asserted he had never "worn the Southern yoke."

In the afternoon ceremonies the Senator was introduced as "William G. Harding."

General Pershing, the Senator's guest, "changed his religion" twice during the day. In the morning he asked to be taken into the Baptist Church, and the negroes threw their hats into the air crying, "We will."

"It seems unanimous," the General remarked.

In the afternoon the Methodists took him into their fold.

Pershing Praises Negro Soldiers.

"It is indeed a privilege for me to have this opportunity of saying just a word to the representatives of the colored people of this country as Commander in Chief of the American Expeditionary Forces during the war," said General Pershing, "to thank you for the splendid service that was rendered me, our country and the Allies by the fine young manhood whom you sent abroad to fight for liberty and freedom.

"The colored people of America are to be congratulated upon their magnificent showing both at home and abroad. We are all to be congratulated, for without that support we would not have been able to win the victory as early as we did."

Senator Harding delivered the same speech to both morning and afternoon delegations, addressing them as "Americans." He said in part:

"Too much doctrine based upon another principle has been loosed on a warworn world. Abroad, particularly in Russia, there has grown up the idea that by some impossible magic a government can give out a bounty by the mere fact of having liberty and equality written over its door, and that citizenship need make no deposit in the bank of common weal in order to write checks upon the bank. Here at home we have had too much encouragement given to the idea that a government is a something for nothing institution. But I say that citizenship is not based upon what one can get, but that it is based upon what one gives. I say—and I wish that I could speak through you to all Americans—'let's serve.'

"Under that slogan of good citizenship there is no reason why you should not hold your heads high. You who are assembled today and your race in America have the good sense, as all thoughtful Americans must have, to know that it is only in a country where the merit, capacity and worth of men and women are recognized and rewarded that merit, capacity and worth are developed. You and I, and good Americans of whatever color, blood or creed, know that the aspiration of all men is equal opportunity, and that no injustice known to man can be greater than that of the tyranny and autocracy that label themselves democracy, or bolshevism, or proletariat, and enslaves all men and all their ambitions and all their freedom with the iron band of mediocrity.

Says Negro Has Met the Test.

"The American negro has the good sense to know this truth, has the good sense and clear head and brave heart to live it, and I, assuming to speak a truth which America ought to know, proclaim it to all the world that he has met the test and did not and will not fail America.

"I proclaim more. I assert to the world that America has not failed and will not fail the American negro. If there are those who doubt me, let them look to the record of the colored race in American citizenship and the record of America in giving opportunity.

"The expression of spiritual life alive in the hearts of the people of your blood has, I believe, been the basis for the achievements of the American negro. They are great and amazing achievements. They have been wrought, not with words nor false claims, but by patience, tolerance, restraint, and by the earned rewards of that merit, capacity and worth in citizenship of which I have spoken.

"But when we Americans of whatever color render tribute to the record of the American negro, let us not forget to render tribute to America, under whose institutions and among whose people their record was made, for I tell you and through you I tell all Americans that if your people have progressed in so amazing and inspiring a manner it must have been that America has given you opportunity. You have risen by your merit, capacity and worth, and not by agitation and violence and revolt against our institutions, and have loved them.

"If the men and women of your blood have given, as we all desired to give, a great outpouring of treasure and blood upon the altar of patriotism, it is because the truth was in your hearts.

"America has given you richer great blessing of justice. You have it and you shall have it. It will be good American citizenship and America will continue to accord it to your people. If I have anything to do with it, if shall also be good American obedience to law. Brutal and unlawful violence, whether it proceeds from those who break the law or from those who take the law into their own hands, can only be dealt with in one way by true Americans, whether they be of your blood or of mine."

Senator Harding will address the business men of America tomorrow in two speeches to delegations from Chicago, Northern Indiana and Michigan. The Chicago pilgrimage will arrive in the morning, while the Senator will speak to the Indiana and Michigan business men in the afternoon. The delegations will make the trip in special trains.

Monday afternoon the Senator will speak to the Harding and Coolidge Railroad Men's Club, made up of many railroad employes living in Marion.

Hears Grievances of Negroes.

MARION, Ohio, Sept. 10 (Associated Press).—In several private conferences today Senator Harding heard the grievances of various negro leaders and assured them he would make a careful study of the situation. Lynching and segregation of negro Federal employes were two of the things for whose suppression the visitors made a particular plea.

Conventions of negro Baptists in session at Columbus and Indianapolis sent the largest delegations, and a camp meeting spirit ruled the day's celebration.

Henry Lincoln Johnson, Republican National Committeeman for Georgia, headed the group from the National Baptist Convention at Columbus, which arrived in the morning and was the first addressed by the nominee. The afternoon speech was to representatives of the National Baptist Convention, which is meeting in Indianapolis; the National Equal Rights League, the American Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Those who made speeches included the Presidents of both of the conventions; William H. Lewis of Boston, a former Assistant Attorney General, Charles Cottrill of Toledo, former Collector of Internal Revenue at Honolulu; Mrs. Thomas W. Fleming of Cleveland, head of the Colored Woman's Bureau of the Republican National Committee, and Hallie Q. Brown, President of the National Federation of Colored Women's Clubs.

Two hundred thousand votes from negro women were promised the Senator by the women speakers, one of whom praised his stand for party government and said the women of her race would claim representation in the Government in proportion to their numbers.

One of those who conferred with the Senator was William Monroe Trotter of Boston, Executive Secretary of the National Equal Rights League, who asked that segregation of negro employes of the Federal Government be abolished. He declared afterward that the Senator had given the request appreciative consideration.

WOMEN'S PARTY TO CALL A CONVENTION

Executive Committee Meets at the Country Home of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont.

Members of the Executive Committee and officers of the National Woman's Party met at the home of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, at Port Washington, L. I., yesterday, to discuss a call for a national convention, at which the continuance of the party as a political organization will be determined. Sentiment at the meeting was practically unanimously in favor of continuing the party as a feminist organization, to contend for the absolute equality of women in politics, industry and all branches of human endeavor. It was decided to hold a convention in Washington, but the date was left open because of the pending litigation to upset ratification of the suffrage amendment. The party will continue to exercise its present functions until the suffrage question is finally settled.

Miss Alice Paul, Chairman of the National Woman's Party, explained that it was not proposed to make it a party in the sense that the Republican and Democratic Parties are parties, but to continue as a group to fight for the complete equality of women, throwing its influence and voting power against candidates who oppose its program and supporting candidates who favor it.

Miss Paul said that women had won the vote by fighting as women with the votes of a small group of women as weapons, and that she felt that full equality for women could only be won by campaigning along the same lines.

"Equality Fight Just Begun."

"It is incredible to me that any woman should consider the fight for full equality won," she said. "It has just begun. There is hardly a field, economic or political, in which the natural and unaccustomed policy is not to ignore women. Men are chosen to fill high Government offices and the responsible, well-paid positions in industry. No comment was excited by the fact that no woman was a member of the Coal Commission, for instance, or of the Railway Wage Board, in whose hands lay matters of vital concern to women as housekeepers and as workers.

"Unless women are prepared to fight politically they must be content to be ignored politically. It would be inconceivable if it were not so usual that a campaign, in which almost one-half of the electorate will be women, could be waged with a League of Nations, in which women are almost entirely ignored, as the chief issue, without even an apology to women."

Mrs. Abby Scott Baker, political Chairman of the Woman's Party, said women were being invited to do only the drudgery of party politics, to help raise money, to sit on the stage at meetings, and to hold honorary titles. "But you may be sure," she said, "that it will be some time before they are allowed to speak up in meeting in the inner party councils. Politicians are bargain hunters, and they are not bidding very high for the women's vote.

"If I have learned anything from my political experience, it is that the one thing politicians fear is a determined minority united on a program, and ready to throw its power to the group through which it can secure that program's success. This is the policy through which the Woman's Party won national suffrage within seven years. By following this policy, the Woman's Party could win success for the larger problems still before women."

Urges Separate Domicile.

Mrs. Belmont also urged continuation of the Woman's Party as an instrument for the removal of discrimination against women. "With such an active, fighting women's group in the political field," said Mrs. Belmont, whose daughter, the Duchess of Marlborough, lost her American citizenship through marriage, "it would be impossible for women to be deprived of their citizenship through marriage or to be given citizenship because of marriage. A woman should have the right of separate domicile, so that she can not be disfranchised, as thousands of women now are because their residence is fixed by that of their husbands."

Mrs. Annie G. Porritt of Connecticut reported that the suffragists of that State intended to make a fight for ratification of the suffrage amendment at the special session called to enact election laws. Miss Paul explained that, while she considered ratification completed, it would be satisfactory and advisable to get as many States as possible to ratify.

Mrs. Lawrence Lewis of Pennsylvania, Treasurer, reported that an indebtedness of $12,000 had been incurred in the Tennessee ratification campaign. Contributions and pledges to pay the full amount were received, including a subscription of $1,000 from Mrs. Belmont.

Among those present were Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman, Mrs. Rheta Childe Dorr, Miss Crystal Eastman, Mrs. John Rogers, Jr., Mrs. John W. Branman, Mrs. Henry G. Leach, Miss Lucy Burns and Mrs. Florence Kelley, New York; Miss Doris Stevens, Nebraska; Miss Mary Ingham, Pennsylvania; Dr. Gillette Hayden and Mrs. James M. Rector, Ohio, and Mrs. Agnes Morey, Massachusetts.

HAYS IS INSULTING, SAYS ROOSEVELT

Candidate Charges Chairman Seeks to Make Democrats Appear Un-American.

CALLS BOTH PARTIES LOYAL

Nominee, Unable to Speak in Bangor, Me., Tonight, Gives Out Speech as a Statement.

BANGOR, Me., Sept. 10.—Owing to the death of his uncle, Warren Delano, at Barrytown, N. Y., which has necessitated his return home, Franklin D. Roosevelt will be unable to deliver his speech here tomorrow night, and has authorized its release in the form of a statement by him at the close of his Maine campaign.

Mr. Roosevelt's statement opens with the charge that Republicans are trying to make it appear that Democrats were not good Americans, and preferred an international flag to the Stars and Stripes. It is in large part a reply to the assertions of Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, in Augusta last month, and refers to the text of Mr. Hays's address, "Under Which Flag?" Mr. Roosevelt accuses the Republican Chairman of having "offered a deliberate insult to many millions, probably the majority of our citizens," and of being "guilty not only of bad taste but of poor political judgment."

"The overwhelming majority of voters," says Mr. Roosevelt's statement, "are in every way loyal, and will resent any attempt by one group of leaders to take out an exclusive patent on our flag. To claim that one party doctrine is the only American one is to infer that those who belong to another party faith are un-American. That sort of campaigning ought not to be excused even in the heat of an election."

Mr. Roosevelt declares he would "be the first to insist that Republicans, rank and file, are just as sincerely proud of our country and our flag as Democrats are." "Mr. Hays and his party differed, however," he says, "in the big conception of the great purpose for which our flag is the symbol.

"The same gentleman has used with inaccurate but deliberate carelessness the word 'internationalism.' With evident design, he has sought to convey the impression that people who believe in the League of Nations are 'Internationalists' in the sense used by certain radical groups which do not believe in nations at all or which seek a super-government in place of true national governments. For political purposes he would reason that one who seeks international peace and international agreements and international justice is thereby an international 'Red.'

Points to 37 Members in League.

"The whole falsity of this position is shown by asking the simple question of whether the thirty-seven nations which have already joined the League of Nations have given up their own sovereignty, their own constitutional rights, their own flags. Even Switzerland, most jealous of independence and wary of alliances, has voted by popular referendum to join the League.

"Long before 1914 American statesmen advocated a league of nations. Some, like President Taft, favored one that frankly called itself a league to enforce peace. Yet he was not called a traitor or follower of internationalism.

"We had seen the failure of The Hague Tribunal to prevent wars. We had seen, indeed, an increase in wars and in the preparations for wars. The other nations were well aware that the American flag carried a new message of hope, that it represented a great people opposed to aggression and willing to change the existing conditions of mistrust and competitive armament.

"The Great War came and America at last became a party to the struggle. But we did not join forces for the mere sake of crushing the Kaiser on the field of battle. It was not alone Kaiserism or the Central Powers themselves that we were fighting. We fought for something constructive, in addition to the fight against something destructive. Men and women of all parties united in demanding in 1917 that the evil in the previous relationship between nations should be in the future removed. Mere good will would not remove the danger, mere international courts had been proved a failure. A definite, business-like concrete association was demanded, something that would prevent the causes of trouble and not wait until trouble itself had come to a head.

"In all of this the nation was united. With this spirit and purpose our flag was carried across the seas by the splendid men of our army and navy. The peoples of Europe, too, understood the message. They welcomed the accession of military strength; they knew that the Allies would win in the end; but they saw in the American flag the first sign of hope for their children and grandchildren.

"When the war ended the promise of the American flag seemed to have come true. International law, the relations between nations, was to be put on a new basis. Even the peoples of the Central Empires took hope. Kaiserism was ended, the new relationship was promised in the very terms of the armistice.

"Through all this period our people at home held to the ideal. It was constantly before their eyes. The flag they knew and loved was still spreading through the world the American spirit of service and unselfishness. No voice was heard in opposition to America's proposal that a new order should supersede the old. We were proud that we could have the opportunity to point the way to world peace, not mere cessation of conflict but the peace of permanence.

"An organization to that end was drawn up by the assembled nations, and through it all, America's part was the clearest, the cleanest, and the highest minded of all. In every nation, men and women rejoiced that the spirit of America's flag was being translated into actual accomplishment, and in that rejoicing we shared. Today the accomplishment of the League of Nations has been made. We, the nation whose ideals made it possible, remain without. The flag which carried the hope and the promise is beginning to be viewed with different eyes abroad.

"Not only in France, not only in Europe, but in all the peoples of all the world, lies that hope in our flag. They ask us to go in. They ask not for a new peace commission, not for a new theory, not for a new conference to draw up a new set of rules. They ask a fair trial for what we have undertaken. They ask that America help in the name of humanity. They ask that they be given again the inspiration of our flag.

"Shall we refuse? Shall we for partisanship stand aloof? Shall we forget our history and the history of our flag? America will not fall in the crisis. America will not turn back. America will not forget."

HARDING TO ABANDON PORCH

Will Receive No Delegations at Marion After Sept. 25.

That Senator Harding, Republican Presidential candidate, has definitely decided to abandon his front porch campaign and will receive no delegations at Marion after Sept. 25 was announced yesterday by the New York Salesmen's Harding and Coolidge League of 19 West Forty-fifth Street, which is in the same building as the headquarters of the Republican National Committee.

The league statement said that representatives of 100,000 salesmen and commercial travelers would hold a mass meeting at Carnegie Hall on Sept. 20 and that on Sept. 25 there would be a pilgrimage to Marion.

"This pilgrimage," the statement concluded, "will mark the last of such pilgrimages during the campaign. After Sept. 25 Senator Harding will receive no more delegations at his home."

A prominent Republican connected with the National Committee said the plan was for Senator Harding to make five or six speeches a week during the last four or five weeks of the campaign in cities all over the country.

COX FAVORS GIVING HOMES, NOT BONUS

Would Have Every War Veteran a Freeholder in the Soil of the United States.

THINKS CASH AID NEEDLESS

Asserts Soldiers Have Re-established Themselves Without Help and Need Now Is Land.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Governor James M. Cox in a statement given to The Stars and Stripes, made public tonight, expresses himself as favorable to such substantial aid to the former service men as will enable every man who was under colors to establish himself in a home. He did not see the necessity for a cash bonus, and insisted that the real need was for a home and land. Governor Cox's statement follows:

"It has long been part of my philosophy that every citizen should own his own home. When a man becomes a home owner there ends forever any question of his loyalty, his interest in good government, his sincere participation in the affairs of his country. The men who entered the army, the navy, and the marine corps proved their devotion in an hour of need. Now, therefore, it is no gratuity for the country to aid them in becoming home-owning citizens to whom the future of the nation may well be intrusted.

"What is more, the Democratic platform adopted by the San Francisco Convention harmonizes with my personal views. Therein the leaders of the party declared:

"'We believe that no higher or more valued privilege can be afforded to an American citizen than to become a freeholder in the soil of the United States, and to that end we pledge our party to the enactment of soldier settlements and home-aid legislation which will afford to the men who fought for America the opportunity to become land and home owners under conditions affording genuine Government assistance, unencumbered by needless difficulties of red tape or advance financial investment.'

"That platform I regard as a promissory note, and I shall see that it is paid, every dollar and every cent. And what is more, whether or not the Democratic platform so stipulated, I feel personally that I could engage in no more worthy enterprise, that I could do no greater service to my country if elected President, than to aid every service man—and woman—to become the proud owner of a home.

"I feel that the Democratic Party can well go before the voters of this great country pledged to home-aid for every man and woman who responded in the dark hour when war clouds hung low over the land. I believe firmly in American homes for American fighters.

"In regard to vocational training, I cannot express myself strongly enough in favor of doing everything possible—and doing it expeditiously—to help educate to new usefulness and new helpfulness those who were injured in defending their country. Every civilized nation in the world recognizes its obligation to those who sacrificed themselves in the common cause, and America, rather than following the lead of less fortunate lands, should leave nothing undone to prove that she, indeed, is not forgetful.

"Moreover, the Government, where practical, should not limit its aid only to those who suffered permanent injury. We were sadly shocked at the outbreak of the war to learn the high rate of illiteracy prevailing in many communities. Now is the time to overcome such defects in our national life. Instead of waiting for another crisis to remind us, let's do it now."

Governor Cox's interviewer told him that 90 per cent. of former service men had expressed themselves in favor of a cash bonus, to which he replied:

"I should not say that. Who was it that said 'Statesmanship consists of getting the best possible results at a given time?' So it is now with the readjusted compensation, or cash bonus, as some style it. When the men returned from overseas there was unquestionably a dire need of funds. The Federal Government granted a bonus of $60, but that $60 would hardly buy a suit of 'civvies' to replace the wartorn O.D.

"In the meantime, too, prices of other necessities had soared to the sky, while with the coming of the armistice there was a general shifting of our industrial outlook. At that time there was no question of the need of the men just demobilized. Almost any one would admit it. Yet the months passed and nothing was done by our Republican Congress to bring the thought of adjusted compensation into reality.

"With passing months the argument of immediate need grew less forceful, for the men of the army had re-established themselves without their adjusted compensation. True, they were put to greater difficulties—they had to struggle to overcome the extraordinary circumstances which had arisen while they were in the service of their country.

"Finally, by an eleventh-hour spurt, the bill for soldier relief was passed by the House. Then it was laid on the doorstep of the Senate, while throughout the country ran a propaganda against it.

"Now the question arises, have the people of the country been turned away from the compensation idea, have the former service men and women re-established themselves despite the lack of Government aid? Or, in other words, what are the best possible results that could be had at this particular time? It is because of these new circumstances, keeping in mind at all times that the nation does, beyond gainsay, owe an obligation to the men and women who served, that I am so profoundly interested in Government aid for homes."

for the accident and denounced him as a strikebreaker.

Wallace, the motorman, had remained close to Policeman Kerrigan for protection after the crash, but when he heard the remarks in the crowd he became frightened and fled while the policeman was caring for Mrs. Cooper, who was lying unconscious in the centre of the street, with a deep gash in her head.

His disappearance was not noticed for fifteen minutes after the accident, during which time stores in the vicinity had been turned into improvised hospitals, into which the wounded passengers were carried. Women ran from their homes with pillows and bed clothing on which to place the injured, and several provided first aid emergency kits, which the policemen used.

On the arrival of ambulances the more seriously injured were removed to the Norwegian, Kings County and Methodist Episcopal Hospitals. About fifteen women and children were stunned when thrown out of the bus and most of these were hurried to the Norwegian Hospital.

Later all but Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Cooper and Max Rotnman, 36 years old, of 1,336 Brook Avenue, the Bronx, were taken to their homes. Rothman's left arm and right thigh were fractured when the automobile struck the telegraph pole, but it was reported at the hospital last night that his condition was not considered dangerous.

Amhof, chauffeur of the bus, and Thomas Smith of 131 West Thirty-sixth Street, Manhattan, conductor of the trolley car, were taken to the Fort Hamilton Station, where they were questioned by Assistant District Attorney Wilson.

MISS HAY FOR MRS. BOOLE.

Will Support Her in the Senatorial Primary.

Miss Mary Garrett Hay, Chairman of the New York City League of Women Voters, who announced on Thursday that she intended to vote for Lieut. Gov. Harry C. Walker, Democratic candidate for United States Senator, at the general election in November, issued a statement yesterday endorsing the candidacy of Mrs. Ella A. Boole, candidate for the Republican nomination against Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., and urging all Republicans to vote for her. Miss Hay is a Republican and was formerly Chairman of the Women's Division of the Republican National Committee.

"At the election on Nov. 2," said Miss Hay, "I am anxious to give my vote to the candidate who has the best chance of defeating Senator Wadsworth. I, therefore, feel it my duty to vote for the candidate of the other large party, who, it appears, will be Mr. Walker. I would like to support Mrs. Boole right through the election, but I feel that it is important to support the man who seems most likely to defeat Senator Wadsworth."

of tea until they read an alias under which, it is charged, he carried on the transactions for which he is indicted. They said the knowledge that they knew this other name, which they refused to divulge last night, appeared to disconcert him a trifle—but not much.

Right after that, they said, a beautiful young woman, with blond hair and blue eyes, rushed up to say "Good-bye" to him. He asked the agents if they would mind acting as if he weren't under arrest. They complied. And then, they said, he waved her "Good-bye" with a charming smile and the promise that he would see her soon.

They all agreed, too, that it had been seldom, if ever, that such a handsome prisoner, and one with such excellent deportment and icy self-control, had been entertained in the Department of Justice headquarters. With his black hair sleeked straight back, his dark-gray eyes, under heavy black brows, looking straight into the eyes of his questioners, with his clear olive complexion and with a cigarette in his slim fingers, Pteriosis looked to every one to be as innocent and guileless as he calmly and equably insisted he was.

The agents said his method of getting money was simple. They said he shipped two bags of coffee or two bags of rice to those firms in Greece with whom he had arranged his letters of credit. The steamship line would give him a bill of lading. He would erase the two bags of sugar or rice and with a billing machine substitute 2,200 bags, or double bags, of fine granulated sugar. Then, to put a bit of gilding on his handiwork, the agents asserted, he would have the consignment of sugar, that existed only on paper, insured. After that he would go to one of the banks where were his letters of credit and get the money.

"He out-Ponzied Ponzi," the agents said last night.

According to the story authorized by Mr. Reddy, however, the scheme of the youthful Greek was not put through without much careful preparation. Here it is as the Government agents told it to a reporter for THE NEW YORK TIMES last night, and the way that Assistant United States Attorney Kelly plans to lay it before a jury in the United States District Court:

Last October Pteriosis, Brouzos and others whose names were withheld last night, had incorporated with the Secretary of State the American Company of Commerce. This concern opened an office at 79 Wall Street. Two hundred dollars was paid down on fancy furniture. Along in April, there having been no payments made on the furniture, the company moved by request.

Meanwhile the American Company of Commerce had been turned over into the names of three dummies. No longer was Pteriosis President and Treasurer and Brouzos Secretary, as originally. The dummies had all the offices. And under the alias Pteriosis and those who are accused with him opened another office at 47 West Forty-second Street.

During the early days Pteriosis had arranged with firms in Greece for his letters of credit with the big banks here. He had quoted prices on sugar so low that he could not have bought the sugar for his own prices here in New York at wholesale. He was offering it in Greece for 11 cents a pound. He didn't have to worry about orders. They came in bunches.

All this time he was using the fancy stationery of the American Company of Commerce, with the Wall Street address engraved upon it. His mail went to the Wall Street address and was forwarded to him. Agents said that he established credits of $1,500,000.

Then his shipments began. There were eleven altogether and they were made between May 5 and June 4 on the Cunard Line and the American, Mediterranean and Levant Line. The first ship carrying the two bags of coffee, instead of 2,200 double bags of the finest granulated sugar, reached Piraeus, Greece, on June 6. Pteriosis sailed for France on June 5.

On June 7 or 8, the American Express Company received a cable dispatch that the sugar wasn't on the steamer. The investigation that led to the indictments and arrests began then.

The amounts that were received on the fraudulent bills of lading ran from $23,750 up to $40,750. The agents said that Pteriosis had sent 1,000,000 drachmas, or about $100,000 at current rates of exchange, to his father and mother in Greece. They went to London, where he just left them to sail on the Adriatic.

That was the great difficulty, the agents explained—to get Pteriosis to come back to the United States. There was many difficulties about extradition. They wanted him here. So, while an agent followed him in his travels in France and England, other agents here went about the difficult task of keeping those who are charged with having been his accomplices under surveillance, and creating in their minds the impression that the Department of Justice agents and the banks had given up the investigation as "too expensive" and "too hard ever to get anywhere."

So cleverly did the agents work out this plan that the friends of Pteriosis sent him cablegrams—of which the agents say they have copies—assuring him that all inquiries had been dropped.

The agent watching Pteriosis abroad was sending reports meanwhile that the young man had opened an office in London, and that he was promising all of his acquaintances that he would make them rich by the cloth exporting business. He assured them that he was coming back to the United States to make "easy millions," according to the investigators. And all the time he had kept an office under his own name at 126 Liberty Street. He was listed there as an "exporter."

Finally, a few days ago came a welcome cablegram from London—where, agents say, Pteriosis is best remembered as the man who promised to "make us all millionaires"—that read: "Bird is on way home."

That cabled message was welcome not only to the agents in New York, it also was good news to William H. Flynn, Director of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice. He had been keeping a particularly watchful eye and a cautiously guiding hand on the invisible net of counter-intrigue that was being spread by his men.

The agents said they knew little of the previous life of Pteriosis. They said he had lived in the Hotel Commodore and at Bretton Hall, and others of the expensive hotels and apartments. They said that neither here nor abroad was there any indication that he had lived any but a most conservative although epicurean life. He didn't go in for excesses, but he went in strong for the enjoyment of the good things in life. They said he might have been a model young man—and is if the facts charged in the indictment shouldn't hold before a jury.

GOVERNOR WILL TRY TO END B.R.T. STRIKE

service on the subway, elevated and surface systems of the B. R. T. had improved considerably by the time the evening homeward rush began.

While dense crowds of Brooklynites filled the terminals of the lines on the Manhattan side of the East River bridges, the rapidity with which these crowds were absorbed by the elevated and surface systems showed unmistakable evidence of great improvement in the transit service. At 7 o'clock last evening, however, service on the surface lines crossing the Brooklyn and Williamsburgh Bridges was halted.

Held Without Bail.

Eight of the nine indicted strikers were arraigned before Judge Haskell in the Brooklyn County Court soon after the indictments were handed up. They were held without bail. District Attorney Lewis said later that the police expected to arrest the ninth man mentioned in the indictment within a few hours. The eight strikers remanded on the murder charge were James L. del Papial, 25, 1,202 Sixtieth Street; Sylvio Orisino, 25, same address; Frank Marzano, 23, same address; Michael Colucio, 23, of 1,330 Sixty-fourth Street; Paul Antonelli, 27, of 25 Bay Fourteenth Street; Michael Freeman, 17, of 328 Park Place, and Angelo Spracco, 23, of 1,452 Sixty-fourth Street, formerly employed as guards on the Sea Beach Line, and Simon Cohen, 22, of 834 West Twenty-second Street, a former conductor on that line.

District Attorney Lewis announced that he had received a report from the Kings County Hospital to the effect that [illegible] W. Fairbanks, who also suffered a fractured skull from a stone thrown by one of the strikers, was in a dying condition. He intimated that in the event of the motorman's death he would ask the Grand Jury to return an additional indictment for murder against the nine men indicted yesterday.

Five hundred men and boys at 9 o'clock last night surrounded a Vanderbilt Avenue car at Park and Marcy Avenues, and, after forcing the motorman and conductor to flee for their lives, smashed the windows of the car. The motorman of the car, which was on its way from Coney Island to Manhattan, being unfamiliar with the route, switched the car to the Ridgewood line when he came to Vanderbilt and Park Avenues instead of turning in the direction of the Brooklyn Bridge.

Crowd Jeers Bewildered Crew.

About fifty strikers and sympathizers were at the corner when the green crew hove in sight with the car, and when they saw the crew undecided as to what way to switch the car they began jeering them. The motorman became excited, and started the car up Park Avenue, with the crowd following. By the time the car reached Marcy Avenue the crowd had increased to 500.

The motorman stopped the car, and when he and the conductor jumped off men and boys ran inside and began smashing the windows and destroying the register. The reserves were summoned from the Vernon Avenue station, and Policeman Minnion arrested John Russo, 23 years old, of 71 Ellery Street, accusing him of breaking windows. Russo said he was an elevated guard, but denied taking part in damaging the car, and said he had been a passenger on it. He was locked up on a charge of malicious mischief. A wrecking crew from a barn was sent after the car.

The only trouble reported to the B. R. T. officials during the preceding night was to the effect that a band of strikers attacked a West End train as it was entering the Bay Parkway station at 9:30 P. M. and threw a dozen small stones through the car windows. None of the passengers was injured, however. The strikers fled before policemen could reach them.

Receiver Garrison reported to Public Service Commissioner Nixon at noon yesterday that during the morning rush 683 surface cars were operated, a decrease of 37 from Thursday's operation in the same period. Mr. Garrison also reported that the company had resumed service on the Putnam Avenue line with thirty-five cars, and on the Jamaica Avenue line with sixteen cars.

The receiver reported that the company made its greatest gain in service on the elevated and subway lines, trains being operated during the day at about 75 per cent. of normal. The Culver elevated line was in operation to Coney Island, as well as the Brighton-Franklin Avenue line, the Sea Beach line and the Brighton subway line.

He stated that cars were in operation yesterday morning on fifty-one surface lines, which carried passengers across the Brooklyn and Williamsburg bridges, and between midnight and 6 o'clock yesterday morning seventy-five trains, with a total of 231 cars, were operated over the B. R. T. subway and elevated systems.

Trains Run to Park Row.

Receiver Garrison also announced that shuttle service on the Manhattan Avenue Line, which operates from Greenpoint to Long Island City, was increased with the operation of 187 trains with a total of 898 cars; an increase of 19 trains or 38 cars over the preceding twenty-four hours. Trains also were run to Park Row, Manhattan.

Only 53 out of the 4,700 surface car strikers returned to work, according to William Reilly, Secretary of their union. George F. Tracey, President of the shop men's union, said that of the 3,800 shop workers who struck only 68 were at work.

Mr. Garrison denied a report that 1,100 women employed in stations of the B. R. T. had joined the strikers. He said all of the women were at work yesterday with the exception of ninety who joined the strikers when they walked out two weeks ago.

Service Uniforms Barred.

Le Roy W. Ross, United States Attorney for Brooklyn, announced yesterday that he would begin legal proceedings against any striker or sympathizer wearing a uniform of the United States armed forces during disturbances in the streets growing out of the strike. He said he was investigating reports that men in soldiers' and sailors' uniforms participated in the disturbance on Labor Day at Prospect Park Plaza.

Mr. Ross claimed that Major Gen. Robert L. Bullard, Commander of the Department of the East, had sent him a letter in which he declared that the wearing of a soldier's or sailor's uniform at a labor demonstration was a violation of the Federal law.

The Federal prosecutor said he had written to Police Commissioner Enright for a list of the men arrested at the riot on Labor Day, who were alleged to have been wearing United States uniforms at that time. As soon as he receives the list, Mr. Ross said, he will begin proceedings against the men.

Bolshevist agitators renewed their efforts yesterday to have the strikers resort to violence. Policemen reported that pamphlets condemning the police and the B. R. T. officials for their alleged ill-treatment of the strikers were slyly circulated by the agitators by the aid of children.

Early in the morning Policeman Sweetzer found a package of handbills purporting to have been issued by the Communist Party in the Long Island Railroad Station at Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn. The handbills called for "more direct action" on the part of the strikers, and urged them to rid themselves of the officials of their unions, specifically mentioning Vice President Shea of the Amalgamated Association, who were declared to be in league with the officials of the B. R. T. in defeating the strikers.

Eight young men arrested on suspicions of having discharged pistols at a Culver line train at Gravesend and Twenty-second Avenues, Wednesday night, were fined $5 each in the Flatbush Court. The policemen said the shots were fired from a taxicab, and that they found the prisoners in a taxicab a short distance from the scene of the shooting. The youths declared they knew nothing about the shooting, but admitted they had been drinking.

THOMPSON RAISES MILK PRICE ISSUE

Asks if Loton Horton Will Defeat Remedial Legislation if Miller Wins.

ARRAIGNS CRUCIBLE STEEL

Declares It Dominated the "Unofficial" Republican Convention at Saratoga.

Continuing his campaign yesterday and last night for the Republican nomination for Governor against ex-Judge Nathan L. Miller, the organization candidate, State Senator George F. Thompson asked a series of questions regarding what his opponent intended to do if elected. Senator Thompson continued his allusions to Speaker Sweet of the Assembly, Horace S. Wilkinson, President of the Crucible Steel Company, who was charged with being responsible for ex-Judge Miller's nomination at Saratoga; William Hamlin Childs, Mark Daly, representing the Associated Industries of New York State; Alexander Cowie, counsel for the New York Central Railroad, William Barnes, and many others prominent in Republican organization politics. Speaking in City Hall Park during the afternoon and at the Girls' High School at night, Senator Thompson said in part:

"Everybody is acquainted with the sensational rise of Crucible Steel on the Stock Exchange. The politicians were in on the ground floor. The stock tip raised the mortgage for more than one Republican boss. So when the Republican Party met in 'unofficial' convention at Saratoga, Wilkinson, Cowie and Childs were able to exact payment in full for past favors by forcing their intimate friend, Mr. Miller, on the Republican Party.

"Mr. Miller was personal counsel for Wilkinson, who is a director of the Barrett Manufacturing Company, 'the paving trust.' Mr. Miller was counsel for the Solvay Process Company of Syracuse, a chemical company united with the Barrett Company in the recently announced great chemical company merger involving a capitalization of $300,000,000. Mr. Miller appeared as counsel for Mr. Cowie and the traction trust in demanding the passage by the State Legislature of the Carson-Martin increased fare bills, written by Sweet and Brown and sanctioned by Miller and Walters.

"All of these men were active in forcing Miller upon the Republican Party at Saratoga, and in demanding a stand in the party platform for repeal of the direct primaries and a return to the boss-owned convention system of nomination."

Mr. Thompson then asked what these men would demand, in the event of ex-Judge Miller's election. He went on:

"If Mr. Miller is nominated and elected, will Mr. Loton Norton, through his agents at Albany, continue his successful efforts to defeat legislation looking toward reduction of the price of milk to the poor babies in congested State centres of population and an increase of the prices to New York State farmers to cover cost of production?

"If Mr. Miller is nominated and elected, will "Boss" Barnes be given the newsstand privileges of the State Capitol for freer distribution of his 'campaign book?'

"Why are these eminent gentlemen behind Mr. Miller? Why did they force his designation upon the Republican Party at Saratoga? Why did they unite with Sweet and Walters and Barnes and Brown to write into the party platform the repeal of the district primaries?

"Is the Republican machine a business organization, which has paid big dividends to its Directors? Don't the Republican bosses and 'business' men behind Miller want to give the people a voice in their government?"

ENRIGHT IN AUTO CRASH.

His Car Damages Doctor's — Surprised Physician Gets Summons.

Police Commissioner Enright's auto and the car of Dr. Charles R. Dayton of 132 Herkimer Street collided yesterday morning at Pacific Street and New York Avenue, Brooklyn, which caused Dr. Dayton's vehicle to slip on the wet pavement and crash against an electric light pole, disabling his car and damaging the pole. Dr. Dayton and his companion were not hurt, but while he was recovering from this shock he got a second one in the form of a summons, delivered by the chauffeur of the police car, a Detective Sergeant. This called upon him to appear in the Gates Avenue Court today.

According to Dr. Dayton's version of the accident he considered the police chauffeur to blame and expected apologies instead of prosecution. Commissioner Enright, who was on his way to Police Headquarters at the time, drove away and left the doctor and his stalled car at the curb. So far as could be learned the police car was not damaged.

Dr. Dayton got a camera from Dr. Charles Seydll, at 1,293 Fulton Street, returned to the place of the accident, made photographs of the pavement where it had occurred and of the damaged auto, presumably for his defense in the Traffic Court, and had his car towed away for repairs.

HARRIMAN FORCES ESCAPE PUNISHMENT

They Lift Libel on Ship and Thus Purge Themselves of Contempt.

INJUNCTION PLEA HEARD

Kerr-Clegg Group Push Case Before Justice Lehman in Supreme Court.

Two separate actions were heard in the Supreme Court yesterday as a result of the conflict between the shipping interests backed by W. Averill Harriman and those headed by Alfred E. Clegg and Henry F. Kerr.

In the first Supreme Court Justice Richard H. Mitchell signed an order providing that no penalty be imposed upon Mr. Harriman and his associates, R. H. M. Robinson and Ira A. Campbell, whom he had adjudged in contempt of court on Thursday. The order read that "punishment be withheld and suspended" in consideration of the fact that the three defendants had purged themselves of their offense by withdrawing a libel against the steamship Kerlew. An addition to the order read, "Ordered that no punishment for said contempt be imposed."

In the second Supreme Court Justice Irving Lehman heard arguments on an order to show cause why a temporary injunction secured by the Kerr-Clegg group restraining the Harriman interests from interfering with the operation and control of the Kerlew should not be extended to Oct. 25. It was the action of the Harriman interests in going to the United States courts for a libel against the Kerlew after the temporary injunction had been issued against them in the State Courts that resulted in the contempt proceedings. Justice Lehman set Monday as the time limit for filing briefs.

$4,900,000 Seizure Touched On.

John B. Stanchfield, who represented the Kerr-Clegg interests before Justice Lehman, referred again to the seizure by United States Internal Revenue Agents on Saturday, Aug. 28, of the $4,900,000 in $10,000 bills that the Harriman interests had paid to Kerr and Clegg for their share of stock in certain ships. He said his client, the Kerr Steamship Company, Inc., was within its rights in assuming that the Government had been told of the transfer of the money by the defendant corporation, the Kerr Navigation Corporation, or its agents. Mr. Harriman is President of the Kerr Navigation Corporation. Mr. Kerr is President and Mr. Clegg is Vice President of the Kerr Steamship Company, Inc.

Mr. Stanchfield characterized as "high-handed, extraordinary and illegal" the action of the defendant in trying to take the operation of the nine ships involved in the transfer from his client before the expiration of 90 days of grace provided in an agreement between the Kerr-Clegg and the Harriman interests in September, 1919.

This agreement provided that the Kerr Steamship Company, Inc., should operate the ships for five years, with the conditional provision that the contract might be terminated after one year by purchase of the plaintiff's stock, with the 90-day notice referred to.

26,000 Shares to be Delivered.

As outlined by Mr. Stanchfield, Mr. Kerr, Mr. Clegg and their associates held 40,000 shares of Class A and 35,000 shares of Class B stock. The price to be paid was $100 a share, with $7 a share additional for each $100 of Class A stock if no dividend had been declared. Forty-nine thousand shares were tendered and paid for in the cash transaction of Aug. 28, which first brought the shipping quarrel to public notice. This left 26,000 shares to be delivered and paid for. Mr. Stanchfield contended that his client had until midnight on the eighty-ninth day to turn over the remaining shares, and until that time to continue to operate the ships under the agreement which gave them 5 per cent. of the gross earnings.

George A. Ellis, who with Martin Tayler appeared for the defendant corporation, said that Mr. Harriman and his associates, so far from trying to impose upon the plaintiff, simply had acted to protect themselves, because it appeared absolutely necessary. The plaintiff, he said, had failed to account, as the contract required it should, at the end of each trip, and was some $200,000 in arrears—perhaps $350,000—when the defendant took its steps. He declared that there were indications of secret profits and rebates, that the plaintiff had taken certain Spanish ships and put them on the Hamburg-American route, while placing former Austrian ships, owned by the defendant, in South American trade.

Ships Diverted, Counsel Complains.

"After ninety days' notice had been served," Mr. Ellis said, "our client was informed that ships would be diverted to other routes and agents changed. In fact, the agency was taken from the Hamburg-American Line offices in Hamburg. We acted simply because we had to."

Justice Lehman said the question before the court was whether, if an agency existed, there existed sufficient grounds for the defendant to undertake the discharge of its agent.

In the contempt proceedings earlier Mr. Campbell was the only one of the three who had been found guilty to arrive in Justice Mitchell's chambers. William N. Parke represented John B. Stanchfield, counsel for the plaintiff company. Mr. Campbell explained to Justice Mitchell that his associates and he had taken such steps as were needed to remove all possible violation of the injunction of the court. He explained that the libel levied against the steamship Kerlew by the defendant corporation had been raised and that there were no further steps pending or in operation in violation of the court's order. Justice Mitchell then entered the order directing that no punishment be imposed.

PREDICTS INDICTMENTS.

Chicago District Attorney Begins Drive on Coal Profiteers.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—Action in the long-promised Federal investigation of coal profiteering began today when District Attorney Clyne called for examination the first of the wholesale dealers who are to be interrogated. Mr. Clyne announced that the indictment of at least a half dozen wholesalers under the Lever act could be expected before the end of the week.

"While some of the trouble is due to the car shortage and labor difficulties," said Mr. Clyne, "there can be no question that profiteering is in progress on a huge scale."

The District Attorney asked one coal dealer to explain a complaint from an Iowa retailer that his company had raised the price of the same grade of coal three times within six weeks, from $5.50 to $11.50 a ton. The same grade sold for $1.85 a ton in 1915.

The dealer admitted the increase in prices but contended it had been made necessary by the difficulty in procuring coal and the labor situation.

Plans are being made by the Chicago Association of Commerce for the distribution on Sept. 25 of "save coal day" tags urging coal, light and gas consumers to economize to avert a fuel famine. [illegible] will be distributed [illegible]

CHILE-PERU FEUD MAY BE SETTLED

Tacna and Arica Provinces to be Chile's for $21,000,000, Buenos Aires Hears.

DIPLOMATIC DENIALS MADE

Washington Awaits Confirmation of Terms Reported as Assuring Peace in South America.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 10.—Final settlement of the Tacna-Arica question, which has been considered the most serious menace to South American peace, through the payment by Chile to Peru of £6,000,000 (about $21,000,000) has been virtually agreed upon, according to a dispatch today to La Nacion from Santiago, quoting financial and diplomatic sources.

The message declares that, following the Bolivian revolution, which resulted in mobilization of the armies of Chile and Peru and threatened hostilities between the two countries, President Wilson suggested a conference of representatives of both nations, offering the use of the gunboat Tacoma, which was in the Bay of Callao, for the conduct of the negotiations.

On acceptance of this proposition by Peru, continues the dispatch, Chile sent Dr. Puga Borne, who when Chilean Minister of Foreign Affairs had tried to effect a settlement, to meet the Peruvian delegates.

As a result of the conferences extending over a period of three weeks, adds the dispatch, it is reported that Peru agreed to renounce her rights to the Provinces of Tacna and Arica, annul the existing treaties affecting those provinces, upon receipt of the sum mentioned, and enter into a reciprocal commercial treaty with Chile.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Reports of a virtual settlement of the Tacna-Arica dispute between Chile and Peru lacked confirmation here today, although the situation has been closely watched since President Wilson suggested that the two countries seek to end by direct negotiations a problem that has threatened the peace of South America for thirty years.

While Mr. Wilson offered at the same time the use of the American gunboat Tacoma, at Callao, Peru, for the conferences, thus far the State Department has not been advised that any meetings have taken place on the ship.

Officials expressed doubt that any settlement could be proposed to which Peru would agree that did not include Bolivia. They did not doubt, however, that a sincere effort was being made by both countries to compose their differences.

Rumors have reached the department several times that an agreement had been formulated, but each time it has been officially denied by diplomats of both countries.

stood. His case is said to be before the State Department in Washington. An investigation made by the American Consul at Queenstown is declared to have established the fact that Murphy was born in Lynn, Massachusetts, and brought, when an infant, to Ireland by his father, who was a British subject.

On behalf of the correspondent the jail officials questioned Murphy this afternoon regarding his citizenship. He is very low, but he replied in a weak voice, "I am an American." The jailors say Murphy is registered as an American.

Labor Drops MacSwiney Matter.

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Sept. 10.—During this morning's proceedings of the Trades Union Congress a delegate asked if a reply had been received from the Government to the telegram sent by the Congress demanding the release of Lord Mayor MacSwiney.

The President of the congress answered in the negative and declined to accede to the delegate's requst to have the subject introduced, pointing out that the only resolution the congress could pass would be one in favor of a "down tools" policy. This matter, the President declared, was not on the agenda of the congress and therefore the Congress was not competent to discuss such a resolution.

The congress supported the President's ruling.

Search of scientific records here yesterday revealed several instances where persons have undergone voluntary fasts of from thirty-one to forty-five days' duration without appreciable injurious effects. Some of the "fasters" were "professionals," but many others volunteered to abstain from feeding as scientific subjects, the records show.

The longest officially authorized fast on record for scientific purposes, according to Dr. Francis G. Benedict of the Carnegie Nutrition Laboratory of Boston, in "A Study of Prolonged Fasting," was that undertaken by Nucci, the Italian professional faster, in New York, starting Nov. 6, 1890, and lasting forty-five days. The man suffered no ill effects, the report said, although he had undergone six previous fasts in Europe ranging from twenty to forty days each.

The most famous American volunteer faster was the late Dr. Henry S. Tanner, who first attracted notice in 1877 by a voluntary ten days' fast in Minneapolis, in an effort to cure an ailment of the heart from which he suffered. So greatly was he benefited at the end of the tenth day that he continued the fast to forty-two days. The feat made him the first person of modern times to endure a food abstinence test of such duration.

Because of the skepticism in medical circles as to the genuineness of his fast, Dr. Tanner offered to repeat the exploit under whatever conditions might be named. It was finally agreed to hold the test under the supervision of a prominent New York medical college, and the official fast commenced on June 28, 1880, the subject being put in a bare room and watched constantly. For fourteen days he was permitted neither water nor exercise, but as a result of public protest he later was allowed water and a daily carriage ride. The test, which attracted nation-wide attention, lasted forty days. He broke both fasts by eating fruits and suffered no ill effects.

Dr. Benedict also cited a 30-day fast, from May 16 to June 14, 1910, performed in London, England, by a volunteer named Gayer. This man, although he lost considerable weight, was reported never to have suffered any pain or bad after-effects.

One of the most remarkable food abstinence tests reported by Dr. Benedict was endured in Boston under his personal direction by R. Levangin, a Maltese editor, from April 14 to May 13, 1912, thirty-one days. The man volunteered to undergo the fast and came from Malta especially for that purpose.

He was physically a normal man, aged 40 years. During the fast period the only thing that passed the man's lips was distilled water, and for the first ten days, the report says, he did not crave food or show any appreciable loss of weight or vitality. Except on the twenty-first and twenty-second days, when he suffered slight pains in the muscles, there was no distress, Dr. Benedict reports, and when the time for the fast was up his physical condition, except for a slight loss of weight, was nearly normal.

Levanain, the report said, on the last day of the fast was eager to continue without food, but he was not permitted to do so. On the last day the man was able to climb up and down a steep flight of ten steps without ill effects. The fast was broken with lemons, grape juice, rice and honey. When the fast was broken the subject suffered slight intestinal pain, but apart from that and a loss in weight he was unharmed.

What Republicans Offer In Place of the League

Senator Harding's mention of putting "teeth" in his proposed reconstructed Hague Tribunal evokes only jeers from the Democratic friends of the League of Nations. "Political dentists," observes the New York World (Dem.), "will tell him that without a League only false teeth are possible now," and the Richmond Journal's (Dem.) title for an editorial on the subject is "Harding's False-Teeth Proposal." On the other hand, prominent Republican newspapers are enthusiastic over the Republican candidate's plan, the New York Tribune declaring that while the Harding program "promises no millennium, it is definite and affirmative, whereas the Cox program is vague and negative."

So that the public may more fully understand just what is offered by both parties, THE LITERARY DIGEST, in its issue of September 11th, publishes an enlightening article, drawn from editorial statements by American newspapers, comprehensive, unbiased, and deeply interesting. 4 CHILDREN KILLED, 5 INJURED BY AUTOS

Police Are Keeping Up Their Campaign of Arrests for Reckless Driving.

JAIL FOR FOUR CHAUFFEURS

Mother of One Victim Identifies Her Boy's Body in Police Station.

Four children were killed and five injured yesterday in automobile and traffic accidents in the city and vicinity. Meantime, the police and the Traffic Court continued their campaign of arrests for reckless driving, four chauffeurs being sentenced to jail for from three to five days.

Joseph Kroljic, 5 years old, 170 West Street, was run down and killed last night by a taxicab driven by Daniel M. Sullivan, 22 Newton Avenue, Astoria, L. I. Sullivan placed the boy in the cab and hurried to the Broad Street Hospital. There the boy was pronounced dead by Dr. Abbott. Sullivan then took the body to the Beach Street Police Station, where he was locked up on a charge of homicide. The mother of the boy, Mrs. Anna Kroljic, went to the police station shortly afterward and identified the body.

Ida Dormana, 6 years old, 341 East 107th Street, was fatally injured last night when she was struck by an automobile owned by Dr. Bosque of the Gedney Farms Hotel, White Plains, N. Y., and driven by Andrew McKenna, 705 Butler Street, Brooklyn. She was taken to Reception Hospital, where she died. According to the police the accident was unavoidable and McKenna was not held. The rear right wheel of the automobile passed over the girl's body.

Stella Buckner, 12 years old, of 233 Varick Street, Jersey City, was killed by a United States mail truck yesterday as she was crossing the street near her home. The driver was held by the police.

Steven Pangarkos, 4 years old, of 53 Sixth Avenue died in St. Vincent's Hospital last night as a result of injuries suffered when he was thrown from his father's wagon in a collision with an eastbound Eighth Street crosstown car. The car "sidewiped" the wagon, and the boy was thrown from the seat, where he had been riding with his father.

Others injured were Frank Klug, 6 years old, 331 East Forty-sixth Street; Mary Giangsto, 2 years old, 2,206 Fifth Avenue; Stephen Damovitze, 8 years old, 147 Cedar Street, and Helen Scully, 3 years old, 560 West Fifty-second Street. Surgeons said that the condition of the Giangsto baby and the Damovitze boy was critical and their recovery not expected. Several older persons also were injured.

In a drive against reckless motorists, Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb in the Traffic Court imposed fines totalling $2,600 on 121 chauffeurs found guilty of violating the traffic ordinances and sent several drivers to jail when they defaulted on their fines.

In sending Alexander Aronson, a mail truck driver, 149 Forsyth Street, to jail for fifteen days, Magistrate Cobb said: "There is too much reckless driving by mail drivers and it must be stopped. They are a danger the way they dash through our city streets without regard for life or limb."

On July 30 Aronson was driving his truck on Fourth Avenue near Twenty-sixth Street, when it crashed into Engine Truck 16, which was turning the corner of Twenty-sixth Street. The engine was knocked over and several firemen were thrown to the street.

Stella Buckner, 12 years old, 233 Varick Street, Jersey City, was killed last night by a United States mail truck near her home. The driver, William Percheiden, 47 South Seventh Street, Mount Vernon, N. Y., was arrested on a charge of manslaughter.

REPLACE IRISH PIER MEN.

British Lines Hire Union Negroes as "Vacation" Goes On.

The British steamship lines using the Chelsea piers yesterday made good their threat that they would make contracts with new stevedores for men to replace the Irish longshoremen who have been taking what they call a "vacation" at the expense of the Friends of Irish Freedom to protest against the imprisonment of Mayor MacSwiney and the arrest of Archbishop Mannix.

The contract was made with Thomas Hogan & Sons, Inc., of the Produce Exchange, and several hundred negro longshoremen were put to work to the surprise of the vacationists lounging in front of the piers, who started to make a demonstration at the local union headquarters, Twenty-third Street and Eleventh Avenue, where the leaders informed them that the negroes were all union men and it was perfectly legitimate, as there was no strike on. About 250 of the new men were waiting on the White Star Pier No. 60 for the Adriatic to land and handle the baggage and cargo.

The Irish longshoremen have been away from the piers for two weeks and have been paid by the Friends of Irish Freedom at the same rate as the women pickets, $8 a day. How long this will continue has not been stated. The pay on the piers is 80 cents an hour, with double pay for Sundays and holidays and $1.20 an hour for overtime.

The Future Banking Centre

For Your Permanent Business Home

Fenimore C. Goode of Brett & Goode Co. says:

MILLIONS of dollars were invested in real estate in the Uptown Business district,—the Terminal Zone,—before the most conservative element in New York, the Bankers, began to acquire locations for main, or branch offices.

Now, however, a number of the largest, and most valuable buildings in the district are controlled by some of the most prominent Banks and Trust Companies in New York; by banking houses of wide reputation; or by Industrial Concerns closely allied with the banking group.

My confidence in the mortgage-free Park-Madison Building is based not only on the advantages of the plan, and the extraordinary low cost of office space in this building, but also upon the certainty that many of the larger concerns, now located downtown, will follow in the train of the uptown movement. Their competitors, already established there, have the advantage of being located many miles nearer to the concentrated wealth of the City's most influential residential, hotel, shopping, mercantile, and amusement centres.

The Park-Madison Building is superbly located, at Park and Madison Avenues, 46th to 47th Streets, on a site the location and area of which cannot be duplicated in the uptown business zone.

Under the Park-Madison Ownership Plan, a purchaser can, reduce the cost of his space to $1.68 and $2.24 per sq. ft. by charging 6% on the investment and 2% to be applied to amortizing the invested capital in 24 years, thereafter rent free.

GRANTS INJUNCTION AGAINST $1.40 GAS

Court Says That Rate of Brooklyn Borough Company Is Not Supported by Law.

UPHOLDS CONSUMER'S PLEA

Service Board's Power to Fix a Price Higher Than That in Statutes Is Denied.

Supreme Court Justice Townsend Scudder in Brooklyn yesterday granted a temporary injunction to Gerald Morrell of 2,011 East Thirteenth Street, restraining the Brooklyn Borough Gas Company from charging him at the rate of $1.40 a thousand cubic feet for gas supplied and from entering the premises of the plaintiff to change the meter to conform with the new rate.

The Brooklyn Borough Gas Company supplies the Coney Island and adjacent districts. On July 2 last the Public Service Commission of the First District issued an order providing that the maximum price of gas to be charged by the company should be $1.15 to July 31 and $1.40 on and after Aug. 1. Mr. Morrell argued that this order of the commission was void, of no effect in law and not binding on the plaintiff or any consumer of the company's gas; that the rate of $1.40 fixed by the order of the commission was unjust and excessive. Mr. Morrell also stated that the company had threatened to enter his premises to change the meter.

Citing the case of the Municipal Gas Company against the Public Service Commission, Justice Scudder said that the Public Service Commission had no power to make the order fixing a rate for the defendant in excess of the statutory maximum, although the statutory rate had been adjudged confiscatory and void. He was also of the opinion that the allegation in the complaint that the $1.40 rate was unjust and exorbitant and more than sufficient to reasonably compensate the defendant for its public service was a pleadable conclusion of fact.

"I cannot agree with the contention of defendant's counsel," said the court, "that because the statutory rate has been declared unconstitutional and void that defendant may resort to the common law right of owners of public utilities, within reasonable limits, to fix their own prices for service rendered. In the present case, defendant asks the court to hold that the statutory rate being void and the Public Service Commission having no power to fix the rate, the rate fixed by the defendant is to be deemed a charge allowed by law, and is therefore to be presumed just and reasonable.

"I cannot so hold. It is clearly the intention of the Legislature, by provision of the Public Service Commission law, to take away from gas corporations any power to fix their rates and to determine themselves what is just and reasonable.

"The rate the defendant is attempting to enforce is not supported by statute or judgment of any court. The order of the Public Service Commission was void. The rate has not in any way been allowed by law, and there is no presumption that it is reasonable."

In granting the injunction pending action, Justice Scudder said that the proper rate could be determined by the judgment, and that plaintiff might be required to pay an additional sum for gas if the temporary rate fixed by the injunction order was too low. The court would fix the temporary rate to be paid by the plaintiff within a few days. The plaintiff was required to give an undertaking in $500 to pay any sum which the judgment might direct him to pay to the defendant.

At the same time Justice Scudder granted permission to the city to intervene as a party plaintiff and suggested that the city bring action as trustee to have the gas rate fixed. The Justice gave it as his opinion that the courts had the right to fix the rate.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Sept. 10.—Admittedly because of the provisions of the Nineteenth Amendment, the entire Election Board of the West End district of the Second Ward of this city has resigned. The members are John A. Eaton and William R. Nixon, Republicans, and James Catternach and John McCarthy, Democrats.

They told city officials that the proposed increase in compensation would not atone for the fact that they would have to go from house to house and ask the women voters questions they would be "proverbially disinclined to answer."

Runs Screaming to Stage.

Meanwhile, Jake Heller, another delegate, who said he represented the Reefer Makers' Union, No. 17, who gave his address as 117 Second Avenue, ran screaming to the stage and sought the protection of President Gompers, declaring he had been assaulted.

With the departure of the crowd who were mixed up in the fight with the delegate from the painters' union, quiet was again restored, and Brady was heard. He declared that he was sincerely sorry that those who differ with him had taken the method they had shown at the meeting to oppose him.

"I can see in this disturbance only disappointment because the labor movement is no longer a tail on their political kite. I will accept the appointment as a member of the committee to draft the constitution for the new central labor body and will do all I can to place the labor movement in New York City upon a plane of respectability—something it has not had in many years."

When Brady finished there were mingled cheers, cat calls and boos.

Gompers List Is Approved.

President Gompers announced that a delegate on the platform, referring to Jake Heller, had reported to him that he had been assaulted and Mr. Gompers expressed his regret at the occurrence. A vote on a motion to approve the list of names announced by President Gompers as the committee to draft the constitution was then taken and was carried almost unanimously, the life apparently having been taken out of the opposition with the last struggle in the rear of the hall.

Heller asked to be allowed five minutes, and he made a speech from the platform in which he asserted that he had been struck by a high official of the labor movement, and, turning to Mr. Gompers, said he feared that the long years he had devoted to the cause of labor had apparently been spent in vain when such scenes could be enacted in a gathering of that kind. Heller said he had been a delegate to the convention of the American Federation of Labor several times.

At one time during the melée President Gompers walked to the edge of the platform and declared:

"You are not reflecting credit either upon the labor movement or yourselves."

Later, after Heller had spoken, Mr. Gompers said he had tried to conduct the meeting in a spirit of fairness and impartiality. He condemned the booing, and declared that he deeply regretted that any one should have been assaulted. Mr. Gompers smashed two gavels trying to keep order.

Another Meeting This Morning.

When the meeting, on the motion of Robert P. Brindell, adjourned shortly after 12 o'clock, it was with the understanding that another meeting, to begin at 9 A. M., would be held just as soon as the committee on constitution is ready to report.

The meeting recessed for about half an hour while the Credentials Committee was passing upon the credentials of the delegates. It was reported by the committee that a total of 790 delegates were present. All were seated. The new organization, according to Hugh Frayne, represents 750,000 workers in this city and vicinity.

On motion of Edward I. Hannah, President of the Central Federated Union, which goes out of existence with the issuance of the charter to the new organization, the names of the delegates and the unions they represent were ordered printed and distributed for the information of the unionists.

In the earlier part of the meeting Mr. Gompers listened to several speeches and resolutions upon the Soviets and other foreign subjects. During one of these hot debates he shouted to several men who were conducting a simultaneous debate with great hurricanes of oratory:

"You men ought to know that the present incumbent of this chair is not to be swept off his feet by any such demonstrations as have been exhibited here."

Fist Fights on the Floor.

One of the resolutions adopted by the 1,000 delegates was that the organization should extend its moral and financial support to the strike of the employes on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit lines or, at least, as far as it was able to extend that support. A second resolution, calling for the same indorsement of the strike of 10,000 painters, caused such violent discussion that several fist fights were started and Mr. Gompers had to call upon some of the labor leaders upon the platform to go to the floor to aid in restoring order.

Officials of the Building Trades Council opposed extending any aid to the painters on the ground that the painters' organization had never affiliated with the council and that, if it desired aid, it should seek it through the channels of the Building Trades Council. Gompers broke a gavel in trying to call a halt to this violent debate when some of the orators on the floor had their chairs raised over their head and were preparing to throw them at opponents to end an argument.

Another period of violence was passed through safely when some of the radicals suggested that a cablegram be sent to Robert Smillie, head of the organization of railway workers in Great Britain, urging him to keep pounding at Premier Lloyd George until the Government had withdrawn all forces that stood facing Soviet Russia.

As this proposal was made the entire meeting arose as one man and began debating the resolution. Cries of "Reds! Reds! Bolshevik! Lenin!" were bandied in the pandemonium and Gompers called for another gavel to beat the throng back into their seats. A radical element among the delegates of the 800 unions called for the adoption of the resolution, and a more conservative element hurled their epithets and expressed the opinion that the Soviets were none of the business of an American Labor organization. But the resolution favoring the Soviets finally was passed.

With minds still upon questions overseas, some of the delegates called for a cablegram to the British Government protesting against holding Lord Mayor MacSwiney in the face of his hunger strike in Brixton jail and, despite opposition of the conservatives, the resolution was adopted.

Fearing the intrusion of unauthorized visitors who might try to stampede this first organization meeting of the new council, Mr. Gompers had insisted at the beginning of the meeting that the delegates should present duplicate credentials to Hugh Frayne, the general organizer of the American Federation of Labor, who sat upon the platform with Mr. Gompers and other labor leaders. A committee also was appointed to look over these papers and exclude undesirable propagandists who had no business at the meeting.

One of the most violent of the debates was caused by the call for proposals for a name for the new organization. After bickering for an hour, the delegates decided to call their organization the Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York and Vicinity. But voting down of their proposals did not silence a persistent minority, who kept shouting on this and every other question before the meeting.

The new organization takes the place of the Central Federated Union, which was organized forty-six years ago following the amalgamation of the Knights of Labor with the A. F. of L.

NEWARK GETS JITNEY TAXES

Sum of $77,151 Paid as Five Per Cent. Levy on Earnings.

Jitney buses have paid the City of Newark in the year ended April 30, $77,151.93 in the form of a 5 per cent. tax on their earnings. For the same period the Public Service Railway Company, which operates the trolleys in Newark, has paid a 5 per cent. tax amounting to $273,163.87.

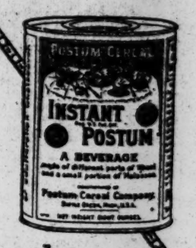
City Commissioner Archibald, in charge of the city's revenue and finance department, yesterday received a check for the trolley company's tax. The individual jitney owners pay their tax from month to month.

W. M. Crane Continues to Improve.

DALTON, Mass., Sept. 10.—The improvement in the condition of former Senator W. Murray Crane, which was reported yesterday, continued today. A statement given out at his residence this morning said that he had a comfortable night.

Mr. Crane has been confined to his bed since last Saturday with a serious attack of heart trouble.

Your Physical Condition is reflected in your face.



Ruddy cheeks and a clear eye are generally indicative of health.

On the other hand, a sallow complexion may indicate that coffee is causing the indigestion, sleeplessness and upset nerves which are responsible for your condition.

"Smuggled" Ricoros

"I'M first cousin to the guy who carried coals to Newcastle," laughed A. J. C., as he began this tale of Ricoro to his fellow members of the Globe Trotters' Club. 462

TALES OF RICORO

"On a visit to the factory in Porto Rico last winter I was presented with a couple of boxes of Ricoros, and their mildness—their tropic fragrance—their bouquet—won me, heart and soul.

"Well, I decided to bring them home, but remembering the high duty I once paid on some Havana cigars, I thought I'd take a chance and not declare my Ricoros.

"When the Customs Man at New York went through my stuff, I was feeling mighty nervous. And when he opened my hat-box—brimful of fat Ricoros —I was almost scared to death!

"'Oh, ho!' he said, 'I see you've brought home the finest cigars that Porto Rico produces!'

"'Er—well—yes', I admitted weakly, wondering what the penalty would be for not declaring the cigars.

"'Yes,' continued the Customs Man, 'I always smoke Ricoros myself — get the perfectos at the United Cigar Stores for 2 for 25c. You understand, there is no duty on cigars imported from Porto Rico.'

"'What! I can get Ricoro at the United duty free? —Friend', I cried, sighing with relief, 'That's even better news than knowing I don't have to go to jail for smuggling!'" 463

ANOTHER FOR BABE HELPS YANKS WIN

Ruth Shoots His 48th Homer Over Fence with Pipp on First in Opening Inning.

INDIANS BEATEN BY 6 TO 1

Shawkey Masters Cleveland Batters but New Yorkers Drive Caldwell from Box in Fourth.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 10.—Babe Ruth churned up the enthusiasm of 26,000 fans this afternoon in the very first inning when, with Wallie Pipp on first, the Bazoo of Bang crashed his forty-eighth home run of the pennant season over the high right field screen. This was the opening gun in the attack which laid the Indians low by a score of 6 to 1 and the result brings Cleveland, Chicago and New York so close together that they feel like customers on a Bronx subway express.

With Cleveland imploring its ball club please to win the pennant, the city and all the surrounding towns have a high pulse and a higher temperature. Today's defeat was a stunning shock, for after the rout of Quinn yesterday the Indians thought they had the Yanks on the run.

Ruth's hurrah hoist over the fence sounded the beginning of the Indians' downfall. In the fourth inning the Yanks drove Caldwell off the mound. Before the pitching of Uhle and Duster Mails the visitors didn't do much scoring, but they didn't need any more runs anyway. Uhle struck Ruth out in the fifth, and Duster Mails, the erratic left hander who was once with Brooklyn, fanned Babe in the ninth and was highly pleased with himself about it.

Bob Shawkey pitched for the Yanks and had the Indians under his spell at all times. Smith's triple in the seventh, followed by Doc Johnston's double, was the only real damage executed against Bob's pitching. He allowed only six hits.

Fine Sportsmanship of Fans.

The sportsmanlike attitude of the Cleveland fans toward the New York players has brought forth much favorable comment. The interest in the pennant race here is intense, yet there has been no effort of any kind at personal affront of any member of the Yankees.

The Yanks got away right in the first. After Peck had succumbed at first, Pipp got a walk, and Ruth, with the count of two strikes and no balls, crashed the ball over the right field fence for the round trip, Pipp going home ahead of him. Evans threw Pratt out at first and Meusel singled to centre, but died stealing.

In the Indians' first, Wamby, with one out, bunted and although Wardle made a great pick-up and toss, Wamby beat the throw by a sixteenth of an inch. Speaker hoisted to Meusel and Wamby died stealing.

Shawkey opened the Yanks' third with a single to centre and Peck forced him in an attempt to sacrifice. Caldwell to Evans. Pipp singled to right centre, sending Peck to second. Ruth lifted a high balloon to Elmer Smith and after the catch, Peck raced to third and Pipp to second. Evans intercepted the throw-in from Smith and made a poor throw to Wamby to get Pipp and Peck scored, Pipp going to third. Speaker had to go far into right centre to get Pratt's long drive for the third out.

Caldwell Sent to Showers.

A spirited Yankee uprising in the fourth drove Caldwell out of the box. Meusel filed to Smith for a starter and Lewis singled to left. Wardle bunted down the third base line and beat Gardner's toss for a hit. O'Neil made a wild throw to first to catch Ward napping, and Lewis went to third. Truck Hannah doubled into the crowd in left, scoring Lewis, while Ward went to third. Caldwell was derricked and Uhle went to the mound. Shawkey fanned and Peck singled to left, shooting Ward and Hannah home. Pipp whacked a low liner to right, which looked good, but Elmer Smith made a remarkable catch, digging the ball out of the alfalfa just as it was about to land, and then tumbling nose first into Mother Earth.

The Cleveland populace didn't have much of a chance to make any noise until the fifth. Then a spasm of delight arose when Uhle fanned Ruth. Pratt was safe on Wamby's fumble and Meusel singled to left, placing Pratt on second. Lewis forced Meusel on a pretty play, Johnston to Evans. Ward boosted an easy one to Speaker for the third out.

Shawkey singled in the sixth with one out, and Peck forced him. Joe Sewall, the Indian's new shortstop, who succeeded Evans, made a wild throw trying for a double play, and Peck went to second. He stuck there, for Pipp fanned.

In the seventh Speaker had to explore the darkest jungles of centre field to get Ruth's long fly. Pratt sent one almost as far for Speaker to catch, and Wamby tossed Meusel out to conclude the inning.

Smith tripled to left in the Indians' seventh, going to third when the hard-hit ball got away from Lewis, bounding off his ankle. Gardner filed to Meusel but Bob's fine throw to the plate held Smith at third. Johnston clipped a double between left and centre, scoring Smith. O'Neill skied to Ruth and Sewall rolled out to Pipp.

WHITE SOX RALLY AND BEAT BOSTON

Push Over Three Runs in Eighth Inning and Nose Out Red Sox, 5 to 3.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—Chicago defeated Boston today, 5 to 3, by rallying in the eighth. Eddie Murphy, batting as a pinch hitter with the bases filled and one out in that inning, started the play that defeated the Red Sox. He grounded to Hoyt, whose throw to Schang forced E. Collins, but Schang hit Murphy on the back in trying to double him at first and Jackson and Felsch scored. McInnis's throw to the plate was bad and Murphy took third, from where he scored on a double steal with Schalk.

Curves and Bingles

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 10.—The crowd was so big that it flowed out on to the field in left and right fields and a hit into the populance was limited to two bases.

Much as they hate to do it, Ruth's home runs here have been so spectacular that the crowd cannot prevent themselves from blazing into a flame of enthusiasm.

Rip Collins injured his shoulder sliding into second Thursday and did not put on a uniform today. Manager Huggins is now up against it for pitchers. With Mays absent, he hasn't a dependable boxman available for tomorrow. Cleveland will pitch Bagby.

Throughout the game Babe Ruth's brass band from St. Mary's Industrial School in Baltimore celebrated the Yankee achievements with oodles of jazz.

Wallie Pipp showed marvelous improvement. He and Shawkey timed their work perfectly on ground balls hit to that side of the infield.

Babe Ruth not only got a joy wallop, but he also made an error in center field when Wamby's grounder rolled through him. Outside of that one play, Babe played his garden with all the skill of Speaker or Jacobson or Felsch.

The Yanks are running true to form. One day awful, next day great, and so on. They don't know themselves when they are going to play as they can play. Huggins's hair is getting grayer every day.

A newspaper here offers free tickets to the world's series to any one who can guess how the club will finish in the pennant race. There are gamblers in New York who would give more than that if they could guess it.

Bob Shawkey has beaten the Indians six times this season, and has lost only one game to Speaker's men.

ROBINS TWICE PULL GAME OUT OF FIRE

Tie Cardinals in Ninth, Lose Lead in Eleventh, Then Win with Four-Run Rally.

Defeat, with the resultant loss of first place in the National League pennant hunt, loomed up strongly before the Robins on two occasions at Ebbets Field yesterday afternoon. Each time the Robins fought back with the gameness and determination usually associated with pennant winners and victory finally perched on the Robinson banner after the greatest fight that Brooklyn fans have gazed upon this year. Close to 8,000 people groaned and went wildly enthusiastic in turn as the tide shifted, and they finally went home happy. The Robins had taken the measure of the St. Louis Cardinals, 9 to 8, in an eleven-inning session of thrills.

As the fans surged on the field in the eleventh in a rush toward the Brooklyn dugout to slap Uncle Robbie, Hi Myers, Zach Wheat and other Flatbush favorites on their respective backs, a new white baseball went hurtling over the right field wall. It was propelled by Jack Fournier, who was thoroughly disgusted to have victory slip away when it seemed to be a certainty for the Cardinals. In the seventh inning Fournier had batted a ball over the same wall and the drive gave the Cardinals a two-run lead.

Until the home half of the ninth this lead remained unsullied and then the Robins came through with a rally that was the signal for a shower of straw hats. Two were out before a run developed, but by the time the side was retired two runs were over and the Robins were back in the ball game. In the tenth a fine chance for the home team to annex the verdict died out with a runner on third base, and the contest went into the eleventh.

If ever a team appeared to be marked for defeat that team was the Robins at the close of the St Louis half of the eleventh inning. Elk Ed Pfeffer had forced in a run which broke the tie and Joe Schultz followed with the hit that sent two more across. The score was 8 to 5 when the Robins took up their clubs in the closing half of the inning and many of the spectators were on their way homeward.

Back Come the Robins.

Then came the rally that brought out the fighting spirit of the Robins and served notice on other pennant contenders that these Robins have all the fighting spirit that can be crowded into a ball team. Otto Miller opened on Sherdel with a drive along the left field line for two bases, and Pfeffer put his battery partner on third base with a single to left centre. Miller might have scored, but he had to wait around second base to make sure that the ball was not caught. McCabe ran for Pfeffer, while Clarence Mitchell began to warm up in the bull pen. Ivy Olson, whose single had tied up the game in the ninth, went out on a grounder to Stock, Miller scoring on the out, while McCabe advanced to second.

As Olson passed Fournier at first base the ball got away from the St. Louis first baseman, McCabe dashing for third while Olson went to second. The Cardinals claimed interference and the umpires held a conference, ultimately ruling that Olson had been retired at first and that the ball got away from Fournier as he tried to make a throw. Olson was called in from second base but McCabe was allowed to remain on third, from which station he galloped home on Johnston's long fly to Heathcote.

Even at this stage the outlook was dark for the Robins. Two were out, they needed a run to tie and the bases were empty. Bernie Neis promptly started the manufacture of the all-important marker by outfooting a grounder to deep short and Zack Wheat followed with a clean single to right. The ball rolled through Joe Schultz and continued on its way to the fence, while Neis raced all the way to the plate and Wheat moved around to third. Again the game was held up while numerous straw hats were thrown back to the stands and then Hi Myers hit toward left field. Johnny Lavan made a backhand stop in deep short and hurried a throw to first base, but it was second to Myers in the race for the bag. Wheat went over the plate with the run that kept the Robins in the lead and the ball went over the right field wall a few seconds later.

It was a battle in which southpaw pitching and long hits predominated. Rube Marquard started for the Robins and held the Cards well in check until the seventh, when the visitors put on a rally with two out and went to the front with a total of four runs. Rube was extracted in the home half of the inning in the hope that Ernie Krueger might start a rally, but Ernie didn't deliver. Sherrod Smith came on for two innings, which were tame for the Cardinals, and then he went out for a pinch hitter who did deliver, Pfeffer finishing the game. Ferdie Schupp did some good pitching after a poor start, but went out in the big St. Louis upheaval in the eleventh, and Bill Sherdel was the victim of the Brooklyn rally which defeated the Cardinals in the eleventh.

The Robins got busy with Schupp in the first inning as if to make his stay on the hill a brief one. Olson singled to left and was forced at second by Johnston. A pass to Neis put Johnston on second, and Jimmy reached third while Wheat was forcing Neis at second. Hi Myers picked out this opportune time to wallop a triple to the wall in right centre, which sent Johnston and Wheat over the dish. A wild pitch by Schupp enabled Hi to finish his trip.

The Cardinals got one run back in the second frame when Hornsby, first batsman to face Marquard, belted a ball over the right field wall. This ended the scoring until the seventh, when the Cards put on a rally that carried them to the front. With one out Heathcote hit to right centre for three bases and scored on Clemon's infield out. No attempt was made to check this run as it appeared that Rube's pitching was good enough to make the lead safe. Then came a pass to Schupp, a single by Schultz and a home run clout by Jack Fournier over the right field wall, making the score 5 to 3 in favor of the visitors.

Robins Tie Score in Ninth.

The Robins could not put a dent into this lead in their seventh or eighth innings, but in the ninth they did considerable business. Myers handcuffed Stock with a hard bounder that went for a single and Koney popped to Hornsby. A pass to Kilduff advanced Myers and hope all but died out when Miller filed to Heathcote. Ray Schmandt, batting for Smith, chased Myers home with a single to centre and Olson turned the stands into a bedlam with a single that scored Kilduff. Johnston's out ended the inning.

With one out in the Cardinals' eleventh inning Lavan singled to right and infield hits by Heathcote and Clemons filled the bases. Dilhoefer ran for Clemons and Knode batted for Schupp. A pass to Knode forced Lavan home and Schultz's single scored Heathcote and Dilhoefer.

Then the Robins bunched five hits for victory.

SKEETERS DEFEATED IN 10-INNING GAME

Oberc's Single with Two Out Sends Thomas Home with Winning Run—Score Is 3-2.

Special to The New York Times.

READING, Pa., Sept. 10.—In a sensational extra inning battle, Reading triumphed over Jersey City, 3 to 2, today in the Skeeters' final game here this season, evening up the series. What looked like a sure shut-out with two down and two on the paths in the ninth was turned into a 2 to 2 tie when Pitcher Harschar hit the ball against left field fence for a double, Gill and Freitag scoring.

In the tenth, after the visitors had been disposed of, Thomas singled, went to second on Altenburg's sacrifice, advanced to third on Marriott's infield hit, and scored on Oberc's slashing single over short, winning the game.

Swartz opposed Harschar on the mound at the start, but was forced to retire in the fifth, due to an accident in attempting to steal second. Up to that stage Swartz had allowed but two hits. Karpp, who took up the hurling for the locals, was very effective, striking out five of the Skeeters and allowed but six hits in the remaining part of the game.

Fred Thomas, the former major leaguer, led at the stick, registering three hits. Bauman of the Skeeters was hurt in the sixth and was relieved by Gill. The fielding feature of the game was Mooers's circus catch of Bowman's line drive.

PIRATES BEAT PHILS AGAIN.

Remarkable Catch by Williams Is Feature of Game.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—Pittsburgh made it two in a row from Philadelphia here today. The score was 8 to 3. Hubbell was hit hard and was supported poorly, except that Williams's one-hand running catch in the fifth robbed Whitted of a home run and was one of the best outfielding performances seen in this city this season.

Cyclists Use Old-Time Wheels In 2-Day Run Around Boston

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—Ancient velocipedes and high-wheeled bicycles once more trundled through the streets today when old-time pedalists took part in the annual "wheel around the Hub." Mounted on the machines of other days, the wheelmen pedalled over roads made slippery by morning rains, which added something of adventure to their laborious advance. The run, which will take two days, was started from Roxbury. The bicyclists will stop tonight at Mansfield after pushing around the foothills of the Blue Hills and tomorrow will return by way of the south shore.

BRITONS PILE UP RUNS AT CRICKET

Incogniti Stage Rally That Nets 272 in Game with All-Philadelphia Eleven.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—Staging one of the most sensational rallies ever seen on a local cricket field, the Incogniti team of England pulled up their total from 54 with five wickets down to 326 against the All-Philadelphia eleven at Haverford today.

The outstanding features of the match were two brilliant catches by Wayne Evans, who took a line drive at short leg off Jardine's bat; a one-handed catch by C. C. Morris off Shelmerdine, and the splendid collection of 142 by R. St. L. Fowler.

Fowler was a bit lucky, however, as Fellows had two chances to retire him but missed his man both times, once at 28 and the other at 61. T. A. Brockelbank, with 45, and Major Cart

OUIMET AND EVANS TO MEET IN FINAL

Will Play on Roslyn Links Today for National Amateur Golf Championship.

BOSTON MAN BEATS JONES

Atlanta Youngster Succumbs to Ouimet, 6 and 5, While Evans Is Eliminating Allis, 10 and 8.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS IN SEMI-FINAL ROUND.

Upper Half.

Chick Evans, Chicago, defeated Ned Allis, Milwaukee, 10 and 8. Evans led by 2 up at end of first round.

Lower Half.

Francis Ouimet, Boston, defeated Bobby Jones, Atlanta, 6 and 5. Ouimet led by 3 up at end of first round.

If today's championship match for the amateur golf title of the nation doesn't attract the greatest gallery in the history of the game in America—but there's absolutely no use talking, it will. Of course there's the possibility that it will rain cats, dogs and pitchforks; there's the chance that some one will tear up the tracks on the Oyster Bay Division of the Long Island Railroad, and there's the hazard that owners of flivvers can't buy gasoline, but only one of these contingencies could prevent thousands upon thousands from being at the Engineers' Country Club to see the clash between Francis Ouimet of Boston and Chick Evans of Chicago.

It was a bit pitiful that Bobby Jones had to step up to the sacrificial altar and take his ugly-tasting medicine. Bobby was all set to win the 1920 title since he had come so mighty close a year ago, but for the sake of bringing together the two former champions of everything in golf Bobby probably didn't fret and fume over the beating Ouimet gave him. In fact, to lose by only 6 and 5 to the great Woodland wonder is honor in itself. The other party of the second part was Ned Allis, 3d, of Milwaukee, who, after being only two holes down to Evans at the end of the first round, got steadily worse under Chick's powers of persuasion and called it an afternoon on the twenty-eighth hole, with Evans victor by 10 and 8. That's the brief but pointed report of what occurred at Roslyn yesterday.

Present Generation Lucky.

Golfers of this epoch are lucky persons, but perhaps they don't realize it. What bleacherite wouldn't turn flipflops to see Babe Ruth in a batfest with Ed Williamson or Buck Freeman? What railbird wouldn't put his watch in hock to catch a glimpse of Man o' War and Colin breezing up the home stretch? What pretty girl wouldn't shout herself hoarse for a chance to see Ted Coy lined up on a gridiron against Johnny Poe? But these chances are gone, whereas the opportunity of sizing up Ouimet and Evans is here this very day.

Strangely enough, great golfers meet only rarely in championships and not too often in friendly exhibitions. Ouimet and Evans have clashed just once in each. Make no mistake, folks, they are out for each other's scalps today. Thirteen months ago they met at Wakonda for the first time and in a thriller Ouimet eliminated Evans in the second round as the result of a ten-foot putt on the thirty-sixth hole, which gave him the match by 1 up. Both men were an aftermath to that memorable tussel. Ouimet's friends—and these are numbered among all who have clasped his hand and chatted with him—pointed to the fact that he was a sick man the day he played. They declared he should have been in bed, where the doctor had ordered him, instead of out on the links. Later Chick Evans in some of his writings showed questionable taste when he referred to this and remarked that perhaps he, too, had been ill. Golfers since then have not noticed any significant signs that the two are over-affectionate. This is a thought for today.

Bumble Bee Bothers Jones.

"Bobby's Bumble Bee" was the title of a very exciting drama enacted on the twenty-fifth hole yesterday, but Bobby—his last name is Jones—came off second best in the thrilling last-act duel. Now, maybe the bee didn't beat Jones, for Ouimet was perfectly capable of it, especially in view of Jones's wildness yesterday and his habit of getting into rough when Ouimet was straight down the alley and his inability to putt at the pyschological time. But the bee in question did rob the Atlanta youngster of at least one hole and possibly contributed on others. Bobby had pitched his second to the shelf-like green and was about to putt when Mister Bee started buzzing around. Frank H. Hoyt, course marshal, suddenly stopped his pet speech to the gallery about keeping back and standing still and made a rush for the bee. Hoyt is well along in years and it took him a couple of minutes, while the gallery chuckled, to catch up to the swift-flying bee.

There was one slip in Hoyt's strategy, however. He finally pounced on the bee and put his megaphone over him, but neglected to consider one important detail of megaphones. They have a small opening as well as a large one, and just as Bobby was putting the bee found this out and sallied forth through the aperture. Jones now calculated that he was a little more spry than Hoyt and gave chase. The spectators were simply howling with glee, although they cautioned Bobby about getting all excited when he still had a match to finish. The youngster wouldn't listen to them, however, and swatted and clubbed and swung with his putter, finally driving the bee away. Then he tried to putt, but left himself six feet short. Ouimet meanwhile had saved his four, but Bobby, still perturbed about the bee, missed his second putt and was forced to take a five.

Ouimet in Nearly Perfect Form.

Ouimet's golf yesterday was a well nigh perfect exhibition of the match-play type. It was no course record as a medal score, but when a long putt was needed to win a hole he had it in his répertoire. As for Jones, he was unusually wild. His tee shots just wouldn't stay straight and his putts just wouldn't go down. After missing them time and again a friend asked him in the afternoon about it. Bobby had a sharp, snappy comeback for him, and in his best Atlanta dialect remarked, "I cayn't help it; I'd putt them in if I could." That was the whole secret. Ouimet was too much, for Ouimet this year is at his best. And then, too, perhaps Bobby might have had a wee bit of stage fright, despite his four or five years of campaigning.

The Bostonian won the first two holes in par figures, when Jones took fives after having been trapped on the first hole and playing his approach to the second too strong. Then luck robbed Ouimet of the next. His drive, excellent in direction and distance, stopped in a divot hole, and with this bad lie he could get out only a few yards. Bobby overplayed his second to the fourth and lost it and then went to three down at the fifth, when he hooked his second into woods and after searching for a scant two minutes refused to look longer. Both missed four-footers which would have given them birdie threes on the sixth, and they halved the seventh after Ouimet had been obliged to redeem a too strong second shot with a twelve-foot putt for the half. Just to show that he could be consistent, Francis sank a fifteen-footer to halve the seventh in three after slamming his tee shot to this short green into a trap. They halved the long ninth regularly enough and turned with Ouimet still three up.

Jones lost the tenth by being trapped on his tee shot, but got this hole back when he planted his approach to the eleventh less than two feet from the flag and took a birdie 3. The next two were halved and then Ouimet sank a seven-footer on the terrible fourteenth for a birdie 2, while Jones missed an eight-footer and took a three.

Jones Makes Great Shot.

Bobby's greatest hole of the morning was the fifteenth, which he won, 3 to 5. He purposely cut the face of his iron across the ball for a second shot and was rewarded with an approach that seemed to go around a corner, cleared a clump of trees which partly hid the green from view and landed within two feet of the hole. It was a shot old Tom Morris of Prestwick could have been proud of. Bobby got his birdie 3, Ouimet smashing his approach into a trap and taking 5.

The sixteenth was Ouimet's worst of the day. He topped his drive, pushed his second into a trap, still not up to Jones's drive, flubbed his third into a clump of trees and got on in 4. Jones was on in 2 and won the hole, 4 to 6. Then it was Bobby's turn for poor playing. His drive to the seventeenth caught a trap and although favored with an excellent lie he could not get his second out more than ten yards. His third was just short, and Ouimet won the hole, 4 to 6. This put Ouimet 3 up again. Jones then finished the round with a missed putt of twelve inches on the home green, forcing him to halve with Ouimet, who had needed five because of getting into a trap on his second.

The morning cards:

Out—
Ouimet	4	4	5	4	4	4	4	3	5	—37
Jones	5	5	4	5	6	4	4	3	5	—41
In—
Ouimet	3	4	4	4	2	5	6	4	5	—37—74
Jones	4	3	4	4	2	3	4	6	5	—36—77

Bobby started the afternoon auspiciously enough with an eight-foot putt which won the first hole, after Ouimet's approach putt had been twelve feet short. Both drives to the second rolled into the edge of rough, and both were short on their approaches, Ouimet getting into a trap, and they needed fives. The next was halved, Ouimet getting his four cheaply, since Jones conceded it under the new stymie rule, and the next was halved in fives, one over par, after Jones had pulled his second to rough and Ouimet had sliced his into trouble. The fifth was even and the sixth as well, Jones here playing another magnificent approach which landed within two feet from the cup, giving him his birdie. Ouimet had a tremendously long drive, and rolled up his second dead. Bobby's experiences with the bumbling putter here, and perhaps helped to lose him the short eighth, 6 strokes to 3. Both were trapped, but Ouimet chipped out dead, whereas the Atlanta youth needed two to get out, and then picked up.

Atlantan Pulls to Rough.

Jones's enemy, the hooked drive, lost him the long ninth hole. He pulled to rough, had to play out short of the traps because of woods in front of him, and then slammed an otherwise beautifully long brassie to a bad spot under an apple tree, Ouimet winning the hole, 5 to 6.

Ouimet conceded him a three on the tenth after he had putted his second to within six inches and then himself made the three for the half. The eleventh was halved regularly enough. Jones threw away a chance to halve a hole at the twelfth. Here Ouimet missed a four-footer for his three and then with a putt no longer than one foot, Jones missed this and took a five. With Ouimet now dormie 6 the spectators knew that the slaughter would soon be over, but had visions of a prolongation when both sliced slightly into rough on the thirteenth. Both had brilliant outs to the green, however, and being away, Ouimet putted first. The ball rolled some forty feet to the very lip of the cup and when Jones missed his try for a three, the match was over with Ouimet victor by 6 and 5. The afternoon cards:

Out—
Ouimet	5	5	4	5	4	5	4	5	5	—38
Jones	4	5	4	5	4	3	4	6	6	—42
In—
Jones	3	4	5	4

Ned Allis was an entirely different golfer in the morning than he was in the afternoon. He began his day's work by taking full advantage of Chick Evans's missed putts and by contributing brilliant displays himself now and then. But after eating, perhaps well but not too wisely, his game in the afternoon was typical of a duffer. Evans must have made him feel seasick as he led him over the Engineers' hills and dales at a clip too fast for most any opponent. One thing tells the story of Allis's downfall. Evans had a total of 35 for the first nine holes in the afternoon whereas he needed 43. Par is 36. He had a birdie 4 on the ninth as the result of laying a mashie-niblick approach dead.

In the morning the Milwaukean seemed to surprise even his friends by the display of golfing wares. After losing the second by being short and getting a lucky half on the next when Evans took three putts, Allis squared the match by a birdie 3 on the fourth as the result of a thirty-footer. Evans won the sixth with a birdie 3, only halved the ninth even after Allis had taken 6 on account of a topped drive by again taking three putts, and turned 1 to the good. Both took three putts on the short tenth, but for the second time Allis squared the match. This was at the eleventh with an eight-foot for a birdie 3. Evans won the ticklish fourteenth after Allis had pirouetted all around the church-spire green, but Allis got the match all square again so quickly and so spectacularly that it made Evans dizzy.

Allis Makes 50-Foot Putt.

Playing the dog-leg and rather long fifteenth Allis made a 50-foot putt for a birdie 3. There was no doubt of its length, for the referee was fortified with a steel pocket tape to guard against any approximations. Both messed up the sixteenth, Evans first by slicing to a trap and then Allis, who threw away a good chance by slamming his second into the bed of a brook to the right of the green.

Still square, Allis's chances went glimmering by faulty golf on the seventeenth. It was a combination of poor headwork and errors. After being in a pile of cut grass on his second Evans dropped back without penalty and chipped to six inches of the hole. Allis's third was within eighteen inches and although not stymied, he should have conceded Evans his putt under the new rulings. Instead he played altogether too cautiously, evidently expecting that Evans would miss his short one. As it was, the ball of his opponent must have worried him, for Allis missed his 18-inch tap and lost the hole, 4 to 5. When his approach to the eighteenth overran, he lost another and became 2 down for the morning.

In the afternoon it was a walkaway. Not only did Allis fail to win a single hole all afternoon, but he halved only two of the ten payed. Evans won the first, second, fourth, fifth, sixth, eighth, ninth and tenth, the first nine with a total of 35, one under par. Sliced and hooked drives, missed putts and visits to traps all combined to bring about Allis's tumble with dispatch. With Evans dormie 9, Allis made just one too many of those visits and lost the tenth hole, 3 to 4, and the match. Evans's margin of 10 and 8 was certainly wide for a national semi-final match.

EAST'S TENNIS LEAD IS STRENGTHENED

Williams Beats Griffin in Singles and Washburn and Johnson Win at Doubles.

HAYES NOSES OUT MATHEY

Takes Five-Set Match for West's Only Victory of Day—Tally of Tourney Is Now 4 to 2.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—In the intersectional lawn tennis tournament on the courts of the Germantown Cricket Club the East increased its lead over the West this afternoon, and the score is now four matches to two. The East won today's doubles and broke even in the singles. The final decision will come in tomorrow's three matches, and the West must win all three to gain the victory. These matches will bring Watson M. Washburn, East, against Roland Roberts and W. T. Tilden, 2d, East, against William M. Johnston in the two singles encounters, while the remaining test in doubles is between the Eastern team of Dean Mathey and Charles S. Garland and the Chicagoans, W. T. Hayes and Ralph H. Burdick.

Interest today centred largely in the singles match between Richard Norris Williams, 2d, of Boston and the Californian, Clarence J. Griffin. Williams won three out of four sets, scored at 6—4, 6—3, 3—6, 6—3.

Something of a surprise was furnished in the doubles when Watson M. Washburn and Wallace F. Johnson vanquished the California speed pair, Willis E. Davis and Roland Roberts, who were the runners-up in the national doubles tournament to the champions, Johnston and Griffin. The smashing play of the Westerners was more than offset by the skill and strategy of their more experienced opponents, who won in straight sets, 6—3, 6—3, 6—2.

Hayes Wears Down Mathey.

The remaining match of the afternoon was a bitterly fought five-set singles battle in which the Chicagoan, W. T. Hayes, largely by superior endurance, defeated Dean Mathey, at 1—6, 2—6, 6—3, 6—1, 7—5. Mathey took the place on the eastern team of G. Colket Caner, who had been called to his home by the death of a near relative.

Williams broke away to a poor start in his match with Griffin, but after he had lost the first three games of the opening set he began to find the lines and once he had located them to his satisfaction he did not relinquish his hold for the remainder of the afternoon. He played his characteristic singles game, taking all kinds of chances by his insistence upon shallow placements, preferring him the difficult shot where the easy one would have done as well. But his game was working to his order today and nearly everything he undertook found a successful issue.

Memories of the airplane flight that marred the final match in the singles at Forest Hills were aroused among the spectators in the Williams-Griffin match, when an airplane circled slowly above the court. The visitor flew at a considerable height, but none the less there were palpable signs of nervousness in the stands when for a second or two the motor ceased operation. Chairman Samuel H. Colcorn of the committee in charge of the tournament expressed his disapproval of the visitation, but explained that that was one feature of the program over which the committee exercised no control. The airman flew away after delaying the match for a good ten minutes.

Griffin Away at Top Speed.

Griffin took three games in a row at the start of the match. He was getting good pace on his drives and showed astonishing accuracy. But after the third game, Williams, who was wild at the start, found himself and lifted his games to heights of brilliancy such as only Tilden himself, who incidentally occupied the umpire's chair in this contest, or Johnston, could emulate successfully. Many of his hairline placements were marvels of perfect tennis.

The third game of the second set, in which deuce was called four times, was productive of some particularly killing rallies. Williams' drives along the sidelines and his cross-court shots that found the narrowest of openings pulled him up from 0—40, and gave him the game. A break through Griffin in the sixth game was the turning point of this set, the Californian helping to defeat himself by double-faulting at a critical moment.

Griffin won the third set after a hotter battle than the set score of 6—3 indicates, but Williams concentrated a good part of his errors in this session and the Westerner won it after five of the nine games had gone to deuce.

In the fourth set Williams returned to the brilliant streak of the earlier stages of the battle and won without being in serious danger. The final points were a beautiful half-volley to the corner by Williams and an out by his opponent on a difficult shot.

How clearly Williams's victory was earned is indicated by the stroke analysis. The Easterner earned fifty points to twenty-four for his rival, while in errors the two were nearly equal, Williams making two more than Griffin.

The point score and stroke analysis follow:

Work Together Beautifully.

Washburn and Johnson, by their victory in the doubles and the manner in which they achieved it, proved themselves potentially among the greatest doubles pairs in the game. Their games jibe perfectly, no less than do their imperturable temperaments. Both know every angle of doubles strategy. Their court generalship is impeccable. They are two of the brainiest players tennis affords. They make few mistakes while forcing their opponents into many, and when they are opposed by the hard-hitting game of such a pair as Roberts and Davis they are able when it becomes necessary to answer speed with speed.

It would be difficult and unnecessary to state a preference for the performance of either one of the winners this afternoon, so finished was their work individually and as a team. But Washburn's famous slap drive was never working better or more deceptively and he was particularly deadly and accurate overhead. Both men passed their rivals repeatedly, being especially keen on finding an opening between them. Some of Washburn's lobs were wonderfully executed, dropping to within an inch or two of the base line, while Roberts and Davis, completely deceived as to their length, let them pass without making an effort to get to them.

Steady Attack of Victors.

The attack of the Easterners was directed chiefly at Roberts, after Washburn and Johnson discovered that Roberts was weak overhead and prone to drive into the net. The Easterners broke through Roberts's service five times and through Davis three times, while the Eastern team dropped service only twice, Washburn being the victim on both occasions.

The point score of the doubles follows:

FIRST SET.

Washburn-Johnson	3	3	6	4	6	1	4	5	6	—37—6

SECOND SET.

THIRD SET.

Washburn-Johnson	3	5	5	4	8	6	6	6	6	—38—6
Davis-Roberts	5	8	3	5	6	4	4	4	4	—30—2

Dean Mathey, whose willingness to respond to the emergency call when Caner was unable to play, aroused admiration, put up a splendid fight for the East in his match with Hayes. He seemed a certain winner in the first two sets, in which he volleyed magnificently, getting the sharpest of angles on his shots, while overhead nearly every ball that came his way met with sure and sudden death. Hayes, in the meantime, was guilty of innumerable errors, many of which were on easy chances. He could not seem to work himself up to concert pitch.

A change of tactics was noticeable, however, as soon as the third set was under way. Hayes applied more steam to his shots from deep court and increased accuracy came with increased pace. Mathey repeatedly lamented as the former Princetonian rushed to the barrier. He ran to the net himself occasionally and finished off the points with neatness and dispatch whenever anything like a set-up presented itself.

Mathey Loses Control.

When Hayes steadied his game Mathey lapsed into streaks of wildness. Hayes varied his passing shots with some highly accurate lobbing, and Mathey's overhead play became erratic. The third and fourth sets were almost a complete reversal of the first two.

In the rubber set, Mathey returned to the form he had displayed earlier in the afternoon. But he was not physically equal to the task he had set himself. The violence of his net play had worn him down and Hayes saw to it at all times that he had a tremendous amount of court to cover. Mathey's exhaustion during the last few games was most appreciable, but none the less there were palpable signs of nervousness in the stands when for a second or two the motor ceased operation. Chairman Samuel H. Colcorn of the committee in charge of the tournament expressed his disapproval of the visitation, but explained that that was one feature of the program over which the committee exercised no control. The airman flew away after delaying the match for a good ten minutes.

Williams-Griffin Match Gives Tennis Gallery Many a Laugh

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—Comedy is not often an element of a lawn tennis match between experts, but Peck Griffin introduced it this afternoon in his match against Williams in the East-West tournament. With Griffin playing in deep court and expecting a long drive, Williams acquired the habit of sending over a gentle toss that barely cleared the net. Peck, of course, would have to run like mad in the attempt to reach the ball, and almost invariably he missed it. Such exertions do not set well upon a man of Peck's build. One of Griffin's shots that hit a ball boy watching an airplane gave the gallery another laugh, and a minute later Peck sent another swift one whizzing past the ear of Tilden, sitting in the umpire's chair. The ball just missed the world's champion, and Griffin promptly apologized for his inaccuracy.

NEW GOLF CLUB FOR ISLIP.

The Great River Club Incorporated by Prominent Men.

Articles of incorporation of the Great River Club, which has been formed by men prominent in Wall Street, in commercial life and in the legal profession in this city, were submitted yesterday for approval to Supreme Court Justice Aspinall by John B. Stanchfield, John Mulligan, Horace Havemeyer and George S. Graham. The objects of the club are, as stated in the papers, the "playing, advancement and cultivation of the ancient and royal game of golf, and to provide and maintain a clubhouse, grounds and facilities for golf and other outdoor sports." The club will be located at Islip, near Great River, on the south shore of Long Island, in which vicinity many of the members have Summer homes.

The directors, as named in the papers, are:

John B. Stanchfield, John Mulligan, George Gibbs, Alfred Bourne, H. B. Hollins, Jr., Henry James, Edward S. Knapp, Bayard Hoffin, J. F. Carlisle, Harry T. Peters, Langdon B. Valentine, William K. Dick, Allan K. Pinkerton, Horace Havemeyer, George A. Ellis, Jr., Malcolm McBurney, Edward C. Blum, H. R. Duval, James R. Hyde, Charles Morgan, S. Parsons, George E. Rice, W. R. Simons, Richard Wharton and Edward W. Sheldon.

SWEDISH RIDERS AHEAD.

Win First and Second Places in Olympic Horsemanship Contests.

ANTWERP, Sept. 10—The final awards in the individual military horsemanship events in connection with the Olympic games were announced today. Dr. Morner of Sweden was first with 1,775 out of a possible 2,000 points. Lundstroem of Sweden was second with 1,738.75 points, and Major Caffarratti of Italy was third with 1,733.75.

Of the American competitors Captain H. N. Chamberlain was sixth with 1,567.75 points; Major W. A. West, seventh, with 1,556.75; Major U. A. Barry, sixteenth, with 1,350.

By nations the scoring was: Sweden, 5,057.50 points; Italy, 4,735; Belgium, 4,560, and the United States, 4,477.50.

TIPPITY WITCHET IS WINNER AT BELMONT

Loft Horse Finds Soft Track to His Liking and Captures the Ronkonkoma Handicap.

G. W. Loft's Tippity Witchet, which recently has been showing flashes of his best form, proved an easy winner of the Ronkonkoma Handicap at seven furlongs, which was the feature of the racing at Belmont Park yesterday. This compactly built little horse has run with the best sprinters in the country in his time and when dropped into a race yesterday where speed did not abound he had little trouble in scoring the victory by six lengths. William Martin's Camoufleur was second, a length in front of Leading Star, after carrying a nose twitch all the way from the barrier.

Although the track had been drenched by the rain during the early morning hours, it was not heavy and was drying out so rapidly that, barring further rain, it should be in fine condition today for the running of the Futurity and the Jockey Club Stakes. As it was, the course was just soft enough to suit some of the horses in the feature event, particularly the winner and Camoufleur.

Tippity Witchet was much the best and was able to move into the lead when his rider was ready and hold the field safely to the end, but Camoufleur probably did not have a chance to run his race. He acted meanly at the post and tried several times to break through. As a result one of the assistant starters put a nose twitch on him to hold him until the barrier was sprung. When the horse broke the twitch did not come off and he carried it with him around the course. It certainly did not help him any, and though it is permissible under the rules the use of such means for keeping horses quiet at the post will never become very popular when they can so easily act as a handicap to a horse.

Without any impediments, it is doubtful if Camoufleur could have defeated Tippity Witchet, for the latter ran one of his good races and was particularly at home on the soft track. Tableau d'Honneur, which broke in front, set the pace for half a mile, with Tippity Witchet close at his heels. The pace maker gave it up at the turn into the stretch and the Loft horse assumed the lead and won under an easy ride. Camoufleur was slow to get started, but moved up resolutely in the stretch and, disposing of Leading Star and Tableau d'Honneur, was fast closing the gap between him and the leader, but was never close enough to endanger Tippity Witchet at that stage of the running.

Half the card was devoted to races for two-year-olds through the straight course. The first of these was a dash at five and a half furlongs, which was captured by the Ascot Stable's Ten Buttons, a filly which had had but one previous trial. She scored a close decision over Maiden's Ballet, with Mavehona third, in the field of seven. These youngsters swerved all over the track and Mavehona, which had started from the rail position, finished on the outside rail, having lost several lengths swerving across the course. Ten Buttons ran closer to the course set by her driver and fought it out gamely with Maiden's Ballet, to win in the last few strides.

Sandy McNaughton, who trains the horses of the Foreign Stable, brought out a fleet filly in the next of the two-year-old events. This was Placany, a daughter of Fair Play and Tuscany, which made a show of her two rivals over the five and a half furlong route. She raced in front all the way and won by eight lengths, though she swerved badly in the stretch and made it difficult for Kummer to keep her headed in the right direction. Tout Or and Bacchanallan trailed in back of the winner, the latter being badly outrun.

R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s Dry Moon accounted for the fourth race for the two-year-olds by defeating Frigate and the heavily played Idle Dell among others.

Nineteen Named in Futurity To be Run at Belmont Today

The historic Futurity, a six furlong dash, which is the richest of the season's specials for two-year-olds, will have its thirty-first renewal at Belmont Park this afternoon. It will have a value of approximately $42,000. Nineteen of the best youngsters of the season have been named over night for the test. Frequently the Futurity has decided the two-year-old championship, but it can hardly do that this time owing to the absence of Leonardo 2d and Tryster, neither of which is eligible. The entries, weights, probable riders and odds follow:

GOLD CUP REGATTA WILL OPEN TODAY

Nearly 100 Motor Boats to Compete in Eight Events—Miss America Among Entrants.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 10.—Nearly 100 gasoline-propelled watercraft of various sizes and speed possibilities were assembled in the Detroit River tonight, ready for the opening heats tomorrow of the Gold Cup regatta. Eight events are on the program, the feature being the ninety-mile race for the Gold Challenge Cup of the American Power Boat Association. The regatta will continue through Sept. 15.

First heats in four events will be run tomorrow. These are a cabin cruiser handicap race for the Sallan Trophy, to be run in three heats of 22.5 statute miles each; the "Gar" Wood event, with $5,000 in gold nuggets as prizes, to be run in three heats of 42 statute miles each; the Carl G. Fisher race for displacement boats more than 32 feet in length, and the Gold Cup race.

The Gold Cup event is to be run in three heats of 30 miles each, and has attracted the fastest hydroplanes in the world. Among the entries is Miss America of the Detroit Yacht Club, with which Gar Wood recently won the Harmsworth Trophy off Cowes, England. Wood will drive the boat in the Gold Cup races. A late entry in the feature race is the Imp III. of the Chicago Yacht Club. Others are Miss Toronto II., of the Toronto Boat Club; Miss New Orleans, Southern Yacht Club; Miss Belle Isle, the Detroit Boat Club; Miss Detroit I., the Miss Detroit Power Boat Association; The Mystic, the Thousand Island Yacht Club, and Arab V, the Buffalo Launch Club. The last two named are doubtful starters. Second and third heats in the Gold Cup race are scheduled for Monday and Tuesday. The heats are scheduled to start at 6:15 P. M. daily. Each heat will be six times around a five-mile course.

The point system of scoring will be used to determine the winner of the Gold Cup event, as well as the Sallan Trophy and the "Gar" Wood race. Under this system a point is allowed for entering the race and an additional point for each boat a participant beats in the finish, including those entering but failing to start.

TO MAKE START IN BOXING.

Boards to Meet Thursday—Dundee-Welling Bout Planned.

The formal start of the boxing machinery under the newly appointed Boxing Commission and License Committee in this State will be made next Thursday afternoon at their joint offices, 291 Broadway. Chairman Joseph Johnson, of the Boxing Commission, and Chairman Laurence McGuire, of the License Committee, issued a formal statement to this effect yesterday afternoon.

Invitations to the meeting will be forwarded early next week. Representatives of the different newspapers and leading figures in boxing circles throughout the State will be invited to attend. The License Committee at that time will be prepared to receive applications from all those desiring to procure licenses to operate clubs under the Walker law. The committee will issue licenses as soon after the meeting as possible. No applications will be acted upon before that date, and all will be considered in the order of their filing.

So sure is he that the License Committee will act favorably upon his application for a license to conduct boxing bouts in Madison Square Garden Tex Rickard yesterday announced that he had arranged a fifteen-round bout to a decision between Johnny Dundee and Joe Welling of Chicago, to be held on Sept. 17.

It was also learned yesterday that Charley White is coming to New York to try to arrange a return bout with Benny Leonard. Leonard knocked White out at Benton Harbor on July 5. Up to the time of the knockout White had the better of the bout and he is anxious to get another chance at the champion in a bout for the title.

BRENNAN IS NEXT ON DEMPSEY'S LIST

Heavyweights Likely to Meet at Garden—Offer from Havana for Bout with Spaniard.

Conferences with promoters seeking to match Jack Dempsey and some prospective champion continue to take up a big part of Jack Kearns's time. The manager of the world's heavyweight champion last night engaged in a long talk with Tex Rickard, who is to promote bouts at Madison Square Garden, and it was said at the close of the conference that Bill Brennan probably will be the next opponent of the title holder, and Madison Square Garden the probable scene of the encounter.

The date of the affair and some minor details of the bout will not be decided upon until after the meeting of the State Athletic Commission next week. It is understood that Rickard's terms for Dempsey are acceptable to Kearns and that Brennan already has agreed to the figures which the promoter is willing to hang up for him. Another meeting is scheduled for this afternoon to discuss some points of the proposed match.

Manager Kearns yesterday received a cablegram from Havana, asking him to cable immediately his terms for a bout in Havana between Dempsey and John Padron Sanchez, who is described as the Spanish heavyweight champion. The message was from Senor Ordapal, a sport promoter of the Cuban capital. An immediate reply was asked for and Kearns cabled back, asking for best terms and the date desired by the Cuban promoter. It is not likely that Dempsey will make a trip to the island unless he is guaranteed at least $100,000 for the bout.

This afternoon Kearns will meet some Boston promoters, headed by Joseph Glancy, to discuss the possibilities of Dempsey meeting Georges Carpentier in a bout at the Hub. Mr. Glancy has sent word that he heads a syndicate of bankers who are prepared to outbid all other promoters in order to bring the Dempsey-Carpentier bout to Boston.

The proposed bout between Dempsey and Gunboat Smith, which had been announced for the latter part of this month at Boston, has been definitely called off by Manager Kearns. He declared last night that he was satisfied that Smith would not make a desirable opponent for the champion, as he no longer ranks among the headliners of the heavyweight division. Kearns is now dickering with the men who were to promote the Dempsey-Smith bout, and it is likely that the champion will engage in a contest later with some other heavyweight in the Hub.

ATHLETES WILL LAND TODAY

Transport Sherman and the Kroonland Bringing More Olympians.

Acting Secretary Treasurer Obertubbesing of the Amateur Athletic Union has just received a cable from Gustavus T. Kirby, President of the American Olympic Committee, giving the names of some of the Olympic team that will arrive in the near future. Among those that wil larrive on the transport Sherman, which is due at 9:30 this morning at Pier 4, Hoboken, are:

Earl Eby, Chicago; Loren Murchison, New York; Matt McGrath, New York; Pat McDonald, New York; H. Politzer, New York; Fred Faller, Boston; L. G. Watson, Syracuse; George P. Massengale, Missouri; J. Webber, Pittsburgh; Joseph Organ, Pittsburgh; W. D. Hayes, Boston; G. R. Goodwin, Boston, and C. J. Dandrow, Boston.

On the steamship Kroonland, due this morning, will be Edward Eagan, Yale University, and on the steamship Aquitania, due Sept. 23, there will be the following: W. Clark, Philadelphia; E. Hartman, Philadelphia, M. N. Herschman, Cleveland; Wallace P. Zivic, Pittsburgh, and J. Zivic, Pittsburgh.

The steamship Olympic, which had not yet sailed from Antwerp, will have aboard H. E. Barron, Philadelphia; H. H. Brown, Boston; Conley, Boston; Johnson, Pittsburgh; Allen Woodring, Philadelphia.

The steamship Lapland has not yet sailed from Antwerp. Among its passengers will be A. R. Pope, University of Washington; K. C. Bartlett, University of Washington; B. L. Templeton, Stanford, Cal.; George S. Bretnall, Iowa; E. L. Bradley, Kansas; C. Furnas, Purdue University; Brutus Hamilton, Missouri; E. E. Jenne, Washington State College; L. G. Watson, Syracuse.

SENIOR POLO TITLE AT STAKE TODAY

Rockaway and Meadow Brook to Clash at Westbury—May Decide International Team.

The senior polo championship of the United States will be decided this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock on the Big Field of the Meadow Brook Club at Westbury, L. I. At the same time, as a result of the play shown in the contest, the makeup of the United States team to invade England next year in the international matches will be at least tentatively determined.

The teams for the title will probably line up as follows:

ROCKAWAY.	MEADOW BROOK.
1—D. E. Stoddard.	1—C. C. Rumsey.
2—E. W. Hopping.	2—T. Hitchcock.
3—M. Stevenson.	3—J. W. Webb.
Back—J. C. Cowden.	Back—D. Milburn.

The match is open to the public and the Polo Association announces that it is anxious to encourage a widespread interest in the game of pony and mallet. Besides the regular Long Island Railroad trains leaving the Pennsylvania Station and the Flatbush Avenue Station, there will be today a special polo train which will leave the Pennsylvania Station at 2:30 o'clock and will return immediately after the game.

Today's contest will mark the beginning of the play for the various national titles. With the senior contest out of the road, the open championship will be the next on the cards, play in this being scheduled for Sept. 14, 16 and 18. Then will follow the junior championship tournament, which will be contested on Sept. 20, 21, 22, 23 and 25.

The International Cup was won in 1914 by the British team led by Captain V. N. Lockett. In England there is a keen interest taken by the general public in the game, which rivals tennis and golf in the hold which it has upon public favor. In America, because of the fact that polo has always appeared to be a more or less restricted sport, the following has been rather small, though none the less ardent because of that fact.

QUALITY HATS

When Shakespeare wrote—"The apparel oft proclaims the man"—there were no labels in men's hats, otherwise he would have said, "The LABEL oft times brands the man."

THE LONG and STETSON LABEL has become the accepted sign of hat*quality*.

At All prices it's the same label, and at All prices LONG'S and STETSON HATS are the best quality obtainable.

We have never burned up valuable space talking prices. Real hat economy lies in getting durable material. And that means quality. We point to the superiority of materials in Long's and Stetson Hats, and let our prices show up by comparison and talk for themselves.

And whether you pay $3.50 or $35.00 the hat you buy at Long's must measure up to the Long Standard of Quality.

To maintain this standard we have found it necessary to have many of the exclusive Long designs made by Stetsons the acknowledged makers of super-quality Men's hats—standard of the world.

And every hat has the same label, the guarantee of Quality—not the sign of a price.

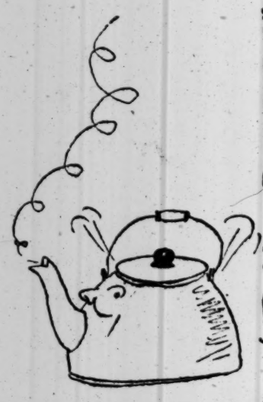
Oh, you Pete:

Cincinnati
Thursday.

Remember Ratty Waters who tied the dishpan under Prof. Bunn's car at Princeton? He's more seriously inclined now. He's selling bonds! Ran smack into Ratty as he was hustling for his a.m. fodder with a Camel cigarette perched between his lips and looking happy like a turtle on a log. It's a pretty air, opening up the morning with a Camel!

Well sir, Pete, what Ratty rattled into my rafters would supply Camel selling stuff for a year! "There's nothing to this cigarette game but Camels", said Ratty. "Their mellowness is a revelation and I never did run into such mildness in my life. And, when you figure that Camels have all the "body" any smoker wants—well, I just marvel that such a cigarette could be made! Did you ever get such a refreshing flavor?

Pete, it was great to hear Ratty sing the praises of Camels quality. And, what a mouthful he said about Camels expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos!



For instance, Ratty spread this: "Shorty, I can't stand the usual unpleasant cigarette aftertaste and unpleasant cigarette odor! Camels are free from both! (100% o.k., Pete!) And, they never tire my taste! When you pass by Camels you have slipped by your smoke signals!

Tried to get Ratty to put some of that sales talk on paper, but he came back:—"You tell 'em, old kettle, you've got the spout!"

Pete, Camels won Ratty's favor like they've won thousands of others! They'll win any man who gives them a chance!

P.S. Just wrote R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. it ought to help to slip a picture of the Camel package right alongside the big name "CAMEL"—like this. More ideas brewing! S.

Beating it for Buffalo this p.m.

UPSETTING REPUBLICAN PLANS.

A plaintive protest to the Republican leaders is made by The Public Ledger of Philadelphia. What is their "Board of Strategy" doing? Where is their political sense? Are they "engaged in arraigning Wilsonism"? No; they spend all their time in answering Cox, "in helping him to make new issues of his own choosing." And the faithful Ledger sadly concludes that the grand offensive campaign planned by the Republicans, implying "unceasing attack," has fallen into a lame defensive.

'Tis pity, but 'tis true. Governor Cox has been as impudent as Marshal JOFFRE was in breaking up the plans of the German General Staff. The Republicans, too, were depending upon a mighty war machine. It was to move forward irresistibly and grind the Democrats to powder. But the undaunted and highly irregular Cox did not wait to be attacked. He at once took the offensive himself and has ever since kept the Republicans parrying his blows. The result has been to throw them into confusion, to compel them to change both tactics and formation in the face of the enemy, and to disgust both their Old Guard and their raw recruits. It is most unmannerly, extremely unmilitary, for Governor Cox to do such things. He really ought meekly to have submitted to being whipped in accordance with the rules of war which the Republican strategists had so carefully written down on headquarters paper.

CONNECTICUT REPUBLICANS.

Mr. J. HENRY RORABACK, for eight years the boss of the Republican Party in Connecticut, has been a very uneasy boss this year. He has created many enmities by his methods. He has made himself especially obnoxious to the suffragists. He tried to steer the Republican machine to a smash by nominating for Governor a man whose election was generally regarded as impossible. He had to beg and plead in vain for the withdrawal of that candidate. "I want to see a man nominated for Governor who can be elected," said one candidate for Governor, ominously. The strongest ticket before all the people, and "that includes the women," should be named. So by a coalition Mr. EVERETT J. LAKE, sometime Lieutenant Governor and famous in the great Goodwin-Lake controversy of ten years ago, was nominated.

The convention had slipped away from control. The delegates had their way. Mr. LAKE is a man of cultivation, character and energy. How far the ancient quarrel is continued or what is the effect of the new quarrels outsiders have small means of knowing; but evidently the convention tried to get the best man for the Governorship. In regard to the Senatorship it pursued the opposite policy, obeyed the boss, renominated Mr. BRANDEGEE, the irreconcilable BRANDEGEE who was a defiant and cynical opponent of woman suffrage, the vociferous enemy of the League of Nations. "He has taken the position "that every red-blooded man ought to "take," said his nominator. One looks eagerly in the platform, but there is not a drop of red blood anywhere in it. Not a word about the League of Nations. The Hartford Courant celebrates Mr. BRANDEGEE as "a brilliant and forceful orator," but doesn't say a word about his brilliant and forceful oratory against the League. That silence is full of meaning. It is an admission of the strength of the League among Connecticut Republicans. It is an admission of the difficulty of forcing upon the Republican voters a candidate whose violence against the League has distressed or disgusted many of them, and who is notoriously offensive to a large section of the woman voters. Who would have expected to see the roaring Nutmeg lion suddenly transformed into a hare?

It is no thanks to the boss that he didn't make or wasn't allowed to make two enormous blunders instead of one, Mr. BRANDEGEE's plurality in 1914 was something over 13,000. Mr. WILSON carried the State by a little more than 6,000 in 1912. Mr. HUGHES's plurality in 1916 was substantially the same. Mr. MCLEAN was elected Senator in 1916 by a plurality of a little more than 8,000 over HOMER CUMMINGS. Connecticut is a close State. The renomination of Mr. BRANDEGEE is eminently satisfactory to Democrats. To a good many Connecticut Republicans it is eminently unsatisfactory.

THE FRENCH LOAN.

The $100,000,000 8 per cent. French loan negotiated here was oversubscribed by many millions in less than an hour. Naturally, this is accepted as evidence that, notwithstanding the very heavy burdens France has had to assume in consequence of the war, she still enjoys good credit in this market.

Is it not also rather conclusive evidence that we have unnecessarily added to the burdens of France by asking her too high a rate for the money we are lending her? The bonds bear 8 per cent. interest; they are callable at 110. It is figured out that this is equivalent to a 9 per cent. rate, or a little more. It is easy to argue on grounds of the strong and cordial feeling of friendship we have for France that we might have been easier in our terms. Men of finance would call that sentiment. But a more conclusive argument for better terms might be based upon the demonstrated eagerness of the public to take advantage of the terms actually demanded. There are many reasons, and they are important, for being liberal rather than exacting in the conditions we impose upon advances to nations upon which the war placed burdens far heavier than any we have to bear.

THE POLICE IN THE STRIKE.

As to the courage of the New York police there has never been any question, but a different and far rarer quality was requisite in handling the Brooklyn strikers. Passions were inflamed on both sides; and, wrong-headed as the strike was, the men were convinced that their course was just. The tenacity with which they have stood by a lost cause is evidence enough of that. It was necessary, as always, that the arm of the law should be strong and sure, but it was also necessary that the iron hand should be sheathed in a velvet glove. Good sense and a hearty human feeling were no less necessary than stern repression.

Mr. FRIDIGER has heard that certain policemen advised and even urged the strikers to go back to work. He is, or pretends to be, highly incensed at this. To him an officer who acts thus is "a dastardly dog," and he threatens to "serve notice on their superiors of the Police Department." His complaint may be heard, but there is little likelihood that it will be heeded. None know better than those superiors that in such a crisis the preservation of order depends primarily on direct personal contact and the human touch. When the law is enforced rigidly and mechanically, strikers are ready to hurl the epithets of "brute," "tyrant" and "Cossack." Mr. FRIDIGER's outburst gives us a little picture of the law in operation which all impartial citizens will prize.

There is a further aspect to the situation which is particularly to be recommended to the attention of the strikers. Of the two counsels, that which Mr. FRIDIGER dinned into them and that which the policemen proffered with a friendly smile, which has proved wiser? In such crises public opinion, ill informed though it often is, constitutes by all odds the safest guide. If the men had listened to the vox populi from the lips of their friend in blue, instead of to the men whose profession is labor trouble, they would now be much better off.

CITY AUTOMOBILE CASUALTIES.

In Health Commissioner COPELAND's letter to Secretary of State HUGO urging that something be done to reduce the number of automobile casualties in the city streets it is admitted that "the majority of the accidents are the fault of the pedestrian"; indeed, Dr. COPELAND declares that the fact is "well established." This will be challenged in some quarters, but it is a point not worth contesting when another fact of sinister importance is also well established: that drug addicts, drunkards, and men of low and vicious character are often found in the driver's seat. It is such incompetents and ruffians that the Health Commissioner would have always and forever disqualified for the difficult and responsible work of threading the mazes of the city streets. It may be that pedestrians are frequently, and perhaps in most cases, guilty of contributory negligence when accidents occur, and that in a great many cases drivers are blameless; but why talk about contributory negligence when the driver is of the class that public opinion condemns? Of the 52.52 per cent. of children killed by automobiles in the first seven months of 1920 in New York, how many were victims of drivers whom it is morally indefensible to license?

Each year the number of persons killed and crippled in this city by automobiles increases woefully. In 1919 the killed and fatally injured were 767, according to Dr. COPELAND, and the number of crippled and badly hurt was much greater. It used to be a reproach to the State of New York that her automobile laws were far less humane and rational than those of Massachusetts, New Jersey and some other States. There has been some improvement, but as regards the qualifications demanded of drivers and the supervision of persons holding licenses the margin for reform is still large. There are short-sighted and deaf men and women operating automobiles in New York and all over the State. What a farce it is to permit them to be at the wheel! But the issuance of licenses to the degenerate and the criminal is an outrage that should never have been tolerated; the wrong has been going on for years.

Dr. COPELAND asks, in his letter to the Secretary of State, that "New "York lead the way and make the "fundamental requirements for a li"cense to drive a car physical perfec"tion" (by which he means sound faculties and sufficient strength to drive) "and moral character." Why should there be any objection to this proposal in principle?

With time and opportunity for reflection, Governor Cox probably would not have said what he is reported by the correspondent of The World to have said at Butte, Mon., that "wherever you show me a radical "movement I will show you a Gov"ernment that has been unjust and "oppressive."

There are many radical movements in this country. The members of the I. W. W., the Communists, the Socialists, of late the Bolsheviki, have been preaching and some of them acting radicalism in this country. Their radicalism is not the result of "unjust and oppressive government"; it springs from quite different sources. There is much radicalism in the neighborhood of Butte. Governor Cox would have very great difficulty in demonstrating that it is the fruit of Government injustice and oppression.

Again, the Governor would have been well advised had he omitted, or put in a very different form, what he had to say about self-determination for Ireland and his potential relations to that question. Any American, even though he be a candidate for the Presidency, may without reproach express his sympathy for the Irish in their political troubles. But Governor Cox, after declaring that the peace of the world will be more promoted by harmonious feeling between the English-speaking nations than by anything else, went on to give a forecast or pledge of his official action should he be elected President: "It "would be my duty, and very quick"ly availed of, as a friend of peace, "asserting the friendly right of any "member of the League, to present "the Irish cause to the attention of "the League under the authority "given by Article XI. and to give to "Ireland or any other aggrieved peo"ple the opportunity to plead their "cause before the bar of civilized "opinion."

A memorable incident in the political career of Mr. GLADSTONE may here be recalled for the benefit and admonition of the Democratic candidate. In his Midlothian campaign in 1880 Mr. GLADSTONE, blazing with indignation against the behavior of Austria, asked, "Where can any man "put his finger on the map and say "there Austria did good?" Mr. GLADSTONE's party enjoyed a notable triumph in that election. When, on the reassembling of Parliament, he had taken his place at the head of the Government, Austria ventured to inquire what she had to expect. It became Mr. GLADSTONE's duty to explain. He began his explanation with these words: "When I was in a posi"tion of greater freedom and less "responsibility," and so forth. Governor Cox is very much in Mr. GLADSTONE's position, but some share of his prospective responsibility in the office to which he aspires attaches to him in the present moment. It will be better to leave delicate, in this case very delicate, matters of foreign relations to be determined after his election in consultation with his Cabinet advisers. In campaign speaking, the spontaneous impulses of the mind cannot always be trusted. The enemy is watchful and it is better not to give friends cause for regret.

THIS YEAR'S AMATEUR GOLF.

The finals today in the amateur golf championship will bring to a close a tournament of unusual interest. Our best players rallied, in the first place, to repel a foreign "invasion." With England and Canada sending their own champions to compete, along with a number of fine supporting golfers, there was fear that the title might again be snatched from us. But this has now been dispelled. Only one of the British contingent was able even to qualify, and he and the Canadian champion soon fell before native prowess. Today the final match will be fought out by worthy survivors of the week's severe contest.

It has been made doubly severe by the difficult links selected for this year's championship. Fearsome tales had been spread of the terrors of the Engineers' course at Roslyn, and many a golfer of renown is ready to testify that the half had not been told. It is almost wholly a matter of the greens. These are placed and shaped and trapped in a way to put an enormous premium on accurate iron play and to punish unmercifully the slightest lapse. It would seem that some peculiarly diabolic engineer must have laid out the Roslyn links.

Whether the result is a fair test of golf will be disputed wherever the baffled experts of the game most do congregate. To penalize what would ordinarily be a perfect shot to the green is a sure way to rouse wrath, malice and all uncharitableness in the breast of the otherwise happy golfer. When he sees a ball pitched near the flag go shooting down a skinned slope into a bunker, or rolling through a tricky depression into the rough, he is tempted to exclaim: "It is magnificent, but it is not golf." Mr. OUIMET is reported to have said that he had found it wise deliberately to play short on over half the holes at Roslyn, so as not to run the risk of going further and faring worse. It is, of course, as fair for one player as for another, and the man who is returned champion this afternoon will know that he has had to work for his laurels.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

An Alarming Change Is Described.

A correspondent of The London Post, whose letter is signed "A Bewildered Parent," fills a column of that paper with lamentation, evidently heartfelt, over what he—or perhaps it's she—thinks a dreadful change that has taken place in British youth, both young men and maidens, since the war.

According to this affrighted observer, it is not the sovietism of LENIN and TROTZKY that endangers the world, but a revolt of the young against the old. No longer is respect paid to gray hairs, and the wearers thereof, instead of getting credit for the superior wisdom that once was admitted to be the fruit of experience, are treated with a calm indifference when they proffer advice or attempt to establish rules and regulations for their offspring.

It is this quiet ignoring of age's counsel that seems most to have hurt the feelings of the bewildered parent—to be worse than would have been open insolence and derision. The old hierarchy of the home and family has been swept aside, and the young men who went through the war have "settled down into the dour and impregnable consistency of granite." They "have awakened from dreams to a cold reality and they are not to be caught napping again. • • • They have become silent scoffers. And when they do speak, and we twit them for their cynicism and their measured worldliness, they turn around and with amused impartiality laugh at themselves."

The young women are held to be no better, for though they resent the attitude of the young men, their reaction is a determination to marry elderly men—"one who will do so much more for me," as one of them put it—and they are "determined to have a good time, whatever the price."

This "Revolt" Far from Unprecedented.

There are some hints in the letter of the "Bewildered Parent" that justify, or at least excuse, the assumption that the writer is a father, not a mother. Mingled with the complaints are admissions that reveal an ability to see both sides—an ability which, while not unknown in women by any means, is more common in men.

For instance, the bewildered one confesses that, after all, the young men did answer the supreme call that was made on them in 1914 and later; they did win the war, and by so doing they earned the right to have opinions of their own on any subjects they choose to consider. More than that, it is not without reason that they have lost confidence in the wisdom and the standards of those who caused, or at any rate permitted, the world to slip down into the horrible abyss where slaughter and destruction prevailed for more than four years—an abyss which the older generation is now showing no remarkable skill in closing. "They are contemptuous of our ways and of our advice, but then have we been so conspicuously successful in the ordering of our own destinies?"

That, in effect, is the same question that was asked by the young American, JOHN C. CARTER, Jr., in the magazine article on which recent comment was made in this column, and, although the argument implied by the question is not as nearly conclusive as its proponents suppose, it is no weaker, no more fallacious, than are the arguments of those who imagine that now, for the first time in history, there is incompatibility between youth and old age—who proclaim that "All is lost!" merely because they are undergoing an experience which, in one degree or another, has come to every generation—which more than probably will continue to come till the end of the world's habitability by human beings.

Mistaken Praise Repeated.

Now it is Mr. LLOYD GEORGE that has joined the almost innumerable company of orators who, made vocal by the celebrations in both old and new Plymouth, recently have credited our dear Pilgrim Fathers with just the one virtue that not one of them either possessed or admired.

"Their achievement in the fight for religious freedom and against the forces of intolerance and persecution," said the British Premier, "has earned our undying gratitude."

What the Pilgrims fought for was different from that and nearly its opposite. They wanted to be free to believe what they chose and to do what they thought right—an aspiration worthy, indeed—but of freedom of opinion for everybody they never even dreamed, and they would have been no more likely to hold it desirable than would the vast majority of the men and women of their time. They were not less intolerant than those because of whose intolerance they fled across the sea, and when occasion arose they persecuted exactly as they had been persecuted.

The achievement for which Mr. LLOYD GEORGE and so many other laudators are praising the Pilgrims was not theirs; they opposed it as long and vehemently as they could and acquiesced in it with as much of anger as of sorrow. But they had so many merits, they accomplished so much, and they are so deserving of honor and respect that it seems a pity what they were and did is not better known—that their chief and most frequent eulogy should be about the only one they did not earn.

Really, there is no need to turn their history into myth to make it creditable to their successors in the land.

They Knew the Risk They Took.

There is difficulty in feeling much or real commiseration for the civilian employés at the Edgeworth arsenal in Maryland whose deaths followed the drinking of non-potable alcohol. They, like everybody else, had been warned again and again of the danger they ran in dealing with the criminals now trafficking in intoxicants.

Doubtless they had read of the penalty paid for this form of folly by victims in towns scattered pretty well all over the country, and it was in recklessness rather than ignorance that they took desperate chances for the sake of a miserable satisfaction.

A strange feature of the case is the obstinate refusal of the survivors of the poison to tell from whom they bought it. Loyalty is not owed to men who commit murder for a price. But perhaps those who escaped death so narrowly feel themselves so little better than their betrayers that they are unwilling to bring those betrayers to punishment. No other explanation of their silence is easily imaginable.

THE RUSSIAN CHILDREN.

A Protest Against the Bolshevist Influences Let Loose Upon Them.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The series of scandals which took place in connection with the sojourn of the 300 Russian children refugees from Soviet Russia, who are in this country in care of the American Red Cross, has now become a matter of public discussion.

The Russian community in New York watched with deep regret the gradual but deliberate surrendering of these children by the American Red Cross to the Bolshevist gang, headed by Martens, the self-appointed "Ambassador" of Soviet Russia. The Russians in this city protest most emphatically against the disgraceful behavior of the Bolshevist crowd in their dealings with the innocent Russian children. The moment the Bolsheviki got the opportunity to approach the Russian refugees they converted their "entertainment" into a public scandal. In the New York Zoölogical Garden, at Fort Wadsworth and at Madison Square Garden they openly preached anarchy and corruption to those very children who have fled from the horrors of the Soviet régime. Pictures of Lenin and Trotzky, together with red flags, were openly distributed among these children by the east side Bolsheviki.

I wish to impress upon the public mind that the Russian colony is not to be held responsible for the disgraceful behavior of a gang of irresponsible internationalists, who seize every occasion to spread their venomous theories among the population at large. The Russian colony had nothing to do with this entertainment, and I regret to state that, due to the passive attitude of the American Red Cross, the whole entertainment of the Russian children was placed under the control of non-Russian Bolsheviki. BORIS BRASOL,
Chairman Association Unity of Russia.
New York, Sept. 8, 1920.

Test of the Paper-Bound Book.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The discussion of the question of economy in publishing books in paper covers is apparently being viewed from two opposite angles. One side believes a reduction of 20 per cent. in the retail for paper-bound books would be a grateful economy. As an old bookseller, I have grave doubts of the success of such an experiment. If a novel is offered at $1.60 in paper and $2 in cloth, the buyer, nine times out of ten, will select the more lasting edition, in view of the slight difference in price. The other view has in mind the popularity of paper-bound editions of the age of piracy, when we gave no protection to foreign authors. The reprinters in those days reveled in cheap editions of new books. Paper was selling at 4 to 5 cents a pound; it is now 18 cents. Typesetting cost about one-third of present rates; binding was equally low, and the creator of the book was never considered. The result was a deluge of very good-looking books, sold, through keen competition, at little more than actual manufacturing cost. There can never again be even an approach to such a golden age of piracy.

It is just possible some of our publishers will try the experiment of publishing a really worth-while book or two in manila covers, and then the real test will come. If it increases the sale, other publishers will gladly follow suit. After all, to get lower retail prices the whole level of production costs must tumble very perceptibly, but who can prophesy when? A Strange Bird in the City.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your bird-loving readers will be as interested as I was to know of a rare and beautiful forest bird, the "redstart," disporting himself in metropolitan New York—on the skylight of the Grand Central Terminal. I have only seen specimens in Canada and Northern Michigan. He is about canary size, black, with large patches of orange red.

I with the other occupants of the office watched him for twenty minutes catching flies around and under the wire netting. He was not 10 feet away from us. On seeing us he played his favorite trick of pretending to be injured, falling on his side and fluttering with one wing, and then flew away, but presently came back and buried himself again with his lunch, showing that his hurt was all make-believe. I have seen them do this near the nest, and thought it was to draw the attention of an intruder and lure him away from his little ones, but this one could hardly have had a nest in or on the Grand Central Terminal, especially in these days of high rents. Voting as Foreigners.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On all sides we read of factions following the bent of their particular inclinations, but are they American? The Irish hold meetings and go on strike to settle the English. Now we learn that 6,000,000 Germans are going to vote for Harding, in the hopes of a separate peace. If 6,000,000 Germans succeed in returning Harding, will it be an American success or German, in the interest of a German peace?

If the foreigners by clubbing their votes can outvote and defeat American policy, truly it would appear that the real American has very little say in running his vast United States. AMERICA.

CEDAR TREES.

The cedar has a secret
Of perfume in her heart.
The cedar has a red, red heart!

The cedar tree is silent,
She makes no cry
When great winds come
Beating by.
The cedar is a dark tree,
Shadowy still.
She holds oil that
She must not spill.

She stands stiff, with
A pointed top.
She never asks
A man to stop
Under her boughs
As pine trees do.
She doesn't wish
To speak to you!

Of perfume in her heart.

EXPLAINING HARDING.

A Reply to Professor Corwin's Views on the League.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Professor Edward S. Corwin's communication, printed in your columns on Sept. 8, is not so much a reply to David Hunter Miller as it is an explanation and apology for Mr. Harding, and as such it is not convincing. In some instances the explanation is less satisfactory than the original.

In the first place, the United States has not been asked to accept the League "unqualifiedly." We accept the League constitution as it actually is, not as the League perverters say it is; and that constitution does not bind the United States, legally or morally, to go to war unless our representative in the League Council and the Congress so determine. How can the United States be charged with a "breach of national good faith and honor" for refusal to become a party to an act which it has not officially sanctioned? Each case that comes before the League must be decided on its own merits, and it is folly to say that the United States is morally bound by a decision in which it does not concur, when the League constitution specifically and intentionally gives each member a virtual veto by requiring unanimity in the vote of the Council.

The enemies of the League seem to take it for granted that our representative in the Council, chosen by the President and the Senate, will vote against American interests and without instructions from his Government. And certainly the treaty-wreckers cannot argue consistently that our representative, who is but the agent of the Government, can morally bind the United States, if he should vote without Congressional sanction, when they themselves have refused to assume any moral responsibility for the work of the President in Paris. When we entered the war, and when the enemy signed the armistice terms, we assumed the greatest moral responsibility that it has been the privilege of any State to assume: to make an honest effort, through a League of civilized States, to reduce to a minimum the probabilities of future wars. Why do those who pride themselves in being responsible for breaking faith with mankind in this matter now affect such nice concern for the good-will of the world that they fear the United States might be deemed guilty of a "breach of national good faith and honor" when acting within the clear intent and provisions of our own Constitution and the constitution of the League? Will some apologist for Mr. Harding explain?

The Constitution of the United States also contemplates the use of military force in certain cases to coerce United States citizens, but it has not been found necessary to employ that force to the extent that the Constitution has become an instrument of oppression. All civil authority rests ultimately upon force, and a League without authority would serve no better purpose than that of certain Republican leaders to defeat an effective League.

The League is not dead, Senator Harding and Professor Corwin notwithstanding; and to say that it is is to handle known facts very carelessly. However, the reactionaries the world over are uniting to make it dead, and the election of Mr. Harding would be the most serious step in the consummation of that end.

How is Mr. Harding going to make the "just decrees" of The Hague Tribunal "enforceable" without the application of force? If international law is to be made a true body of the civil law, and if the "just decrees" of the international court are to be made "enforceable," such law and decrees must be legally sanctioned, and the sanction of the whole body of the civil law is the physical force of the State. If The Hague Tribunal is to be given "force" to enforce its decrees, how is this force to differ from that of the League? And if the tribunal is not to be given force, how are its decrees to be made "enforceable"? If the tribunal should render a "decision in a boundary dispute between the United States and Mexico" adverse to the United States, and if the decree is to be made "enforceable," will it not become necessary for the other members of the tribunal to pool their forces to combat the United States, by economic boycott or arms, if the United States should resist the decision? Or, would the Senator and his apologist get around that situation by saying that all decrees adverse to the national interests of the United States are not "just decrees"? Professor Corwin does not reply to Mr. Miller fairly on this point.

There seems to be a conspiracy afoot to prevent the great body of Republicans from gaining any information whatsoever as to the position of their candidate on any of the leading political issues. Senator Harding seems to speak in terms of a code whose key is known only to his Senatorial masters; so, as far as the country is concerned, Mr. Harding is a blank check indorsed by Messrs. Penrose, Lodge, Smoot and Knox. It must be humiliating to progressive Republicans to be constantly called upon to apologize for their party's candidate.

Wisdom from Hamilton.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I herewith enclose a quotation from a letter of Alexander Hamilton, dated March 15, 1788, discussing the executive power under the Constitution. It aptly applies to the present controversy concerning the League of Nations; that it might have been said by any one of those who have been prominent in the endeavor to have it ratified.
W. F. FOX.
Cincinnati, Sept. 7, 1920.

From Alexander Hamilton's letter of March 15, 1788.

"Men often oppose a thing merely because they have had no agency in planning it, or because it may have been planned by those whom they dislike. But if they have been consulted and have happened to disapprove, opposition then becomes, in their estimation, an indispensable duty of self-love. They seem to think themselves bound in honor, and by all the motives of personal infallibility, to defeat the success of what has been resolved upon contrary to their sentiments. Men of upright, benevolent tempers have too many opportunities of remarking with horror to what desperate lengths this disposition is sometimes carried, and how often the great interests of society are sacrificed to the vanity, to the conceit, and to the obstinacy of individuals, who have credit enough to make their passions and their caprices interesting to mankind. Perhaps the question now before the public may, in its consequences, afford melancholy proofs of the effects of this despicable frailty, or rather detestable vice, in the human character."

Party Credit for the War.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

While ostentatiously lecturing Governor Cox on the lack of good taste in proclaiming one's own achievements, does not the young Colonel commit that very offense by claiming (no matter how judicously) that the Republican Party won the war? C. M.

DR. JOHN McNEILL HERE.

Begins Pastorate of Fort Washington Presbyterian Church Tomorrow.

After preaching in the five continents of the world, the Rev. Dr. John McNeill, known as "the Scottish Evangelist," will tomorrow morning begin his pastorate of the Fort Washington Presbyterian Church, Broadway and 174th Street. He will succeed the Rev. Dr. Daniel Hoffman Martin, who died last December. Dr. McNeill will receive $8,000 a year and rent.

Dr. McNeill and his family came here from Birmingham, Ala., where he was pastor of the Highland (Southern) Presbyterian Church. Dr. and Mrs. McNeill have the five youngest children with them, one girl and four boys. The clergyman received a call to the local church Feb. 25 last, but he declined. The church then sent a committee to Birmingham to plead with him to reconsider. The "dead line" at which a pastor gets called to another church is said to be 50 years of age, but Dr. McNeill is in his sixty-seventh year.

Dr. McNeill was born in Scotland and was educated in Edinburgh University, the University of Glasgow, and the Free Church Divinity School, Glasgow. His first pastorate was at McCrie-Roxburgh Church, Edinburgh. This was followed by service in Regent Square, London. Dr. McNeill then associated himself with the late Dwight L. Moody, with whom he conducted evangelistic meetings in Great Britain, Ireland and later in the United States, especially at the World's Fair in Chicago.

The work of Dr. McNeill as a preacher has carried him to Canada, New Zealand, India, Australia, Tasmania, South Africa, Greece, Smyrna, Gibraltar and Malta. His silver anniversary in the ministry found him pastor of St. George's Church, Liverpool. From there Dr. McNeill went to Cook's Presbyterian Church, Toronto, Canada, and thence to the pastorate of Central Church, Denver, Col.

The Scotchman left Denver to serve the British Y. M. C. A. For two and a half years he worked in the camps of Great Britain, France, Egypt and Palestine.

AISNE VETERANS TO MEET.

Will Hold First Divisional Reunion at Bear Mountain.

On the second anniversary of the withdrawal of the 77th Division from the battlefields on the Aisne River, north of Fismes, the veterans of all regiments in the organization on Sunday, Sept. 19, will hold their first divisional reunion at Bear Mountain. The veterans will go up the river on the steamer Pocahontas in the morning and return in the evening.

A special effort has been made to find all the wounded men of the division who are still in military hospitals near this city, and they will be the honor guests of the first reunion. Many of these men were wounded on Sept. 26, 1918, when the division attacked the German line in the southern part of the Argonne Forest—the field to which the units were sent after their sudden withdrawal from the Aisne.

The 77th Division Club and combined posts of the American Legion are arranging a program for the field day, which will include a 220-yard dash, a 100-yard dash and a tug-of-war. Several cups have been offered as prizes, and it is intended to have a fine silver cup advocated by the city authorities, would permit the city to extend its credit, secured by mortgages, on up to 75 per cent. of the value of new dwellings costing not more than $7,000.

Another suggestion contemplates the repeal of the law enacted in 1916 under which savings banks can make loans on bank acceptances and bills of exchange, thus forcing them to lend on mortgages. There was little likelihood, it was said, that this suggestion would be made part of the legislative program.

Governor Smith will submit to the Legislature recommendations for amendments to the Home Rule Act of 1913 to permit the City of New York to operate municipally owned bus lines. In a sense this is a measure looking to housing relief, because it would enable the city to render accessible for home building sections now lying idle because of the lack of transit facilities.

Would Control Phone Rates.

The Governor will recommend also the enactment of a bill giving the Public Service Commission power to suspend telephone schedules pending an investigation by the commission as to the justice and reasonableness of proposed new rates.

This would only place telephone companies on a footing of equality in this respect with other public service corporations. A bill to attain this purpose was before the Legislature at its regular session, but failed to become law as the result of a very active and effective lobby maintained by the New York Telephone Company. Since this legislation failed large rate increases affecting up-State localities have been put into effect by the company, while large increases are proposed for telephone users in this city. It was predicted by legislators that the proposed legislation would find favor with the Republican majority in both branches of the Legislature.

It is the intention of both Governor Smith and the legislative leaders to have the extraordinary session, which meets a week from Monday, get through with its work within a week.

ITALY LOOKS TO AIX PARLEY.

Press Declares It Will Be More Important Than That at Lucerne.

ROME, Sept. 10.—Much importance is placed in the meeting of Premiers Giolitti and Millerand at Aix-les-Bains, France, and newspapers here declare it will, perhaps, be more important than that at Lucerne, where Signor Giolitti met Premier Lloyd George. Italian and French public opinion and the press of both countries have shown susceptibility lately relative to the attitude of the respective countries and it is declared it is highly desirable that this sentiment should be dissipated.

"Italy desires to return with France to a frank and sincere brotherly relation," says the Tribuna. "This would occur immediately if France gave us in these days tangible proof of her friendship by actual help, for instance, in solving the Adriatic question and ameliorating the economic condition of this country, which was bled white by the war."

TEACHERS REPORT FOR DUTY

Receive August Checks and Prepare for Opening on Monday.

The public school teachers reported for duty yesterday and made preparations for the regular term, which will begin on Monday. They received their checks for August, with the full increases granted by the Lockwood law. The payrolls left the Controller's office yesterday morning.

At the Board of Education Hall the Supervisors' payroll, carrying with it the increases granted by the Board of Education, was received. The clerical staff of the Department of Education, whose checks were due September 1, may have to wait a few days before they receive their full amounts. The $3,717,000, voted by the Board of Aldermen, will cover the increases in salary for little more than a month. The Corporation Counsel has advised the Controller that he may pay the $7,055,000 needed for the balance of the year by issuing tax notes in anticipation of receiving the State school moneys. Controller Craig has issued no statement since he received the Corporation Counsel's opinion.

TO URGE WAGE RENEWALS.

Federal Conciliators Will Act in Motion Picture Industry.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Intervention of Department of Labor conciliators to bring about a renewal of wage agreements expiring Sept. 15 between employers and 5,000 employes in motion picture studios in Los Angeles was authorized today by W. L. Kerwin, chief of the Bureau of Conciliation.

The action followed notification that expiration of the agreements affecting the Building Trades Council, theatrical employes and the Motion Picture Producers' Association probably would bring about complete cessation of work in twenty-five motion picture studios unless an agreement was reached.

DERBY DENIES DIFFERENCES

Retirement Not Due to Disagreement Over Russian Policy, He Says.

PARIS, Sept. 10.—Reports that the resignation of the Earl of Derby as British Ambassador to France was caused by a disagreement with the British Government over the policy to be followed in Russia were denied by the retiring Ambassador last night. He declared to The Associated Press that last Spring he had requested the British Government to relieve him before the end of the year, owing to his desire to resume his activities in England.

Asked whether he would resume political work, he said he preferred a phrase used by H. H. Asquith, "Wait and see," adding he would "remain in touch with his French and American friends in Paris."

"I am leaving several horses training in France," he continued, with the now famous "Derby wink," "and these will inevitably bring me back."

56 TENANTS WIN VICTORY.

Advised to Tender 10% Rent Increase of the 45 Demanded.

A temporary victory was scored by fifty-six tenants of a row of five apartment houses from 238 to 268 Seventy-fifth Street, Brooklyn, when Julius Pendalton Wilson, chief counsel of the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering, instructed them to offer the landlord of the buildings an increase of 10 per cent. over their last month's rent. The landlord, Max Goldberg of Chicago, through his agent, Arthur J. Horton, demanded increases of 45 per cent., according to the tenants.

The tenants, headed by Colonel W. H. McCormack, a veteran of the World War and at present stationed on Governors Island, told Mr. Wilson that when the houses were built, four years ago, the landlord asked a rental of $8 a room. The present landlord, who has owned the house since Aug. 15, is asking $20 a room.

Several suggestions for relieving the housing crisis were made last night at the meeting of the Federation of Professions and Business in Public School 165, in West 108th Street. The speakers were Leo K. Mayer and Frederick Goldsmith, formerly members of the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering; Charles F. Gilman and ex-Assemblyman W. C. Amos. One of the suggestions was that the Federal Government aid in the organization of a Builders' Loan Bank on the plan of the Farm Loan banks, so that builders would be able to get money to carry on their work. It was decided to attempt to send 1,000 persons to Albany to push housing legislation at the special session.

LINCOLN GAINS ON RECOUNT.

SAYS BRITAIN FACES SOCIAL REVOLUTION

James M. Beck Declares Country Is in Most Serious Crisis Since Cromwell's Time.

LEAGUE DEAD, HE ASSERTS

Conditions in France Are Much Improved and Labor Is Aiding in Reconstruction.

James M. Beck, ex-Assistant United States Attorney General, returned yesterday on the White Star liner Adriatic from a three months' trip abroad, accompanied by his wife and daughter, during which he visited England, France, Germany and Belgium. Mr. Beck said that the League of Nations was dead absolutely in Europe, and the only country where it is spoken of is the United States.

Mr. Beck said that the Europeans blamed President Wilson for the failure of the League as he was its most enthusiastic supporter. Apart from the subject of the League of Nations he found that Americans were treated everywhere, judging by his experience, with hospitality and courtesy, as the majority of the people abroad do not blame the citizens of this country for what has happened.

Giving his opinion upon conditions in Europe, Mr. Beck said:

"England is passing through the most serious social revolution since the time of Cromwell. Among the many distinguished English publicists I found a spirit of grave apprehension. The authority of the political State, as against the powerful labor group, is at stake. Apparently, an impasse has been reached, for the labor leaders were not sufficiently satisfied with the solidarity of their forces to push their extreme demands, while the Government did not dare assert its authority fully with the hazard of a general strike.

France Is Prospering.

"The best opinion seemed to be that a sober second thought of the manual workers would save the situation. If not, the only salvation of parliamentary government lies in the patriotism of the middle classes.

"In France, social conditions were much better. Labor had rejected the spirit of Bolshevism and was loyally cooperating in the work of reconstruction. Great progress had been made. The crops were in fine condition and public men spoke with confidence of the future, as was shown when before the announcement of a new loan, there were oversubscription applications by the thrifty peasants and small business men for a considerable portion of it. The same was true of Belgium, and the worst condition in both countries was not the condition of their cattle. Tuberculosis and foot and mouth disease was so prevalent that milk was a very scarce commodity.

"I visited the occupied portion of Germany, chiefly to see the American flag floating over Ehrenbreitstein, the fortification at the Rhine opposite Coblenz. Too much praise can hardly be given to our army administration on the Rhine. General Allen rules this portion of Germany with firmness, fairness and magnanimity. He tempers justice with mercy, for each day he feeds 10,000 German children who are undernourished. If I can judge all of Germany by the Rhine provinces, it is a land of despair.

"Thousands are unemployed, and those who are employed are only too obviously suffering from malnutrition. Only for the very little children is milk available, and for adults there is only very bad bread, no sugar or butter, and meat only once a week.

Met King Albert.

"While in Belgium I was greatly privileged to have a private audience with King Albert, which lasted nearly an hour, and we discussed many subjects. He expressed the greatest admiration for America and its institutions, and even greater gratitude for its help in Belgium's hour of dire need."

The Adriatic arrived early in the morning in Quarantine and was detained eight hours there by the health officers. The ship was released at 4 o'clock. Alexander I. Rorke, Assistant District Attorney of New York City, returned with a grievance against the British Government because he was not allowed to land in Ireland. He went on the Baltic with Archbishop Mannix, and thinks that possibly his friendliness with de Valera and Bourke Cockran and the Archbishop's party might have had something to do with his not being allowed to land. It had inconvenienced him a good deal, he said, because he had intended to meet his wife and mother there.

Major General Sir Godfrey F. Fielding arrived on the liner on his way to Australia on private business. Colonel C. Bardelloni and Count G. Hameri Biscia also arrived from Italy on their way to Washington to attend a conference on wireless communication.

Mrs. Elizabeth Benedittl, a passenger in the steerage, died as the liner was anchored at the Quarantine station.

HAMMONTON IN DOUBT ABOUT COUGHLIN BABY

Residents Still Believe It Is Stolen Child, Although Mother Positively Denied It.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Sept. 10.—Some doubt still remains in the mind of Harry P. Mottola, acting Chief of Police, regarding the identity of the child left at the home of Mrs. Walter Bakley on Aug. 25. Although the child is said to be George Font, son of Mrs. Florence Font, a widow, of Philadelphia, Mottola still believes it is the baby of Mrs. George H. Coughlin, of Norristown, Pa., stolen from his crib in the Coughlin home on June 2 last.

At the time of the visit of the parents of the missing baby it was currently reported here that Mrs. Coughlin expressed no opinion while examining the child left with Mrs. Bakley. Finally, after making a close scrutiny of the child, according to reports here, she asked a certain question regarding a point that has not been made public. She received an answer in the negative. This reply caused Mrs. Coughlin to state positively the child could not be hers, despite the fact that it resembled the missing baby, as far as the police description was concerned. Oddly enough, since the visit of the Coughlins, it has been discovered that the reply given the mother, although made in good faith, was erroneous.

Further efforts to identify the baby, which is still here, will be made.

The statements in the foregoing dispatch conflict directly with what Mrs. Coughlin said to a NEW YORK TIMES reporter who visited her at her Norristown home on Sunday, Sept. 5.

"I knew instantly," said Mrs. Coughlin, "that that baby at Hammonton was not mine. My baby would be fifteen months old now. That Hammonton baby was at least three or four months older than that. Besides, the color of my baby's eyes could not have changed."

MISS MOULTON WED TO J. H. HARPER, JR.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Moulton Married in St. John's Church, Far Rockaway.

RECEPTION IN HAZARD HOME

Nuptials of Miss Isabelle Reading and Capt. D. N. Bulloch; Miss Rebecca Gilroy and B. M. Fischer.

The wedding of Miss Margaret Moulton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin W. Moulton of Interlaken, Wakefield, R. I., and J. Henry Harper, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Harper of 969 Park Avenue, was celebrated at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in St. John's Church, Far Rockaway, L. I., the Rev. Dr. Olmstead, head master of Pomfret School, Conn., officiating. Francis Moulton, a brother of the bride, gave her in marriage.

The bride wore a gown made entirely of old family lace topped with a tulle veil. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley. The matron of honor was Mrs. Melvin E. Sawin, a sister of the bride, who was in a frock of yellow chiffon. The other bridal attendants were the Misses Gertrude N. Welling, Sarah Larkin, Ruth Jenks, Caroline Fisher, Urling Valentine, Mrs. Graham Dougherty and Mrs. Robert Johnson. They appeared in yellow frocks with blue chiffon overdresses and carried yellow roses. There were four flower girls, the Misses Camilla and Katherine Moss and Frances and Fredericka Poor, who wore frocks of cream-colored net.

John Harper, 2d, served as his brother's best man, and the ushers were Melvin E. Sawin, O'Donnell Iselin, William F. Phillips, Oliver Bird, Jr., Courtlandt Dixon Moss, Raymond Chauncey, Frederick Willis, Sigourney Olney, Van Duser Hunton, Marion S. Wyeth, Edward B. Condon and Walton Eaton.

Following the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Ayrault Hazard, in Cedarhurst, L. I., which was attended by about 500 guests. Mrs. and Mrs. Harper left last night on their honeymoon, and upon their return they will reside at 52 East Sixty-eighth Street.

During the war Mr. Harper served overseas with the air force of the army. In addition to being a member of the Rockaway Hunt Club, he belongs to the Racquet and Tennis and Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht clubs. His father was one time President of the Rockaway Hunt Club. His older brother, Fletcher Harper, a well known steeplechase rider, some years ago married Miss Harriet T. Wadsworth and lives in Geneseo, N. Y.

Bulloch—Reading.

Captain David Neilson Bulloch, who was Assistant Marine Director of the Port of New York during the war, and Miss Isabelle Albina Reading, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Reading of Weehawken, N. J., were married on Thursday at the First Presbyterian Church in Harrison, N. Y., the Rev. William Bulloch, father of the bridegroom and pastor of the church, officiating.

The bride was attended by a sister of the bridegroom, Miss Esther T. Bulloch, and the best man was George Bulloch, a brother of the bridegroom. The ushers were Robert Ray of New York, J. R. Welsh of Bridgeport, Conn.; George Moulton Morse of Harrison and William Bulloch, Jr.

Fischer—Gilroy.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Rebecca Eaton Gilroy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Gilroy of Vancouver, B. C., to Bradley M. Fischer, son of T. Tasso Fischer, President of the Bronx Savings Bank. The ceremony took place at noon on Sept. 1, in the McPhail Baptist Church at Ottawa, Ont.

Upon their return to this city Mr. and Mrs. Fischer will make their home at 10 Sherman Avenue. Mr. Fischer, who is a graduate of Columbia University, is senior partner in the brokerage firm of Fischer & Sey.

Baldwin—Mitchell.

The marriage is announced of Miss Jenny Maria Hermine Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell of Dundee, Scotland, and Trieste, Italy, and Elbert Baldwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Francis Baldwin of 27 East Sixty-second Street and Marhoim, Lakewood, N. J.

Miss Mitchell and Mr. Baldwin first became acquainted when he was connected with the American Relief Administration and stationed at Fiume about a year ago. Miss Mitchell's father is manager and part owner of one of the large industries of Trieste. During the war she and her family were interned in Austria by the Government. Upon their release they found their home partially destroyed by aerial bombardment.

Mr. Baldwin is a graduate of Williams College, class of '16, and saw service with the American Ambulance Corps in France, later serving with the naval forces in the Mediterannean and the Adriatic. He commanded the naval guard which escorted the first food train to traverse Jugoslavia and Hungary, arriving at Budapest during the Bolshevist régime. He returned here last December.

After a short honeymoon abroad, Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin will return to this city, where they will make their home.

Morrison—Hazleton.

Miss Rosalind Hazleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Hazleton of this city, and Robert F. Morrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Morrison of Yonkers, N. Y., were married at Felbridge Church, Felbridge, Surrey, England, on Aug. 3, according to an announcement received here yesterday. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. B. W. Clinch.

Mr. Morrison, after three years at Dartmouth College, transferred to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and was graduated from the Department of Engineering there.

HOPES FOR LASTING PEACE.

Dombski Says Poland Looks to Full Discussion with Russia.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DANZIG, Sept. 9.—The Polish delegation for the resumed peace negotiations with Russia is expected here en route for Riga on Sunday, so the first meeting is unlikely to take place before the middle of next week.

M. Dombski, Vice President of the Polish State Council, and Chief Delegate at Minsk, replying to questions I put to him before leaving Warsaw said:

"The hope expressed by the British press that the Polish conditions will be moderate will be realized. Our object is not only to conclude peace with Russia, but to make it a lasting peace. The only question excluded is that of our relations with Lithuania. That must be settled between Poland and Lithuania; we hope amicably."

With regard to the Ukraine, Dombski added that, while the conclusion of an armistice with a preliminary peace was the formal subject of the Minsk conference, they hoped to proceed to the conclusion of a general peace, in which case all questions concerning the economic interests of Russia and Poland would be discussed.

SIBONEY AGROUND AT VIGO.

Tug Makes Effort to Float Imperiled American Ship.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—The American steamer Siboney is aground in the harbor of Vigo, Spain, according to a Lloyd's dispatch filed in that city yesterday. The fore part of the vessel is resting on the rocks, and it is feared she will be a total loss. Passengers on board the ship are being landed.

The steamer Siboney sailed from New York on Aug. 14 for Havana, later steaming eastward, arriving on Aug. 21 at Teneriffe. Later she sailed for Bilbao, Santander and Vigo, Spain. The Siboney was built in Philadelphia in 1918 and was 423 feet long and 60 feet wide. Her gross tonnage was 7,652.

MADRID, Sept. 10.—A Vigo dispatch today says that operations to float the American steamer Siboney, aground in the harbor there, began last evening, a French tug making an effort.

The captain of the Siboney, the message adds, has made a report on the accident, saying he confused the beacon of Point Corneira with that of Point Molino.

VIGO, Spain, Sept. 10.—The 500 passengers on board the American steamer Siboney, which is aground in the harbor here, disembarked today, as it was feared the vessel might not be able to get off the sand banks on which she is fast. Tugs are endeavoring to tow the Siboney into deep water, but apparently the steamer is hard aground.

D'ANNUNZIO TAKES OATH AS HEAD OF NEW STATE

Swears to Fight Against Every Force Until Fiume Is Forever United with Italy.

FIUME, Sept. 9 (Associated Press).—The ceremony of proclaiming the "Italian Regency of Quarnero" took place today before the palace in the presence of d'Annunzio's legionaries and the townspeople. D'Annunzio, as head of the new State, took the following oath:

"I, Gabriele d'Annunzio, First Legionary of the Legion, proclaim the Italian Regency of Quarnero. I swear on this sacred banner of youth, on this relic of heroic blood, and on my soul, that I will continue to fight with every force and every arms I may lead against everybody and everything that this Italian soil may forever be united to Italy."

D'Annunzio addressed his soldiers and citizens before taking the oath, asking them if they desired to adopt the Fiume constitution, which he said he was obliged to submit to them before Sept. 12 owing to certain news he had received from Paris. The populace received the announcement with affirmative applause. D'Annunzio then said:

"I proclaim this Regency as the devoted and armed interpreter of free will, expressed by acclamation by a majority of the sovereign people in Fiume in Parliament assembled, from this balcony, where was announced the liberation of the city on Sept. 12, 1919, and where many times was confirmed the eternal will of Fiume toward the mother country."

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Gabriele d'Annunzio has summoned a constituent Assembly of Fiume to meet in six weeks, says a Milan dispatch to The London Times. The d'Annunzio troops have taken the oath of fealty to the new republic, it is said.

CATHERINE HARDING TO WED

Financier's Daughter Engaged to Lorillard Suffern Tailer.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Horace Harding of 935 Fifth Avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Catherine Harding, to Lorillard Suffern Tailer, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Suffern Tailer of 11 East Sixty-first Street and Newport.

TRIAL OF BERGDOLL GUARDS CONCLUDED

O'Hare and York Not Ordered Into Custody, So Acquittal Is Forecast.

SERGEANT TELLS OF ESCAPE

Officer Testifies Department of Justice Was Warned of Plot a Month Before It Materialized.

A straightforward narrative of the escape of Grover C. Bergdoll, the Philadelphia slacker, told yesterday by Sergeant John O'Hare of the 9th Disciplinary Company, concluded the court-martial on Governors Island of Sergeant O'Hare and Sergeant Calvin York, who are charged with violating the 73d Article of War in allowing their prisoner to escape. Following the taking of testimony there was a short executive session of the Court-martial Board, and when this was over Colonel John L. Bond, its President, did not order either of the defendants into custody. This is taken by army officers to mean that the verdict in both cases will be not guilty.

Sergeants O'Hare and York were in charge of Bergdoll on the trip which was to have ended near "the concrete road" beyond Hagerstown, Md., where Bergdoll, under sentence of five years, had convinced Washington that he had buried $105,000 in gold. He escaped from the Bergdoll home in Philadelphia on May 21.

In some points the testimony of Sergeant OHare was at variance with that given by E. Clarence Gibboney and former Judge James Romig of Philadelphia, both of whom met the prisoner and his guard on their arrival in that city. Romig is under indictment for his part in the escape.

O'Hare said he had been told by superior officers that Gibboney would give him instructions and money. For that reason, he said, he broke the trip by a visit to the Bergdoll home. The witness denied that any one had told him the automobile was out of order. The party, he said, spent several hours riding around in the automobile and at no time did he see a mechanic at work on the car. The wait of some thirty hours at the Bergdoll home was made necessary, he testified, by the failure of Gibboney to communicate any other arrangements or instructions to him. The lawyer left the car before arrival at the Bergdoll home and said when he called him up on the phone he would identify himself as "Mr. X."

Bergdoll, he said, seemed to be a model prisoner and showed no excitement until just before he escaped, when he appeared to be nervous. He had been sitting at the piano. Then he paced up and down the room for some time, and finally walked into an adjoining room. The two guards had tried this door earlier in the day and found it locked. Both had kept their prisoner within sight all the time and so it was only a few seconds after Bergdoll had passed through the door that they started to investigate. They found the room empty.

Then began the unsuccessful search. Sergeant O'Hare thought Bergdoll must have hidden in the house for some time after his disappearance.

The Sergeant said the story that Bergdoll left the room to answer the telephone was not true—it was Romig who answered the call. He also denied Romig's testimony that after the escape he (the Sergeant) expressed fear of being tried for the escape because of the disgrace to his wife and four children. He explained that he did not have four children.

O'Hare is serving his seventh enlistment. Lieutenant Thomas L. Heffernan, his counsel, presented to the court O'Hare's six honorable discharges. In summing up he said there was no doubt that the whole thing had been carefully planned and a part of the plan was the "pot of gold" story which gained Bergdoll permission to make the trip to Maryland. Former Brigadier General Ansell and other persons had been deceived by the story. O'Hare, he said, had been told to have confidence in Gibboney, and he was to look to the latter for instructions. If General Ansell and other officers were deceived, it was not to be expected that the guards would be able to detect a plot, he said.

Testimony was brought out at the trial to show that the Department of Justice had knowledge of the plot to free the prisoner almost a month before the escape became an accomplished fact.

Lieut. Col. Charles Cresson, Assistant Judge Advocate General on General Bullard's staff, called as a witness in behalf of O'Hare, testified that early in June, during an investigation by the War Department into the escape of Bergdoll, John O'Connor, an agent of the Department of Justice, showed him a copy of a letter sent to Washington by O'Connor almost a month before May 21 in which he stated he had learned of a plan to free Bergdoll.

In his letter O'Conner said that the prisoner was going to use any pretext in order to obtain freedom from Governors Island if even for an hour. The plan as then arranged called for a trip to Philadelphia. When the prisoner reached there a writ of habeas corpus was to have been obtained as the first step in long court proceedings, during which Bergdoll was to be admitted to bail. The letter also informed the Department of Justice that General Ansell would "see about it."

It was not until after the escape, he said, that he learned of the letter, and it was his opinion that none of the army officials in Washington knew of it.

The trial of Sergeant York was more or less perfunctory. The accused did not testify and it lasted less than twenty minutes.

LEGION GIVES CHARTER TO STRIKE BREAKERS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 10.—Executive officers of the New Jersey department of the American Legion, which opened its second annual convention here this afternoon, conceded the right of former service men to intervene in behalf of a suffering community in such an emergency as the outlaw strike by granting a charter for a post at Bernardsville. This post is to be comprised almost exclusively of ex-service men, who helped smash a strike.

Action of the officers was taken less than an hour before the State convention opened to prevent the legion's relations to capital and labor, involved in the Bernardsville case, becoming an issue on the floor of the convention. The legion strike breakers were present in force. Their appeal for a charter had been held up for six months and they demanded action or fight. A happy solution was reached when the Bernardsville men agreed to sign a statement to the effect that they acted as individuals and not as prospective members of the American Legion. This was satisfactory to Thomas Meaney, Secretary to Otto Wittpenn, Collector of the Port of New York, who was to have led the fight against the Bernardsville men on the convention floor.

The situation further was clarified by Hobart S. Brown of Essex, Division Commander, in his reference to the attitude of the legion with respect to labor troubles in his annual report. He said:

"We have no more right to interfere as the American Legion in disputes between capital and labor than between two churches or two political parties. But there is nothing to prevent any member from taking sides as an individual in accordance with his conscience."

There was a yell from the crowded convention hall of the Hotel Breakers, filled with as husky a lot of delegates as ever came to Atlantic City, when he said:

"We have a right to expect that the 830,000 slackers in this country which the Government is promising to expose, shall be exposed without further delay."

URGES THE LEGION TO ESCHEW POLITICS

D'OLIER COUNSELS FIGHTING

State Convention at Albany Has Lively Contest for Officers.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 10.—The principal interest in today's session of the American Legion centred in the contest for State Commander. At the close of the session there were four candidates, Walter G. Ingalls of Albany; William R. Pooley of Buffalo; Charles G. Blakeslee of Binghamton, and Dr. D. A. Eisenlein of Shortsville.

Nominating speeches made in the course of the session stirred up much enthusiasm, demonstrations greeting each candidate as his name was announced. Albany County had its first inning, and the name of Walter G. Ingalls was presented. Erie County then nominated Chairman Pooley and Tompkins County delegates presented the name of Chairman Blakeslee.

Lennox Brennan of Brooklyn nominated Thomas F. Ward, Jr., for First Vice Commander, and he will receive much support at the election tomorrow. Robert A. Greenfield of New York, the present Vice Commander, declined to have his name presented.

Franklin D'Olier, National Commander, in his address reviewed the work of the Legion during the year, outlined plans for the future and urged New York State members to get into the fight and make their demands felt. He told the convention that nothing would be gained unless a fight was made for it.

"The American Legion's strength is unlimited, and it is developing every day," he told the convention.

Henry D. Lindsley, former Mayor of Dallas and first National Commander of the Legion, urged the New York State Department not to drop that section of the constitution pledging it to refrain from entering politics. A big fight is expected to centre around this at tomorrow's session. A movement is under way to make the Legion a "non-partisan" instead of a "non-political" organization. Mr. Lindsley declared the Legion could exercise greater power by remaining free of politics as a body, but he urged that any slight to the organization on the part of public officers be promptly punished by withdrawal of the support of the Legion at the polls.

Peter A. Brady of New York, representing the Americanization and Educational Committee of the New York State Federation of Labor, received a warm welcome from the convention. He read the Americanization and educational report adopted by the federation at Binghamton, and urged its approval by the legion. He denied that there was any opposition to the American Legion on the part of organized labor and said the organizations had much in common.

Governor Smith had a word of welcome for the legion today, and he received a hearty greeting.

The nominations for other than the principal office were:

First Vice Commander—Thomas F. Ward, Jr., Brooklyn; William Degan, The Bronx.

Second Vice Commander—Scott Button, Schenectady.

Third Vice Commander—Theodore J. Skinner, Oneida; Joseph F. McClelland, Richmond; A. B. Peterson, Jamestown; Clyde H. Hunt, Queens; Lucius C. Tuckerman, Sullivan.

State Adjutant—H. A. Winige, Warren; George S. Kelly, Westchester.

State Treasurer—Joseph L. Seligman, New York; Ledyard Cogswell, Albany.

MILL WORKERS ACCEPT CUT.

200 at Conshohocken Keep Hosiery Factory from Closing.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—Two hundred employes of the Herbert Hosiery Mill, Conshohocken, have agreed to take a 10 per cent. reduction in wages so that the mill need not close. The unusual arrangement was confirmed today by Leon S. Herbert, head of the concern.

The scheme already has been put into effect, and is proving the means of maintaining the mill's production, despite business uncertainties. Most of the hosiery mills in the Conshohocken region have closed, throwing hundreds of employes out of work indefinitely. The reduction in wages virtually eliminates bonuses which workers received in war times.

"All our employes are girls, some of whom received as much as $52 a week," said Mr. Herbert yesterday. "We have in all about 300 employes, 100 of whom, because of the special nature of the work they are doing, will continue with no change in wage scale. If the workers had not agreed to accept the reduced pay we would have been compelled to stop work entirely. As it is, we are turning out goods now for stock."

Merely putting a Heavy Truck on Air is Not Enough

NOT all pneumatic-tired trucks are delivering economy.

Some owners would have found it cheaper to stick to solid tires than to run on pneumatics not built to meet trucking conditions.

Merely putting a heavy truck on air is not enough.

The air has got to be contained in something—in something stronger than the ordinary pneumatic tire.

We don't recommend pneumatics for all truck uses.

But where we do recommend them, we recommend U. S. ITALIAN MOUNTAINS SWEPT BY TREMORS

Shocks Reported from Alps to Naples as Volcanic Crater Forms in North.

CENTRE IN GULF OF GENOA

Earth's Crust Subsiding There, Scientists Say—Think Earthquake Has Passed Climax.

RESCUE WORK CONTINUES

Simple Peasants Are Won by Queen's Relief Measures in Remote Mountain Towns.

ROME, Sept. 10 (Associated Press).—Earthquake shocks continue, causing more victims among the rescuers, owing to falling masonry. Today there were shocks as far south as Cassino, near Naples. Apparently there was no serious damage, nor were further victims reported, but the shocks produced a great panic among the population, which recalled its experiences in the earthquakes of 1915.

In northern Italy a volcanic crater has suddenly opened at the top of Pizzo d'Ucello, a mountain 5,845 feet high about nine miles northeast of Spezia. It is, roughly, the northwest corner of the district shaken by Tuesday morning's earthquake, which resulted in the loss of hundreds of lives in the region just above Florence.

A telegram from Spezia today stated that the crater was emitting smoke and sulphuric fumes, and that scientists there attributed the volcanic outbreak to the earthquake.

The shock which devastated scores of little towns and villages north of Florence seems to have followed the line of the mountains.

This is common to earthquakes in Italy, just as the tremor that destroyed Messina in 1908 followed the Calabro-Sicilian mountains, and the one at Avezzano seemed to cling to the trend of the Appenines very closely. Four years later the Tuscan hills were shaken and Mucello was destroyed, and now the Apuan Alps are visited by the seismic disturbance.

Scientists, discussing the earthquake, say that intervals of years represent only minutes and seconds in geologic time.

Reports from Northern Italy have given no further details of the situation, nor have they told of the damage done by the tremor which shook the Emilia district, between the Appenines and the River Po, yesterday morning.

First reports stated the shock was more severe than that which destroyed Fivizzano and other towns north of Florence.

Queen Aids in Notifying Kin Abroad.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Sept. 10.—All Italy is still under the spell of the dreadful disaster which has fallen so unexpectedly, especially in the most prosperous regions, where so many Italians were enjoying the Summer with their families.

The Queen and the Princess Yolanda are systematically visiting all the stricken towns, even the smallest—in fact, those especially, as help so far had not reached them—bringing comfort and encouragement wherever they pass.

Queen Helena has entered into every detail, talking to the women of their troubles and how best to arrange for the shelter and comfort of their families during the Winter, which will soon come, especially in the villages perched among the wind-swept Apennines.

What touches the people most is the simplicity and genuine sympathy of the royal ladies. Rough peasant women crowd around them, the Queen refusing to have any sent away.

One is heard saying to another, "She is wonderful, our Queen. How much she knows about the poor people's lives, God bless her!"

The Queen assures them that, of course, she knows their difficulties and troubles, because she is a woman and a mother. She was born in a mountain land and knows how cold and bleak the mountains are when Winter comes.

She knows, too, how anxious men will be in America and other foreign lands when they hear of the earthquake, to know if their womankind are safe. The Queen has promised to undertake to see that news is dispatched immediately to all their relations.

Turning to Princess Yolanda, she tells her to take down the names and addresses of all those who have some one abroad who will be anxious about them, and Yolanda writes in each village till the list becomes, indeed, a long story.

Yolanda tells the women that her sisters at home are already preparing clothes and coverlets to replace those lost. She takes the names of those wanting them most.

But it is difficult to find anybody who would not like to share in the royal generosity, if only as a memento of "our beautiful Principessina," the diminutive, to which the Italian language lends itself so readily, carrying in this case a wealth of admiring loyalty.

Town Razed, Families Scattered.

FIVIZZANO, Italy, Sept. 9 (Associated Press).—Survivors of Tuesday morning's earthquake, which laid the once flourishing and cheerful town of Fivizzano in ruins, are, as the hours pass, coming to realize more and more the extent of the calamity that has befallen them, and they seem stupefied with the horror of the disaster.

The work of rescue went on all last night, and doctors, sanitary assistants, sailors from the Italian dreadnought Cavour, students, nurses and volunteers wore themselves out in their efforts to bring comfort to as many sufferers as possible.

Motor lorries are beginning to arrive regularly, bringing cooked food and tools for the men engaged in the work of excavation. Portable ovens are being set up, since there is hardly a house standing in the city.

As in former earthquakes, some families have been rescued almost without injury from the ruins of their homes, while in other cases all inmates of the shattered dwellings were killed.

One little girl, whom nobody recognizes, wanders about the town with her frock torn and tears running down her begrimed face, asking piteously for "Mama mia."

She possibly is a child of visitors here for the Summer season, it is said, and was playing in a field when the earthquake came, while her family was probably wiped out.

She cannot tell where she lives and knows only that her name is "Tina," and that she came here with her father, mother and little brothers.

Minor Shocks as "Good Omen."

FLORENCE, Sept. 9.—Minor earthquake shocks, which have been felt since the disastrous tremor of Tuesday morning in the devastated zone north of this city, indicate the disturbance is subsiding, according to Father Alfani, Director of the observatory here.

He said today that small shocks succeeding each other rather frequently show the seismic phenomena are wearing themselves out, while if a long pause succeeds a severe earthquake, another strong shock occurs, which may be considered as the culmination of the small shocks that should have come at intervals.

"The shocks in the present case," he declared, "are to be considered as good omens, indicating that no serious recurrence of the earthquake may be expected."

Alpine Tremor Starts Avalanches.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 10 (Associated Press).—A severe earthquake shook the southern slopes of the Swiss and Italian Alps yesterday from Monte Rosa to Bernina Pass, causing avalanches.

The shock was accompanied by heavy snowfalls and several Alpine villages are isolated.

Four persons are reported to have been killed and many injured.

Slighter shocks also were reported in the Swiss Alps around Zermatt and Pontresina, but there were no casualties.

Earth's Crust Caving, Scientists Say.

BERLIN, Sept. 9.—The seismographic station at Jena suggests as the possible cause of the Italian earthquake a sinking of the earth along the mountains bordering the Gulf of Genoa.

Experts there say it indicates a massive caving zone in the earth's crust.

Scientists, discussing the earthquake, say that intervals of years represent only minutes and seconds in geologic time.

Reports from Northern Italy have given no further details of the situation, nor have they told of the damage done by the tremor which shook the Emilia district, between the Appenines and the River Po, yesterday morning.

First reports stated the shock was more severe than that which destroyed Fivizzano and other towns north of Florence.

$50,000 in Bonds on Way Here Stolen from Train in Georgia

ATLANTA, Sept. 10.—A shipment of bonds, understood to be valued at $50,000, was stolen from a Southern Railway train near Cornelia, Ga., last night, according to dispatches received here late today.

The first knowledge of the loss was when a station agent at Cornelia investigated smoke in the station lavatory and found partly burned papers and a rifled mail pouch, the Cornelia reports said.

Federal authorities here admitted that a pouch had been stolen, but declined to discuss the details. They started an investigation, but so far as could be learned tonight had made no arrests. They declined to say who shipped the securities, but it was reported from Cornelia that the pouch was en route from an Atlanta bank to a New York bank.

Southern Railway officials said they had no reports on the case, as it was a Federal matter.

CALIFORNIA AGAIN SHAKEN.

Tremors at Riverside Send Many from Their Homes.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Sept. 10.—An earthquake shock was felt here this morning about 6:15 o'clock.

It was of sufficient violence to awaken sleepers and many persons fled into the open until the tremors subsided.

No damage was reported.

LONDON PAPER ADMITS IT HAS SOVIET GOLD

Herald, Labor Organ, Says That It Is Undecided Whether to Keep £75,000.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Admission was made this morning by The Herald, organ of labor, that it has in its possession £75,000 ($375,000 at par) of "Bolshevist gold," the newspaper stating the money is being held pending a decision by the shareholders as to whether it should be used. The opinion of readers as to the acceptance of the money is asked by the newspaper, which publishes the admission on its first page under glaring headlines. Last month charges that the Russian Soviet Government was subsidizing newspapers in other countries for the purpose of carrying on propaganda were published here, and The Herald was named as one journal which had received money from the Bolsheviki.

The newspaper refers to the Soviet funds as "a magnificent demonstration of real working class solidarity and of what Russians mean by internationalism."

"To accept it," says The Herald, "will be to complete a notable episode in international socialism. The increasing cost of production and the political shyness of advertisers makes it necessary for us at once to double the price of this paper if this money is not accepted."

POLES RENEW ATTACK; TAKE 3,300 PRISONERS

Advance Their Lines Close to Grodno, Dispersing Seven Soviet Regiments.

WARSAW, Sept. 9 (Associated Press).—The Polish armies on the northeastern front delivered a series of successful attacks upon the Russians today and took 3,300 prisoners, four guns and two armored trains.

The Polish troops in these operations advanced their lines, occupying Kuznica, just to the south of Grodno, and five other towns.

A Bolshevist counterattack was repulsed, and the Poles again advanced, dispersing seven Soviet infantry regiments.

The communiqué from Polish headquarters, in which these operations are reported, says there was no change in the situation in the Suwalki sector.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Stubborn fighting is proceeding between Russian Soviet forces and the troops of General Wrangel in the Orlekhov region of the Crimean sector, says the official statement issued in Moscow on Thursday and received here today by wireless. On other sections of the front the statement claims successes for the Soviet arms. The statement says:

"In the Grodno region fighting is occurring east of Novo Dvor and north of Kuznitza. We have repelled an enemy attack on Bieloviezh.

"In the Brest-Litovsk region fighting is proceeding in the region of the Jabinda station, in the Vladimir-Volynski region the enemy attempted to cross to the right bank of the Western Bug, but his attempts are being frustrated. In the Rogatin region (to the southeast of Lemberg) as a result of our attack the enemy was defeated and suffered considerable losses.

"On the Crimean front, in the Orlekhov region, stubborn fighting is proceeding."

CONSTANTIONPLE, Sept. 9.—Russian Bolshevist forces are being concentrated to make a desperate effort to recapture Kokova, an important town on the south side of the Dnieper River, forty-five miles above Kherson, before the fall rains deepen the mud and make a campaign impossible.

LENIN LAYS DOWN RED LAW TO FRENCH

Tells Socialists What They Must Do if They Wish to Join Moscow Internationale.

VIOLENT REVOLT PROGRAM

Soviet Dictator Aims to Bring Radicals of the World Under His Authority.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 9.—Lenin has challenged the labor world to declare itself. The French Socialist newspaper L'Humanité publishes today a list of nine conditions laid down by the Bolshevist dictator which the French and other Socialists must accept if they wish to be received into the Third Communist Internationale of Moscow.

This amazing document is nothing less than a bid for absolute world power on the part of the Russian Bolsheviki. Lenin seeks authority over the soul and body of Governments and peoples. It is a striking proof of the serene confidence of the Moscow leaders that a few weeks after the American Government has publicly expressed its refusal to deal with them and announced its belief that their rule will not be lasting, a line of policy with which the French Government hastened to concur, Lenin says boldly to western labor:

"You talk and talk about joining the Third Internationale. Do you know what that means? It means red revolution, with blood and fire. It means martyrdom and persecution. It means the formation by you of a Communist Party on Russian lines, which shall owe full allegiance to Moscow and accept my decrees as infallible. It means obedience and sacrifice. It means that the day of half measures is past and that waverers must be expelled. He that is not with us is against us. Thus, and thus only, can our goal of world revolution be achieved."

Brought by French Socialists.

The conditions have been brought back from Moscow by the French Socialist delegates Cachin and Frossard, who since their return have been carrying on vigorous propaganda with the object of inducing the French Socialist Party to enter the Third Internationale. The general opinion here is that they will be successful by a narrow margin, which will have the immediate effect of splitting the French Labor Party into two mutually hostile camps.

But Lenin does not care for that. He is aiming at a wider field than France. What he wants is to have a nucleus of Communism in every country upon which he can depend utterly, working steadily and wholeheartedly in the rest of the labor organizations, with one end, and one only—the dictatorship of that Communist Party in that country under his suzerainty and subject to his decrees. Conditions are addressed nominally to France, but their application is universal.

It is noteworthy that Lenin does not always speak of the French Socialist Party, but just the Socialist Party. After each condition there follows a brief explanation written by Daniel Renoult, one of Cachin's henchmen, acting as a mouthpiece of the Majority section of the French Socialist Party which wishes to join the Third Communist Internationale.

Lenin's Conditions.

The conditions are as follows:

"(1) The Socialist Party must radically change the character of its daily propaganda in the press."

This, explains Renoult, refers to the criticisms addressed by Moscow to the Socialist press here as not being sufficiently aggressive and revolutionary. He adds in big type, "We accept."

"(2) As regards colonies, the party must pitilessly expose the activities of the bourgeois imperialists and aid, not only in word but in deed, all movements toward liberation, taking as the watchword that the imperialists must give up colonies, that fraternal sentiments must be developed in French working masses toward the working population of the colonies, that systematic propaganda must be carried on in the French army against oppression of colonies."

"We accept with enthusiasm," says Renoult. "We must cease platonically defending 'the rights of natives.' It is the revolt of these unfortunate populations that we ought to aid with all our force."

"(3) Expose the falsity and hypocrisy of social patriotism. Prove systematically to the workers that without a revolutionary upset of capitalism, no arbitration, no project of disarmament will save humanity from new imperialist wars."

"This condition involves the definite condemnation of the League of Nations," says Renoult. "We accept unreservedly."

Socialists Must be Communists.

"(4) The French Socialist Party must begin the organization of Communist elements in the heart of the Workers' General Federation in order to combat social traitors at the head of this Federation."

Here Lenin is getting to the centre of his dogma, that the Communist Party must be supreme in labor councils. To him moderate men like Gompers or Jouhaux, the leader of the French trade unionists, are Laodiceans, who blow neither hot nor cold, and must be spewed out. This condition worries M. Renoult, who says: "We accept with reservations," and tries to show that Lenin himself is opposed to schism in the trade union ranks. This, of course, is absurd, as Lenin's whole object is to make a clean-cut distinction between those who are on his side and those who are not.

"(5) The Socialist Party must obtain, not in word, but in deed, the complete subordination of the Parliamentary group."

"This," says Renoult, "we accept. Nothing is more urgent." It is worth remarking that Renoult there dodges the real issue, which is the subordination of the whole labor and social machinery to the Communist Party, which is to be in direct and flagrant revolt against constituted authority and can take no part in Parliamentary government. A later condition, which perhaps came earlier in the original, demands that the Socialist Party change its name to "Communist."

"(6) The present majority section of the party must break radically with reformism and free its ranks from elements that do not wish to follow the new revolutionary path."

Renoult says: "We accept, naturally," and adds: "If in the original document from Moscow there are more or less sharp criticisms directed against certain persons, there is no precise demand for their exclusion. It is a question of good faith. Those who will not adopt the principles of the Communist Internationale will retire. We hope they won't be numerous in our party." It is notorious in Socialist circles here that this refers to Lenin's thunders against Jean Longuet. Although Longuet is a grandson of Karl Marx himself, Lenin considers him precisely one of the "parlor Bolsheviki," who preach revolution without ever trying to practise it, that he wishes to get rid of.

"(7) The party must change its name and present itself before the whole world as the Communist Party of France."

Here is the centre of Lenin's dogma once more. He knows well, and the French Socialists know, too, that such a change would mean suffering and persecution, and they do not like it. Lenin is for revolution; they try to trim the word to mean peaceful change. Lenin advocates bombs; they prefer words. Renoult tries to quibble about Socialism and Communism being the same thing, but is finally forced to say that for the time being the party will keep the title it now has.

Revolution Preached Plainly.

"(8) At a time when the bourgeoisie decrees a state of siege against workers and their chiefs, French comrades must recognize the necessity of combining legal action with illegal action."

In plain words, this means that when there is a general strike French "Comrades" must go out and build barricades in the streets and fight. Again Renoult tries to evade the issue by saying: "We accept, because the bourgeois dictatorship, each day more brutal, will more and more force Socialists to daring action. Our masters, we know well, no longer worry about illegality. The Socialists will act according to circumstances."

"(9) The French Socialist Party, as well as all parties who wish to adhere to the Third Internationale, must consider as strictly obligatory all decisions of the Communist Internationale. The Communist Internationale takes into account the various conditions under which the workers of the various countries are compelled to struggle."

Here is frank insistence on the infallibility of Lenin and blind obedience thereto. Renoult again shuffles: "We accept, because, if affiliated to the Third Internationale, the French Party ought to observe its decisions. For its part, the Internationale will take into account the special conditions of France. Nothing can be more reasonable."

There appears to be some mystery about these conditions. The famous document in which they are contained has for some weeks been a topic of interest in Socialist circles, and it is generally understood that there were considerably more than nine conditions in the original. The Temps tonight says so bluntly, speaking of "Lenin's nine points, which, by the way, are really twenty-one or eighteen or fourteen. Doubtless the most suggestive ones are omitted, and L'Humanité offers us only choice excerpts, carefully expurgated."

This assumption is strengthened by the cautious tone of Renoult's comments. The fact is that the Cachin group cannot withhold their publication any longer, but is trying to break Lenin's terms as gently as possible to the French Socialist Party, which it wishes to lead into the Bolshevist fold. Lenin, for his part, does not want any gentleness, or any half-hearted followers. He has drawn this manifesto up with the same idea as the early Church Fathers framed the Nicene and Athanasian Creeds, every phrase of which had special significance and was meant as a test of some particular heresy. Lenin, too, wants a clear-cut division. His dogma must be swallowed whole-sale, and in every detail, or he rejected. He will allow no compromise.

FOCH HINTS THAT GARY WILL AID STEEL MILLS

Great French Industries Will be Revived, He Tells Knights of Columbus.

PARIS, Sept. 10.—Marshal Foch was among the speakers at a luncheon given to the Knights of Columbus delegation today by Frederic Francois-Marsal, the Minister of Finance. The function was held at the Finance Ministry. The Marshal said:

"Knights: You have shown us that friendship between nations does not depend upon Governments, but upon the hearts of one people beating in accord with another. You have stirred the heart of France by showing us the heart of America."

Looking straight across the room at Judge Elbert H. Gary, Marshal Foch declared that the great French steel industries at Briey and Thionville would be reorganized.

Questioned later regarding any aid he might be rendering in the re-establishing of the French steel industry, Judge Gary said he would make a full statement upon his return to America in three weeks.

The Order of the Star of Morocco was conferred on James A. Flaherty, Supreme Knight; Martin H. Carmody, Deputy Supreme Knight; William J. McGinley, Supreme Secretary; Daniel J. Callahan, Washington, D. C.; Dr. E. W. Muckley, St. Paul, Minn.; William J. Mulligan, Thompsonville, Conn.; Luke E. Hars, St. Louis; John F. O'Neill, Jersey City; John F. Martin, Green Bay, Wis.; John H. Reddin, Denver; Judge Paul Lehre, New Orleans; John J. Leddy, Saskatoon, and John B. Kennedy, New York.

One hundred and fifty knights, headed by Supreme Knight Flaherty, will leave on the steamer Lafayette tomorrow. They will take with them a large Sevres vase, valued at 100,000 francs, the gift of the French Government.

Germans Can't Return Sultan Makaua's Head; Say African Trophy Was Retaken Years Ago

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 10.—Certain French papers recently remarked that Article 246 of the Versailles Peace Treaty remained unfulfilled, despite the fact that the Treaty had fixed July 10 as the extreme time limit. Immediately the organs of the German Extreme Left, without investigating, charged that the Government was endangering peace and giving the French cause for occupying the Ruhr District, by not attending to the article in question.

I am informed, however, that the German authorities did everything in their power to comply with the article, and if they have failed, even the English, who are directly concerned, will probably find no fault with them.

Article 246 demands that the head of the Sultan Makaua be restored to the British authorities before July 10, 1920. Several diplomatic notes had to be exchanged before the Germans realized what was wanted, and the English were satisfied that their demands could not be granted.

Makaua (or Quawa, as the Germans call him) was a native warrior who, in 1895 and 1896, gave the Germans in East Africa so much trouble that they put a price of 6,000 rupees on his head. At the same time Captain von Prinz, in command of a large expedition, set out to capture him. He succeeded in cornering Makaua, but the Sultan, refusing to surrender, shot and killed himself. A sergeant, one Merkl, to obtain the reward offered, cut off Makaua's head and carried it to the nearest German fort, where it was preserved in alcohol against the time when it could be taken to the colonial capital, Dar-es-Salaam, to be exchanged for the 6,000 rupees.

One night, however, according to the German account, negro warriors broke into the fort and stole the alcohol and the Sultan's head, leaving in place of the latter the freshly severed head of some other negro. The theft might have passed unnoticed for a long time but for the fact that the presence of the substituted head became painfully obvious on account of the abstraction of the alcohol.

The story as told by the Germans is that the thieves were former retainers of Makaua who buried the head they had recovered with the Sultan's body in his family vault. Vouched for by Sergeant Merkl, the widow of Captain von Prinz (himself killed in the World War), and other witnesses, it was recently submitted to the British Government for verification.

SOVIETS' FORTUNES SEEM ON THE WANE

PASSING THROUGH A CRISIS

Swedish Committee of Workers Warns Labor Against Seeking to Emigrate to Russia.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Reliable reports from Russia, received through official channels, state that the situation in the Soviet territories, especially the economic situation, is critical and becoming more serious. The reports discredit predictions that the Bolshevist régime will come to an end within six months, together with all other specific predictions, but assert that the population, and particularly the peasants, are restive and showing great discontent, but appear to be too greatly intimidated to rise in rebellion.

The reports indicate that the Bolsheviki are passing through a serious crisis, that foreign aggression, such as the Polish offensive, helped them to rally and hold out for a time against the processes of disintegration, which otherwise would have progressed more quickly, but which are still, despite all the efforts of the Bolsheviki to arrest them, going on.

The Bolsheviki are reported to be greatly disheartened, having obtained nothing essential in the way of concessions from the powers, and expecting nothing.

Extraordinary conditions of food scarcity in Soviet Russia are reported in a telegram which the State Department received today from a Baltic source. Smuggling of food supplies in common and the food situation in Petrograd, the old capital of Russia, is growing steadily worse.

The Petrograd Soviet has issued a decree that private individuals are forbidden to transport food, and the decree serves notice upon all concerned that a sentence of three years at hard labor will be imposed upon all persons found carrying as much as a pound of potatoes.

There are many complaints on the part of the population of Petrograd against the drastic policy in force. Even capital punishment has been invoked under the arbitrary powers of the Soviet to deal not only with spies and those charged with counter-revolutionary activities, but also with "confirmed speculators" and "thieves." Peasants who seek to recover grain requisitioned from them by the Soviet are punishable by execution, the department is informed. Other offenses are punishable by imprisonment at hard labor.

The State Department was advised today that a small amount of bacon smuggled into Petrograd has been put on sale there at a price of 8,000 roubles a pound.

Public warning to labor not to enter Soviet Russia under present conditions is given in a statement issued by a committee of Swedish metal workers who recently studied conditions in Soviet Russia. The statement was published in the Social Demokraten of Stockholm yesterday. The State Department was advised of the warning in a telegram received today from Stockholm.

The committee entered Soviet Russia last May to inquire into the conditions of labor with a view to emigration of 6,000 skilled workmen from Sweden if conditions were found satisfactory. The report states that the Briansk district, which they visited, was unsuitable for colonization. Sanitary conditions were unsatisfactory and food was scarce with little prospect of improvement.

Industries in the Ural region, the committee reported, are "deplorably mismanaged," many mines are full of water, equipment of factories has been stolen and the population is stated to be apathetic and despondent. The population has been devastated by the wars and the committee stated that colonization of the Ural region would require 20,000 workers. The committee added that efforts to reach some agreement with the Bolsheviki in Moscow were unsatisfactory.

The report adds:

"If any should want to defy the difficulties and go to Russia, we deem it proper to warn them.

"In Moscow we had great difficulty in seeking to repatriate workers who had emigrated singly or in groups to Russia, many of them having been animated with enthusiasm for the struggle of the Russian people."

Red Cross Report on Bolshevist Barbarities

Testimony of the Sisters of Mercy who were in Kiev during the Red occupation last year has been transmitted in an official report to the International Red Cross at Geneva.

This report contains what is probably the most terrible indictment yet framed against the Red rulers, whose murders in Kiev the nurses attribute largely to the use of cocaine.

FAIL OF AGREEMENT IN ITALIAN STRIKE

Conferences Continue, However, Between Employers and Metal Workers in Milan.

WORKERS GRIP THE PLANTS

Two Thousand Blockhouses Are Said to be Defended by 400,000 Men, Well Armed.

LONDON, Saturday, Sept. 11.—Conferences at Milan, Italy, yesterday between employers and representatives of metal workers were lacking in results, according to a dispatch from that city to The London Times. It appears, however, that the extremists have met with a reverse.

Negotiations lasting until a late hour lasts night were undertaken at the instance of the Prefect of Milan upon orders from the Italian Government. The nature of the discussion was kept secret.

Occupation of the Carlo Erba Chemical Works at Milan yesterday morning is looked upon as a preaursor of the taking over of 200 similar establishments, the products of which are indoespensable to the metal industry. The Pirelli Works at Milan and several additional factories at Turin, chiefly those manufacturing India rubber materials, were also occupied yesterday.

Work shops at Milan which have been seized by metal workers have been fortified and made revolutionary centres, says the Milan correspondent of The Herald, organ of Labor. Each plant has been converted into a defensive blockhouse and manned by guards armed with rifles and bombs. There are 2,000 of these blockhouses flying the red flag and defended by 400,000 men, it is said.

"It will be the hardest thing in the world," says the correspondent, "to induce this powerful and intelligent body of metal workers to give up the machinery of production they now hold."

Show Desire for Compromise.

MILAN, Italy, Sept. 9.—Members of the Socialist group in the Italian Parliament, leaders of the General Confederation of Labor and representatives of the Federation of Metal Workers conferred here today with delegates sent to Milan by the employers of labor. These interviews and discussions, which occupied the entire day, seemed to reflect a desire on the part of the contending forces to bring about a compromise, which would solve the anomalous industrial situation throughout Italy.

It has been reported several days that men who have taken over industrial plants have been arming themselves, and recent events have seemed to confirm these rumors. Nothing is known as yet, however, where they secured their military supplies, which are said to include rifles of the 1891 model, as well as helmets, searchlights, hand grenades and machine guns. The men go through military drill each morning under the supervision of former officers in the Italian Army.

In the Ansaldo works here, sixty airplanes have been found, ready to fly, and there is an organized body of pilots ready to operate the machines in case it is necessary to communicate between this city and Turin. A former noncommissioned officer named Filipponi is in charge. The military organization of the metal workers in the plant has been intrusted to one Schiavello, a rabid revolutionist, who is said to have become a sort of General in Chief.

An officer was surprised and captured by the workmen near the plant and taken before the workmen's tribunal. He was disarmed and freed on condition, it is said, that he would sign a declaration that he was well treated. His pistol was taken from him, a promise being made it would be returned the day after the end of the present struggle.

"I must emphatically proclaim that the metal workers' movement has remained entirely economic," said Deputy Buozzi, who is among the Socialist leaders conferring here today on the strike situation.

"Nobody among the responsible members of the metal workers ever has thought of using the movement to attain political aims. Only one of the claims of the metal workers can give anything like a political aspect to the agitation. That is the demand for an inquiry with regard to the firms which enjoy benefits and protection from the State."

"If being perfectly just, should not find opposition from the employers, since it would confirm what they repeatedly have stated, namely, that their industries are not in a condition to allow any further concession to the workers. In fact, if the employers ask that the condition of industries be taken into account in regulating contracts with the men, they cannot refuse workmen's investigations of the owners' profits or limitation of profits so that workmen will receive their proper share."

Seize Three Rubber Plants.

MILAN, Sept. 10.—Three of the largest rubber concerns in Piedmont have been seized by the workmen. They are the famous Michelin tire manufactories and those belonging to the Martigny and Bergougen-Tedeschi companies.

At the last-named works the employes invaded the counting house and the directors' rooms with pointed revolvers, commanding the clerks and the heads of departments to keep their seats while the keys, ledgers and office papers were taken.

The chief cashier was called upon to deliver up the keys of the strongroom. A big exodus of families has begun from Milan through fear of what may happen tomorrow.

ROME, Sept. 10.—Belief exists in political circles that an agreement which will end the conflict between Italian metal workers and their employers, which resulted in the occupation of more than 400 plants by the men during the past week, is imminent. It is pointed out that Premier Giolitti must leave on Saturday for Aix-les-Bains, where he will meet Premier Millerand of France, and that he could not go if the situation in Italy were not cleared up.

TURIN, Italy, Sept. 9.—Fifty trucks of raw materials and gasoline which will be used in carrying on the work of the F. I. A. T. Automobile Plant in this city were taken into the works last night. Deputy Pagella, a former railway man, superintended the movement of the material, which has been lying in the yards near this city.

HUNGARY AS FRENCH AID.

Plan to Check Reds in Austria Reported by Austrian Official.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Sept. 9.—The President of the National Assembly, Dr. Dinghofer, yesterday made the sensational statement that in negotiations which recently took place between Hungary and France it was urged that Hungary should be entitled to march into Vienna in case Bolshevist riots should arise there or in case Germany should attempt to incorporate Austria.

According to information in Viennese political circles, it was originally intended that Czechoslovakia was to have this task, but in the course of time friendly relations developed between Austria and Czechoslovakia. Moreover, the radical elements in Czechoslovakia have been so strengthened that the army is not reliable. It even was feared that a Bolshevist revolution in Vienna might spread to Czechoslovakia.

It was on this account that France entered into negotiations with Hungary. It is not known how far these negotiations have gone.

5,600,000 Income Taxes Being Paid This Year

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—More than 5,600,000 firms and individuals are paying income taxes this year, according to figures made public tonight by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. These figures also show that practically 3,000,000 tax payers have already paid their income taxes in full.

The bureau's statement shows that 4,900,000 persons are paying income taxes on incomes of $5,000 or less, and that fewer than 600,000 of this number have not paid their taxes in full, choosing the alternative method of payment by installments. Individual returns for incomes in excess of $5,000, including those individuals and firms, numbered 700,000. Approximately half of this number have paid all income taxes to the Government. The third instalment of tax payments for this year is due Wednesday next.

Nearly 350,000 corporations have filed income tax returns, but only 65,000 have paid their taxes in full.

FRANCE DISTRUSTS 'LITTLE ENTENTE'

She Sees in It Thwarting of Her Plan for a Barrier Against Bolshevism.

RUMANIA SERVES WARNING

Foreign Minister Won't Further French Designs by Making Concessions to Hungary.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 10.—The Geneva conference and the "Little Entente" of the Rumanians, Czechoslovaks and Jugoslavs will be the chief subjects of conversation between the French and Italian Premiers at Aix this week-end. The French do not at all want the former to take place—at least not for a month or two—and, despite press denials, are rather anxious about the latter.

Their anxiety can hardly have been allayed by the statement of the Rumanian Foreign Minister, Take Jonescu, now at Aix, published in Excelsior today. After vigorously denying the suggestion that has appeared in the French press that Rumania would like territorial concessions to Hungary, M. Jonescu rejected with equal vigor the proposal put forward two nights ago by the Temps that Budapest, the capital of Hungary, be chosen as the headquarters of the Danube Commission.

"The thing that is most troubling the European political situation at present," he added, "is that there is a tendency to be too forgetful about the origins of the World War and the reasons that have placed such and such people in such and such a political group. The lessons of history, too, are forgotten. I do not ask that we should go on making war after having signed peace, but I have not the least desire to play the part of a dupe."

On the lips of one of the shrewdest diplomats in Europe this can only mean that Rumania will be no party to a combination with her traditional enemy, Hungary—a combination which the French are trying to arrange against the Bolsheviki. It is an open secret that the "Little Entente" is the response of the countries concerned to the French suggestion of an Entente with Hungary, against whom all three have very bitter feelings.

From Italy's point of view the question of the "Little Entente" is complicated by her own differences with the Jugoslavs; so that on that subject alone the French and Italian Premiers will have plenty to talk about at Aix.

As to the Geneva meeting, the French are frankly averse to any further discussion of the Treaty of Versailles—for that is what these conferences really amount to—since they have found by experience that the result is invariably some modification which they, at any rate, consider to be in favor of Germany.

Italy, on the other hand, is in even more urgent need of money than France. The Italian statesmen were openly dissatisfied with the share of German reparations allotted them at Boulogne and Spa and would welcome an opportunity to reopen the reparation question as well as that of coal, of which Italy has pressing need.

BRITISH COAL STRIKE SEEMS INEVITABLE

Miners Assert Government Offer Does Not Change Situation or Make Settlement Possible.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 10. — Industrial disaster has been brought appreciably nearer by the Trades Union Congress concluding its sittings at Portsmouth without making any attempt at bridging the gulf between the miners and the Government. J. H. Thomas, the Chairman, ruled out an attempt to start a debate today on the ground that the miners had nothing fresh to say and that the Government's offer of Thursday had aggravated the situation, and that a congress debate would not help toward a settlement.

Although no Cabinet meeting took place today, Lloyd George was in consultation with some of his colleagues.

Preparations to cope with the stoppage of the mines are being pressed forward by Government departments. It is said that the miners' leaders know the country is better prepared, owing to the storage of coal, to meet a complete stoppage of the output than most people are aware, and that this is one of the reasons why forces are at work inside the Miners' Federation itself which make for peace.

C. T. Cramp, Industrial Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, addressing the railway workers at Portsmouth, said it was the duty of the workers to stand by the miners. The railway men would be false to every principle they hitherto adhered to, he said, if they let their comrades down.

"We are prepared to stand by them in this trial," Cramp added. "Whatever may be the ultimate outcome of the negotiations the railway men will not be found wanting in loyalty."

POPE ACCEPTS CZECH PLAN.

Agrees to Separation of Church and State, It Is Announced.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 10.—The Czechoslovakia announces positively that the Pope has consented to a separation of Church and State in Czechoslovakia, but says the Pontiff does not desire the matter discussed in the Legislature.

Mgr. Micara, the Papal Nuncio, according to the newspaper, will present his credentials on Sept. 9.

PRESIDENT REFUSES DEMAND OF MINERS

Will Not Reconvene Scale Committees to Reopen Anthracite Commission Award.

HOLDS THEM TO CONTRACT

Says We Could Not Look the World in the Face if Point Was Yielded.

CITES SACRIFICES IN WAR

Decision, Union Leaders Believe, Will Open Eyes of Strikers and End Walkout.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—President Wilson refused today to reconvene the Scale Committees of the anthracite coal operators and miners to reopen the anthracite wage award. He pointed out that notwithstanding the miners had entered into an agreement with the operators to accept the award, the workers were now striking under the guise of a "vacation."

He told the miners that as the nation had recently made enormous sacrifices to prevent a treaty from being regarded as "a scrap of paper," and had declined to enter into relations with Governments that violated treaties, he would not yield in the present instance.

"We could not look the world in the face or justify our action to our own people and our own conscience if we yielded one iota to the men in the anthracite coal fields who are violating the contract so recently entered into," wrote the President.

His position was made known in the following telegram:

"The White House, Washington,
"Sept. 10, 1920.

"Messrs. Phillip Murray, John Collins, Thomas Kennedy, C. J. Golden, Representing the Anthracite Mine Workers, Scranton, Pa.

"Gentlemen—I am in receipt of your telegram of Sept. 3, informing me that you have written the award of the Anthracite Coal Commission into an agreement with the anthracite operators, despite the fact that you are convinced that the award in itself does not provide that measure of justice to which you believe your people are entitled. I sincerely thank you for the promptness with which you have acted, notwithstanding your disappointment. It is a policy of that kind, carried into effect by the rank and file of the workers, that has made for the steady improvement of the conditions of the anthracite miners in recent years and which lays the foundation for still further progress.

"You ask me to convene the Joint Scale Committee of anthracite operators and miners for the purpose of adjusting certain inequalities which you assert exist in the award of the Anthracite Coal Commission. In that connection your attention is called to a telegram which I sent to Enoch Williams and others in reply to a telegram received from them, stating that the anthracite miners would refrain from working unless I set aside the award of the Anthracite Coal Commission on or before Sept. 1. In that telegram I said:

"'If your communication, declaring your intention to refrain from working unless I set aside the award of the Anthracite Coal Commission on or before Sept. 1, 1920, is intended as a threat, you can rest assured that your challenge will be accepted and the people of the United States will find some substitute fuel to tide them over until the real sentiment of the anthracite mine workers can find expression and they are ready to abide by the obligations they have entered into.'

"Notwithstanding the plain warning contained in that telegram, which was given wide publicity, the majority of the anthracite coal miners, following the leadership of these men, have refrained from work under the guise of taking a vacation, in doing so they have not deceived any one, not even themselves. When a body of men collectively refrain from working by mutual understanding, however arrived at, it is a strike, no matter what name may be given to it.

MARC KLAW BACK WITH FOREIGN PLAYS

TO BRING ENGLISH COMPANY

Will Appear Here in "Lord Richard in the Pantry"—Slump Imminent in London Theatres.

Marc Klaw returned on the White Star liner Adriatic yesterday after a visit of fifteen weeks to Europe. While abroad Mr. Klaw obtained the American rights to a number of foreign plays, which he will produce here in association with his two sons, Joseph and Alonzo Klaw, under the firm name of Marc Klaw, Inc.

Mr. Klaw obtained the rights to "French Leave," a comedy by a new playwright, Reginald Berkeley, and now running in London. This piece is now being rehearsed here by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coburn, and will open in Stamford on Sept. 30, with a New York engagement to follow.

A comedy by Jerome K. Jerome, entitled "Cook," acted in London last season, is also among Mr. Klaw's plays, as is "Fixing It For Archie," a musical piece by Ian Hay, with score by Ivan Caryll. With Edward Knoblock, Mr. Klaw has contracted for a play in which Louis Bennison is to appear next season.

An English company will be brought here in "Lord Richard in the Pantry," which Cyril Maude has been acting at the Criterion in London. It is not certain, Mr. Klaw said, that Mr. Maude will come to America with this company, as he expressed a wish to desert comedy in favor of serious rôles.

"Sonya," a play from the Polish of Gabriela Zapolska, will be produced in New York in October by Mr. Klaw, with Otto Kruger in the principal rôle. The play will be staged by Emmanuel Reicher. A new operetta by Emmerich Kalman, entitled "The Little Dutch Girl," is also scheduled for presentation.

Mr. Klaw said that another slump was imminent in the London theatres when he sailed ten days ago. No new theatres are likely to be built in London for at least five years, he said, owing to the cost of materials. Ground has already been broken for Mr. Klaw's theatre in West Forty-fifth Street, to be called the Klaw.

Another passenger on the Adriatic was Lola Fisher, who said that she would return to London later in the season to appear in Clare Kummer's "Good Gracious Annabelle."

KILLS WIFE, ENDS OWN LIFE.

Soldier's Crime Laid to Insanity, Result of Shell Shock.

Mrs. Gertrude Parry, 24, was shot and killed at the home of her father at Unionville, N. J., five miles from Elizabeth, at noon. Her body was found in the kitchen. Above, in the bedroom of Mrs. Parry, lying dead beside the crib of her six months' old baby, was the body of her husband, George Parry, 27 a soldier of the United States Regular Army, stationed at Lakeside, Pa. A revolver with two chambers empty was beside his body.

Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield issued a statement this afternoon, in which he said that the County Physician's report attributed Parry's act to temporary insanity as the result of being shell-shocked and gassed twice during the war. An autopsy will be performed and the brain examined to determine whether he was insane or not.

Before she married Parry, Mrs. Parry was Assistant Postmaster of Unionville.

DR. WISE RETAINS OFFICE.

Withdraws Resignation as Zionist Vice President, Mack Says.

With reference to the reported resignation of Dr. Stephen S. Wise, a Vice President and member of the National Executive of the Zionist Organization of America, Judge Julian W. Mack, President of the organization, said yesterday:

"I believe it to be true that Dr. Wise had thought of resigning from his office of Vice President of the organization. But I understand that instead of insisting upon the immediate acceptance of his resignation Dr. Wise has consented to withdraw the same with the understanding that he is not to be reelected to or renominated for office in the organization at the annual convention."

F. L. POLK ENTERS LAW FIRM

He Will Be Associated with Jennings and Russell Here After Oct. 1.

Frank L. Polk, former Under Secretary of State will enter the law firm of Jennings & Russell of New York City on Oct. 1, it was announced last night. Mr. Polk's resignation from the State Department became effective on June 15 and ended nearly five years of service.

Mr. Polk was a member of the American delegation to the Peace Conference and after the return to this country of President Wilson and Secretary Lansing, he conducted negotiations for the United States until the close of the Peace Conference last December.

REFUGEE'S FUNERAL HELD.

Boy Who Was Accidentally Shot Is Buried at Mount Olivet.

A funeral mass was said today in the chapel at Fort Wadsworth, Staten Island, for Pavola Nickoleff, 15 years old, the Russian boy who was accidently shot by an army guard while playing "drill." After the service, conducted by a Greek Catholic priest, the body was taken to Mount Olivet Cemetery in Queens.

The refugees, 900 in number, will sail for their homes on a steamer going direct to a Baltic port today.

WANTS CUSTER BARRACKS.

Michigan University Head Would Buy Them to House Students.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 10.—President Burton of the University of Michigan today recommended to the Board of Regents the purchase of barracks from Camp Custer, soon to be dismantled, to meet the student housing situation here.

According to Dr. Burton, nearly 12,000 students are expected to enter the university this Fall. Rooms are not available for all of them, while rooms that are to be had, he said, are being held at unreasonably high rentals.

Several alumni organizations are planning to help relieve the shortage by erecting memorial dormitories.

Lawyer Robbed in Court.

While waiting in Harlem Court, where he was to defend three young men charged with robbery, Frank Amarow, an attorney and a former Assemblyman, was robbed of his wallet containing $50 and some valuable papers.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Johnna Howland has returned to the cast of "The Gold Diggers" after a month's illness.

George V. Hobart is the author of the book of "Gus Edwards's Revue of 1920," soon to be produced out of town.

A second company of "The Lady of the Camp" is to be sent on the road in the near future.

BARES NATION-WIDE BASEBALL LOTTERY

Arrest in Cincinnati Reveals Pittsburgh Scheme with Prizes as High as $10,000.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 10.—Cincinnati police charged here today that thousands of persons in Ohio are risking thousands of dollars each week in an effort to win the capital prize in a nation-wide baseball lottery. Its headquarters are in Pittsburgh, according to local police heads. Some of the tickets sell as low as 25 cents. Some command $1. Holders of $1 tickets have a chance to win a prize amounting to more than $10,000, it is said.

Robert Gernhardt and Albert Genter, city detectives, who arrested David Walter, 34, an alleged agent, say his pockets were full of lottery tickets and sheets showing winners for certain weeks. Walter was charged with promoting a scheme of chance and having lottery slips in his possession.

According to a pay-off sheet the capital prize for Sept. 6 was $5,416.20, second prize $836.10, third $280.30 and fourth $54.80. Low prize was $116, second low $41.40 and third low $25.60. The pay-off sheet for Sept. 4 showed the winner received $6,500.10.

The prizes vary each week according to the number of tickets sold, police say. The winners are decided by the total number of runs scored by the teams of the three leagues.

TO SUBPOENA CUB PLAYERS.

Chicago Club Officials Also to be Called in Grand Jury Probe.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—Subpoenas for all members of the Chicago National League Baseball Club to appear before a grand jury in connection with charges of gambling in baseball, which were ordered issued today, are being held up, it was learned tonight.

The Chicago team, now playing in the East, does not return home for more than two weeks and consequently it is possible that only a few players may be called at the present time, it was said.

The Grand Jury which was investigating the alleged gambling will convene Monday and will immediately call President Veeck of the Chicago club and other league officials, it was said.

Besides looking into the charges that a recent game between the Chicago and Philadelphia teams was "fixed" for Philadelphia to win, the jury has been charged by Judge Charles A. McDonald with investigating every form of baseball gambling in the city.

DENIES SERBIAN CHARGES.

Albanian Representative Gives His View of Border Fighting.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—C. A. Chekrezi, Albanian Commissioner in the United States, today issued a statement by way of reply to the statement made by the Serbian Minister at Washington last night.

"The Jugoslav Legation reiterates the untenable contention that the Serb-Croat-Slovene troops occupy the line of demarcation with the consent of the allied and associated powers," says the statement.

"But the Albanian Government is not aware of any such line of demarcation or of any such consent on the part of the 'allied and associated powers.'"

The statement says that after the Italian withdrawal from Albania "there came now the time for the fulfillment of the promises made by the Serbians in regard to the liberation of Ipek, Prisrend and Djakova, and when the Albanian population of those provinces realized that no change was going to be effected so far as their fate was concerned, they took up for themselves the fight against the Serbians, forming thus the 'revolutionary elements' over which the Albanian Government has not and cannot have any control. Consequently, the 'foreign influences' referred to by the Jugoslav Legation are simply 'Serbian influences.'"

WRECKERS WARN GOMPERS.

Unless He Acts Between Unions 10,000 May Quit Tuesday.

Unless Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, and Hugh Frayne, general organizer, succeed in putting an end to the internecine war involving the Allied Building Trades Council and House Wreckers' Union, Local 14949 a strike of 10,000 house wreckers may be called by Tuesday. A strike of the house wreckers would tie up work on scores of houses that are being remodeled and on numerous buildings that are being torn down to make room for lofts and offices.

William Zaranko, business agent of house wreckers' local, with a membership of 1,800, said yesterday that Mr. Gompers and Mr. Frayne had been appealed to. He said that if his organization decided to go out, the 8,200 of the other wreckers' local would go out in sympathy with his organization. He said the Building Trades Council insisted that the members join various unions and pay an individual initiation fee of $50 in order to become members of the Council individually, at a total cost to the men of $9,000.

The Society of Interior Decorators, the Master Painters and Cabinet Makers' Association declared in a statement that union painters now on strike have admitted that fewer than 20 per cent. of the 15,000 men in the union could handle a brush capably. The men demand $10 a day.

The Van Teamsters' Union announced that the Pioneer Warehouse, a large moving and storage concern, had granted the demands of the strikers for a 48½-hour week for ten months, 44½ hours a week for two months, and a general increase of $5 a week to all men who work on vans.

BAR WOMAN FROM PRISON.

Missouri Jailers Rebuff Swindler Because Baby Was with Her.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 10.—Mrs. Margaret Burington, convicted in Wisconsin of using the mails to defraud and sentenced to three years' imprisonment, was barred from the State Penitentiary today because she had a six months' old baby with her.

Under the terms of the Federal commitment, Mrs. Burington was to take the baby to prison with her and keep it for six months, after which the child was to be in the custody of its father six months. It was to alternate for six months' periods between mother and father until the expiration of Mrs. Burington's sentence.

The Missouri law does not permit imprisonment of children in State prison.

Saw Little Suffering in Austria.

Stanley Eaton, Vice President of the Royal Manufacturing Company, who returned from Europe last week on the Nieuw Amsterdam, said that he had not desired to give the information to the public that he had noticed food shortage in Austria. He said he saw "no evidence of any appreciable suffering," but added that he did see some babies apparently suffering from malnutrition. Although economic and commercial conditions seemed to him to be unsettled, he said that the Bolshevist demonstrations in Prague were peaceful and orderly, so far as he could see.

Relatives Heirs to "$1 and Love."

The will, filed here yesterday, of Adelaide Elizabeth Henderson, who was killed by an automobile last June, disposes of an estate of about $5,000 in personal property. "One dollar with love and affection" is bequeathed to John Wesley Henderson of Ashland, Ky., Frank R. Henderson of Ironton, Ohio, brothers, and Margaret M. Hayes of Fresno, Cal., and Emma R. Bradeen of 132 A Street, N. E., Washington. The rest is for Margaret Irene Schmause, a friend, of 6 East Eighty-fifth Street.

BANKER'S DAUGHTER FLEES IN OVERALLS

Gloucester Police Start Search for Miss Fletcher, Lost at Summer Home.

GIRL AND BOAT MISSING

Father Believes It Prank Before Return to School—Fisherman Says She Cut Hair.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—Miss Louisa A. Fletcher, the 17-year-old daughter and heiress of Stoughton A. Fletcher, a banker, manufacturer and horse breeder of Indianapolis, has vanished from the Summer home recently occupied by her parents at East Gloucester. She is said to have been seen just before she disappeared clad in a pair of overalls and with her hair clipped short.

The Gloucester police report that she was in swimming last night at Niles Beach, and their search for her is being prosecuted within one mile of her home.

It was announced today that a white-painted dory, the property of a Mrs. Bacon of East Boston, moored at the Cooper Point wharf, near where the girl was last seen, had been missing since yesterday.

The girl's father is owner of Laurel Hall Farm, a harness horse breeding establishment, where one of the famous animals is Peter the Great, sire of many fast trotters and pacers. Mr. Fletcher employs there the New England horse trainer, Walter Cox.

Mr. Fletcher is the head of the Fletcher American National Bank of Indianapolis and several manufacturing plants there, as well as gas works and traction lines throughout Indiana.

According to Inspector Curtis of the Gloucester police Miss Fletcher, with a maid, went from the Fletcher Summer home for a stroll yesterday, when suddenly the girl left her escort and ran. The maid vainly attempted pursuit.

A fisherman near the Cooper Point wharf, soon afterward saw a girl snipping her hair off with scissors. He said she took off her skirt and hat, pulled on a pair of overalls, swung a pair of oars to her shoulder and strode off across lots.

He rushed to the place and gathered up her clothing. A few minutes later he met the frantic maid, who finally returned to the home while an alarm was sent out.

The harbor was calm throughout the night, but today it was like a mill pond, so that a boat could hardly have been accidentally overturned. Searching parties are combing the waters for some trace of the girl or the missing boat.

The girl is described as being 5 feet 4 inches tall, weighing 143 pounds, of light complexion, with auburn hair, sharp features and short nose.

INDIANAPOLIS, In., Sept. 10.—Belief that Miss Louisa Fletcher, who is reported missing from the Fletcher Summer home at Gloucester, Mass., was on an adventurous lark and would soon be found, was expressed here today by her father, Stoughton A. Fletcher. Mr. Fletcher received a telegram this morning telling of her disappearance.

Miss Fletcher and her mother went East early in the Summer, and when Mrs. Fletcher returned home several days ago she left the daughter with relatives to remain at the Summer home until time to enter a school in New York.

Mrs. Fletcher left for Boston soon after news of the disappearance was received.

The daughter, Mr. Fletcher said today, was found of outdoor life, and while he and his wife were worried, he believed her disappearance was just a girlish prank, intended merely in a spirit of adventure. He added that he believed she would be found soon.

ABANDONED HER BABY BOY.

Knoxville Mother and Stepfather Admit Having Deserted the Child.

Special to The New York Times.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 9.—George Hixon, aged 21 years, and Gertrude Long Hixon, aged 19 years, are prisoners in the Hamblen County Jail, at Morristown, awaiting trial for the abandonment of little two-year-old Willard Long in the Court House yard at that place Wednesday morning.

The couple confessed to Sheriff W. C. Carrier Thursday afternoon, after the identification of the child by Hixon, who told a story of its having been kidnapped by gypsies near White Pine last Saturday. If convicted under the charge on which they are held, they face imprisonment of from five to ten years in the State Penitentiary.

The citizens of Morristown were greatly excited over the incident, believing that the child might have been little Blakely Coughlin, kidnapped from Norristown, Pa., June 2, for whom a nation-wide search is being made. A telegram from the father of the Coughlin boy to Sheriff Carrier cleared away this possibility, but showed the Long child to have a marked resemblance to Blakely Coughlin.

Discussion of the case in a barber's shop at Morristown by Sheriff Carrier and the evident desire of Hixon, a newcomer in the city, to get into the limelight led to the solution of the problem. Sheriff Carrier remarked that he had received the description of the Coughlin child and found a slight difference in the appearance of the two children. Hixon, sitting in the shop, spoke up and said he believed he knew the identity of the child. He asked to be taken to see him at the home of J. B. Neill, where he had been cared for since being found, cold and hungry, Wednesday morning.

Sheriff Carrier and Squire B. C. Davis went with him. The child recognized Hixon at once and crept on his lap and put his arms around his neck. Hixon said the child belonged to a poor widow living outside of White Pine, Jefferson County, and volunteered to go and get the mother. Further developments brought to light the fact that the mother was working in a factory; that she had been married to a man named Long, who died, and that she recently had married Hixon.

The mother said that the child was an incumbrance and that she and Hixon had decided to get rid of it.

Chokes Aged Woman to Get $10,000

TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 9.—A lone bandit attacked Mrs. W. H. Simmons, 77 years old, on the street here tonight and after choking her into unconsciousness robbed her of a diamond lavallière valued at $10,000 and escaped. Mrs. Simmons, a Toledo society woman, is seriously ill from the shock and physicians say she may not recover. The imprints of the highwayman's fingers were visible on her throat.

Hodge in "The Guest of Honor."

William Hodge will come to the Broadhurst Theatre a week from Monday night in "The Guest of Honor," a comedy written by himself. "Come Seven" will end its engagement at the Broadhurst next week.

MUSIC NOTES.

Prizes of $1,000 and $500 have been offered by President Harry Harkness Flagler of the Symphony Society for works by American composers, to be submitted by Sept. 30, of which, at least, the one winning first prize will be performed this Winter of the orchestra under Walter Damrosch.

Toscanini and the Scala Orchestra, coming from Italy in December are to be heard here in three concerts on Dec. 23, Jan. 11 and 25, at the Metropolitan Opera House, placed at their disposal by the Board of Directors through the courtesy of Chairman Otto H. Kahn.

Frances Alda, John Powell, Raoul Vidas, Eddy Brown and Rudolph Ganz have been added to the list of artists to appear in Sunday concerts at the Lexington.

Julius Hoppe has announced a series of Sunday concerts, beginning in October, at Madison Square Garden.

American Woolen Company

TO THE PUBLIC:

The leadership in the woolen goods trade which has been attained by the American Woolen Company has naturally subjected it to a variety of attacks, most of which, outside of trade and political rivalry, have been based upon misunderstandings.

The size of the operations of the American Woolen Company—its large capital employed in the production of seventy varieties of cloth in ten thousand varieties of styles; its capital investment in fifty-seven mills and its employment of more than 40,000 mill workers—places it in the position of something more than a private corporation.

It has duties toward the National Government to whom it has paid more than $20,000,000 in taxes in a single year or more than 10% of the gross volume of its sales. The Government should have reciprocal duties in protection of this American industry.

It has duties toward 15,000 people who own its $40,000,000 7% preferred shares—the first and only lien upon an investment estimated at above $150,000,000. These shareholders are not speculators; they are the backbone and sinew of our industrial life, which must be based upon the savings of the people. When money is easy, these shares sell at 10% premium. When money rules, as at present, at high interest rates, they sell at 5 @ 10% discount from their issue price of $100 per share.

The American Woolen Company has duties toward the 3000 owners of its common shares—formerly $20,000,000, but recently expanded by the issue of $20,000,000 additional stock for new working capital. This stock was offered to shareholders at par, was underwritten at 5% commission by a syndicate of bankers and capitalists, and is now quoted at 20% discount from par, although every share represents an equity value above the preferred shares of more than $200 per share.

The American Woolen Company has duties toward its faithful employees which rank ahead of its obligations to its ordinary shareholders and are co-equal with the interests of its preferred shareholders. All are dependent, more or less, for their living and their livelihood upon wise and just management in the conduct of this great enterprise.

The American Woolen Company aims to recognize its manifold duties to the public, not only in the production of the best woolen goods American enterprise can produce and in the meeting of honest competition in free and open American markets, but in the maintenance, so far as possible, of steady employment for its employees. It recognizes that upon this steady employment depends the welfare of the cities and towns in which its mills are located.

To carry out these manifold duties it must aim toward steadiness in prices and fair values for its goods; for its wool purchased and for its labor employed. It must avoid, so far as possible, the purchase of wool at boom prices and it must be forehanded in the use of its capital in the purchase of wool in times of liberal supply.

It must aim to hold its skilled labor organization with the fewest possible changes. It therefore pays the highest wages and gives the steadiest employment, so far as it is supported by the public in the purchase of its goods.

To manufacture and accumulate a stock of goods when the public refuses to purchase is only to invite disaster in markets and prices, reacting in the end upon our employees and the savings that furnish the capital. Such a policy continued would only result in prolonged depression disorganizing all the forces of both labor and capital which must jointly support this enterprise in its service to the public.

The company must manufacture according to orders either on its books or clearly foreseen. Early in this year the company had on its books sufficient orders to insure employment for six months.

Labor was in universal demand and prices of wool and woolen goods were at the highest seen since this company was organized. To maintain our organization and insure the fulfillment of our contracts another advance in wages of 15% was announced to our employees in May.

With the advance in the money rate and increasing restrictions to credit, cancellations began to come in; but for some time they were no more than might be expected and not larger in volume than had been seen in pre-war times without making disturbance in the industry.

When, however, on May 26th, the Government brought indictments against this company for prices charged for its goods in open and competitive markets, it was notice to the trade by the Government that the prices for woolen cloth must be reduced. Although the indictments were dismissed by the court of first jurisdiction on June 11th, cancellation of orders became universal over the country. Total cancellations based upon figures collected by the Government are estimated for the whole trade at the entire annual output of the American Woolen Company.

The total cancellation of orders upon the books of the American Woolen Company amounted to more than $40,000,000, or sufficient to give employment for two months to all our workers.

To have continued to manufacture and accumulate unsalable goods would have been, not only financial suicide, but would have insured a depression in the entire woolen industry from which it would have taken many weeks, if not months, to recover by universal shutdowns, with widespread disorganization and unemployment.

Therefore instead of the usual two weeks' vacation in August, the mills were shut down on July 10th, which was fortunately the best season for a two months' vacation. Had the shutdown been forced in the winter season, as it would have been by continued accumulation of goods, there might have been, with high prices and famine conditions for fuel, some personal suffering.

To September 1st, however, there has been less call upon the company and the public authorities for personal assistance than in the preceding year, when there was only a two weeks' vacation. The reason for this wholesome condition in our mill communities was the large volume of wages paid the past year—a sum exceeding anything ever before known in the American woolen industry. Yet the average wage is not higher than that in other skilled trades entering into the cost of living.

We believe in good wages for the American skilled working man—the highest wages that expenditure by wage earners themselves will justify. The makers of goods are the consumers of goods in this country. Prices must depend upon wages and consumption.

The American Woolen Company will be a success only so far as it is fair and just to the capital and the labor which it employs and to the public which it serves.

If you believe in the policy of the American Woolen Company in the maintenance of good wages for skilled working men, order your goods promptly this season, and if you carefully select your woolen cloth according to your needs, you will find in the American Woolen Company production such a variety as will make it unnecessary for you to invite foreign importations.

The American Woolen Company began its exhibit to the trade Thursday, September 9th, and will begin the starting up of its mills Monday, September 13th.

The wage scale will be the same as when the mills were forced to close in July.

The support of the public in the prompt purchase of the goods of the American Woolen Company is invited.

AMERICAN WOOLEN COMPANY

By Order of the Directors

WILLIAM M. WOOD, President

GIVES ITS EMPLOYES 3 DIRECTORSHIPS

Procter & Gamble Workers to Hold Elections Friday to Make Their Selections.

LIST OF 15 TO CHOOSE FROM

Big Soap Firm Accords Men Voice in Management and Encourages Them to Buy Stock.

The employes of Procter & Gamble next Friday will elect three of their number to the Board of Directors of the company. Five employes will be nominated in the primaries in each of the three plants of the concern, located at Ivorydale, Cincinnati, Kansas City and Port Ivory, Staten Island. From these fifteen the three to obtain the coveted directorships will be selected. As far back is known Procter & Gamble is the first concern in this country to give its employes a place on the Board of Directors. Others have accorded the workers an increased share in the management of business, such as is called for in the industrial democracy plan, but the employe-Directors of the soap company will share equal power with the representatives of the management and the stockholders in the conduct of its affairs.

For thirty years Procter & Gamble have encouraged employes to become stockholders. A considerable number are now and have been for many years owners of the company's stock. The plan to give employes representation on the Board of Directors was first announced in March, 1911, by William Cooper Procter, President of the company.

Rules for the Elections.

The following rules will govern the nominations and elections:

1. Only those employes who have been in the service of the company six months or more on Sept. 10 and who are 21 years of age if male, 18 years of age if female, will be allowed to vote.

2. Nominations will be made by the Employes' Confrence Committee and shall consist of five names, not more than two of whom shall be members of the Conference Committee.

3. Nominations shall be posted on all plant bulletin boards on Sept. 10.

4. In order to qualify for nomination for the position of Director of the company an employe must be 30 years of age or more and must have had at least three years' service with the company.

5. Elections will be by secret ballot. The local plant management will supply a ballot box for each department. Lists of qualified voters will be posted prior to election day.

6. Printed ballots will be given out to all qualified voters, listing the five nominees in alphabetical order (one to be voted for).

7. Usual election rules in regard to improperly marked ballots, &c., shall govern.

8. Polls will close at 5 p. m. on Sept. 17. All ballot boxes will be delivered to the office of the Plant Superintendent, who will appoint three tellers and three auditors to make and certify to the count of the ballots.

9. The employe of each of these plants who receives the highest number of votes shall be declared the choice of the factory force for election to the Board of Directors by the stockholders of the company at their annual meeting Oct. 13.

Its Americanization Work.

The Employes' Conference Committee referred to in the above rules consists of one elected representative for each fifty employes of a department. This committee meets every two weeks, once by itself and once with the committee of the management in joint conference, for the consideration of all matters relating to relations between the concern and its people. The plan followed, therefore, is on the broad principles of industrial democracy.

The largest plant of the company is located at Ivorydale, Cincinnati, where about 2,500 persons are employed. The Port Ivory plant on Staten Island is next in size with 1,000 employes. Between 700 and 800 are engaged in work at the Kansas City factory.

Besides the encouragement of cordial relations and thrift among their employes, Procter & Gamble are actively engaged in educational work, with particular attention paid to Americanization, when the Port Ivory plant an Industrial Council was formed and an American-born citizen appointed to advise and co-operate with the man of foreign birth of the council. The council is divided into ten Americanization teams, each consisting of an American and a foreign-born man. These teams are to find the man needing help and determine the kind of help he needs. At the suggestion of the teams it was voted to have an eight-week contest, ending with a dinner to the teams that had won above a certain number of points.

Points are awarded as follows: Three points for every man sent by a team for a full naturalization, two points for every man sent for declaration of intention and one point for every class attendance.

A building has been set aside for the educational work and a branch of the New York Library installed.

FIRE STARTS ON CUNARDER.

Mattresses Blaze in Steerage of Kaiserin Augusta Victoria.

Just after 9 o'clock last night smoke was seen coming from No. 7 hatch on the "D" deck of the Cunarder Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, at Pier 54, North River, foot of West Fourteenth Street, and due to sail today for Liverpool.

An alarm brought the fireboats Duane and Willett. They pumped water on to the flames in tons. The blaze, which started among mattresses in the steerage, was soon extinguished. The damage was estimated at about $2,500. The officers said the fire would not prevent the liner sailing today.

Several fires of a similar nature in the after steerage of American and British liners had occurred in Southampton and incendiaries were suspected. This is the first on this side. Captain W. I. R. Irvine will hold an investigation into the cause of the fire this morning.

Twelve hundred steerage passengers, who arrived on the liner on Thursday, were taken off yesterday afternoon and sent to Ellis Island.

ARNSTEIN ASKS STAY IN BANKRUPTCY CASE

Judge Manton Promises Ruling Monday on Application to be Argued Today.

ASSETS INQUIRY THE ISSUE

Trustee's Counsel Opposes Delay, and Demands "Nicky" Answer or Go to Jail.

Jules W. (Nicky) Arnstein fought for further delay in an examination of his assets when his bankruptcy hearing came up yesterday before Special Commissioner William A. Tallmann, in the Federal District Court. Eugene McGee, Arnstein's counsel, moved to adjourn the examination because of the absence of William J. Fallon, his law partner, who, he said, was out of town.

Saul S. Myers, counsel for the trustee in bankruptcy, opposed the adjournment. He said that the proceedings had been begun in February and all that had been obtained from the examination had been a series of adjournments. In bankruptcy matters, he said, it was the practice to compel the bankrupt to disclose his assets the day the petition was filed, and in case of refusal to answer, the man was committed to Ludlow Street jail. He saw no reason why Arnstein should not be compelled to answer the questions Judge Hand on Aug. 10 had ordered him to answer or be committed.

Mr. Myers insisted there was ground to believe that Arnstein's assets exceeded $1,000,000..

Mr. McGee said Mr. Fallon was better qualified to advise Arnstein and he insisted on an adjournment. Commissioner Tallmann ruled against the adjournment and McGee then suggested that the matter go over until the afternoon so that he might get Mr. Fallon on the long-distance telephone.

At the afternoon session Mr. Fallon appeared in court and asked for an adjournment to prepare papers for an appeal from Judge Hand's decision. Judge Hand held that Arnstein, having filed schedules in bankruptcy, had thereby waived his constitutional privilege and must submit to an examination as to his assets. Fallon asked for a stay until next week, declaring the order on Judge Hand's decision was served on his office only the previous night.

Mr. Myers insisted that the examination go on. He said the fact that a bankrupt could go on month after month refusing to answer legitimate questions was a public scandal.

Commissioner Tallmann said he did not think it was within his province to grant a stay, but that it could be done by any Judge of the Circuit Court of Appeals. He said Judge Martin T. Manton was in his chambers and after a little more discussion the lawyers and Arnstein went before Judge Manton, who heard the application for a stay. Judge Manton also listened to Mr. Myers in opposition to granting the application. Mr. Fallon said he had authorities holding that his client was properly advised when he refused to answer the questions objected to. He promised to lay his authorities before Judge Manton today. Judge Manton promised to rule on the application Monday morning.

The question objected to and which Arnstein, on advice of counsel, refused to answer are: "Did Arnstein receive any securities from Joseph Gluck or 'Nick' Cohen?"

"Did Arnstein meet Gluck in Washington, Philadelphia and Baltimore?"

"Where did Arnstein go on his mysterious vacation of more than two months?"

In his own examination Gluck had testified that Arnstein met him in the cities mentioned. Mr. McGee intimated at the morning hearing that Arnstein would again refuse to answer and take his chances on being committed.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday....8 per cent. for the best names
Thursday....8 per cent. for the best names
The quotations are for six months' paper.

The Latest Coat Designs.

Long straight lines are emphasized in the new coat styles, and the moyen age design is the one closely followed. The bottom of the new coat is cut round and wide. The waistline is slightly dropped. Quite a diversity of collar treatment is noted, but in general the collar is high and hugs the neck when fastened. Both fur and fabric collars seem equally popular with the designers here and abroad.

Wage Prospects Discussed.

One of the favorite topics of conversation in the textile and needle trades at present is whether wages will recede from the high levels reached during the war and post-armistice period. The silk industry has been able to secure concessions, but the woolen mills appear content to let previous wages stand. In the clothing trade the effort is being made not to reduce wages, but to secure greater production. The fur manufacturers are reported to be considering a revision downward of wages.

Gray Goods Sales Were Light.

Little snap to demand was visible in the gray goods market here yesterday, and the business done, consequently, was not large. Fine-yarn fabrics and the specialties were again largely neglected. In the sheetings 5-yard goods sold for this month's delivery at 12 cents and 5.50s, for similar shipment, at a cent less. Printcloth sales included September lots of 39-inch 68-72s at 15 cents. Further business in these cloths embraced spot 38½-inch 64-60s at 14 cents and October lots of the same goods at 13½ cents.

Stock Goods Among Offerings.

Although the naming of new prices and the taking of orders for a new season generally represent goods not yet made up, it is understood that quite a quantity of the materials to be sold for the Spring season by the woolen mills will consist of yardage now in stock. This is particularly true of staples, such as serges and tricotines. The market is rather saturated with the latter, but serges are said to be in fairly active demand. If goods were marked on a true cost basis it is said that fancies, as they are new materials, would be cheaper than they are and represent better purchases than the surplus staples made out of more expensive materials.

Effect of Coal Strike Now Seen.

Receipts of anthracite coal at tidewater began early this week to reflect the loss of production incidental to the outlaw strike, Seward's Journal will say today. The falling off in the movement of coal became more pronounced as the week wore on, until yesterday the tonnage received at the various ports was estimated at only 25 to 30 per cent. of normal. Failure of the strikers to return to work directly after Labor Day will have the effect of curtailing the supply in the local market until well after the middle of the month, regardless of what may be the outcome of efforts now being made to adjust the difficulty.

Asking Old Discounts.

Some woolen buyers who were compelled to accept lower discounts when goods were scarce and sellers were able to enforce their own terms, are now reported to be demanding the return of former concessions. The recent adoption of a standard contract form between dress goods buyers and sellers did not attempt to fix actual discounts, this being left to the discretion of the traders. Many houses dropped their terms from 6—10—60 to 2—10—60 during the war and some allowed only net terms. There are requests being made now for the restoration of 6—10—60, as the seller simply adds the extra discount to the price, the requests are not refused.

Women Like the Fall Styles.

Judging from reports that have come to this market from places where the Fall buying season has had time to get under way, women are much taken with the new season's styles. Particularly pleasing to many of them are the long lines which characterize many of the new dresses, together with the added length of skirts that many of them show. Long, smooth-fitting bodices, long sleeves and low waistlines all combine to give the figure the "willowy" gracefulness that is sought by most women. They also do a good deal toward removing from the "dumpy" class women of fairly-full figures. And as length of line, or the appearance of it, is the keynote in the successful "stylish stout" garment, the new mode is finding favor with heavy women.

Japanese Silk Imports Large.

Really stupendous gains in imports into this country of Japanese silk goods in the piece during the fiscal year ended June 30 are shown by figures compiled by the statistical bureau of the Silk Association of America and issued yesterday as part of the mid-year report of that organization. In the period in question imports of silk in the piece reached a value of $50,619,129, of which $43,928,079 worth were supplied by Japan. From France came goods valued at $2,735,628, while the total value of goods received from the other silk-producing countries of the world was only $3,955,422. In the fiscal year 1919, when imports of manufactured silks reached the smallest figures since 1915, Japan supplied $10,959,396 worth and France only $673,889. Other countries then shipped silk goods to the value of only $943,156.

Haircutting Popular in China.

Haircutting "by machinery" is growing more popular in China, according to reports that have reached this country lately, and no small part of its gain in favor is due to increased sales of American clippers there. American razors, pocket knives and other cutlery also are selling more freely in the territory supplied from Hongkong. The larger business now being done in the Far East in these articles is due to a change of business tactics on the part of American import houses in China, which have begun to carry sizeable stocks of the popular articles from which prompt deliveries can be made. In the past, practically no stocks were carried, which meant that the buyer must either wait a long time for the goods he wanted or trade elsewhere.

Branch Factory Garment Making.

Branch factory methods of fabrication, which proved of tremendous value in the construction of ships, railway equipment, automobiles and machinery in general during the war, cannot be applied efficiently to the manufacture of wearing apparel, according to several hundred manufacturers who have replied to the questionnaire sent out recently by Arthur Schwab, Director of the Bureau of Factory Practice and Industrial Relations of the International Association of Garment Manufacturers. It was the consensus of opinion that branch factories can be operated much more efficiently, with a maximum of speed and a minimum of cost, when each factory is devoted to the complete construction of one or more lines, rather than to the manufacture of separate parts for assembly elsewhere.

The Week in the Dry Goods Trade.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods was smaller than during the corresponding period of last year. Orders from salesmen for immediate delivery were less than the week a year ago, but larger than for several weeks preceding. There were about the same number of customers in the market. Collections were not up to the standard of the same period of last year."

COMMODITIES PRICES.

Those of Everything Excepting Foodstuffs Seem to Drop.

For the seventeenth week in succession Dun's current list of commodities prices showed an excess of declines over advances. Despite this fact, however, the trend of foodstuffs values was upward, and the advances in that part of the list nearly doubled the declines. There was a general shrinkage of fluctuations, as compared with last week, but this week's total showed 38 declines in 59 revisions. Excepting for foodstuffs, there was no other single group whose changes were of particular interest.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week, unless otherwise specified. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

*Government maximums. †Nominal.

In the major foodstuffs this week the revisions were upward. The local market supplied advances of 50 and 25 cents a barrel, respectively, in Spring patent and Winter straight flours, in sympathy with the rise in wheat. Bacon was also higher here, as was Middle Western lard, but hams did not change. Mess pork was unchanged at Chicago. All of the live meats advanced there, though, and short ribs also went up. The dairy products list here showed a slight advance in the best cheese and a rise of 2 cents a pound in the best butter. Fancy nearby eggs moved up 5 cents a dozen during the week, which put them just that much above their corresponding 1919 price. The best Western eggs advanced a cent a dozen, and are now 8 cents higher than at this time a year ago.

A Adrop of 25 cents a bag in onions was the leading change in vegetables for the week, although declines also occurred in choice marrow, medium and pea beans. A drop in fancy apples was all the list for fresh fruits showed, while in the dried ones there was an advance in citron and a decline in California prunes. Teas and spices failed to change, but No. 7 Rio coffee dropped again and now costs less than half as much as it did at this time last year. Both fine granulated and the best raw sugars were nominally cheaper, the decline in the former amounting to a dollar a hundredweight, and in the latter to 75 cents a barrel.

Wheat and prime timothy hay supplied the listed rises in the grains, with the declines contributed by corn, oats, rye and malting barley. Hops were cheaper. The combined list for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils showed but eleven changes, of which eight were declines. Features were lacking. In the hides there were no quotable changes either way, and the leather list showed only a decline in No. 1 hemlock sole. Metals revisions were confined to the minor items, the advances having taken place in lead and tin and the declines in antimony, spelter, and lake and electrolytic coppers. Declines in Hudson River brick and domestic Portland cement marked the week in the building materials.

Both Brazilian and Eastern crude rubbers were lower in price, and the same thing was true of Grade B resin and English vermilion paint. M. F. book paper was higher. In the textile field the week produced further declines in standard unfinished cottons, and in burlaps as well. Features of the woolen goods trade were the Spring openings of men's and women's wear fabrics by leading factors in the trade. In some instances the new prices were not only not reduced, but advanced, while in others they were reduced from 18 to 25 per cent. from the last prices named. Among the reductions were several of the standard cloths of the largest producer of woolens and worsteds in the country.

BUSINESS RECORDS

Failures of the Week.

Bradstreet's reports 110 failures in the United States for this week, against 147 for the previous week, and 80, 186, 244, 298 for the corresponding weeks 1919 to 1916. The Middle States had 45; New England, 9; Southern, 25; Western, 21; Northwestern, 4; Far Western, 15. Canada had 13, against 15 for the previous week. In the United States about 80.6 per cent. of the total number of concerns failing had less than $5,000 and 9.2 per cent. had from $5,000 to $20,000 capital.

TRADE MARK

The above trade-mark was first introduced to the people of New York City a little over seventeen years ago. It appeared on boxes and signs in a little store in the Daly Theatre building, on the west side of Broadway, near 30th street.

The Daly Theatre building is to be torn down, which necessitated giving up my first home in New York City, for in establishing my business I practically lived in my store.

There will be many besides myself who will regret the displacement of this historic building for the new business building to be erected at Broadway, near 30th street.

It seems to me like saying good-by forever to an old friend. We often have to say good-by regretfully, but progress cannot be made by lingering over regrets. We must be up and doing.

The introduction of my specialties—Salto-Nuts, Italian Chocolates (the bitter-sweet kind), Supreme Chocolates, Nutted Chocolates (Matinee Idols)—to the people of New York, in the little store in the Daly Theatre building, has brought me, during seventeen years, a fine patronage, which I appreciate.

My business has grown steadily in popular favor, necessitating more stores, so I established three additional stores, as follows:

One on 6th Ave. (Herald Square), near 35th St.
One on Broadway, west side, near 45th St.
One on Broadway, west side, near 99th St.

My business requires at least four stores, so I have leased another store to take the place of the one at Broadway near 30th street.

My new store is located on Broadway, west side, between 52d and 53d streets, a little over a block north of the Capitol Theatre, which daily attracts thousands of people. As they walk up or down Broadway I hope they will be attracted to my windows, in which my specialties are always displayed, and then walk in.

It was good fortune to be able to get this new store, which proves once again the old saying that out of ill-fortune good fortune often comes.

I feel sure that customers who have patronized my store in the Daly Theatre building will continue to patronize me, and without much inconvenience to themselves, because my store, Herald Square on 6th avenue, near 35th street, is very near to the old location—only five blocks away—so I am hoping they will patronize the Herald Square store.

They will have some advantages in the Herald Square store that they didn't have at Broadway near 30th street, because connected with the Herald Square store there is a dining-room where luncheon and afternoon tea are served from noon until 7 p. m.

It will be a few weeks before the new store on Broadway, west side, between 52d and 53d streets, will be ready to serve customers, but when it is finally ready it will be very attractive, and customers will like it, I am sure.

There seems to be continuous and growing demand for my specialties, and customers tell me that I should have more than four stores right in New York City. They also tell me that I ought to establish stores in other big cities throughout the United States. They tell me that when people once get a taste of Salto-Nuts or the Chocolates I sell they want them ever afterwards.

Features were lacking. In the hides there were no quotable changes either way, and the leather list showed only a decline in No. 1 hemlock sole. Metals revisions were confined to the minor items, the advances having taken place in lead and tin and the declines in antimony, spelter, and lake and electrolytic coppers. Declines in Hudson River brick and domestic Portland cement marked the week in the building materials.

Both Brazilian and Eastern crude rubbers were lower in price, and the same thing was true of Grade B resin and English vermilion paint. M. F. book paper was higher. In the textile field the week produced further declines in standard unfinished cottons, and in burlaps as well. Features of the woolen goods trade were the Spring openings of men's and women's wear fabrics by leading factors in the trade. In some instances the new prices were not only not reduced, but advanced, while in others they were reduced from 18 to 25 per cent. from the last prices named. Among the reductions were several of the standard cloths of the largest producer of woolens and worsteds in the country.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Move Irregularly, a Firm Trend Prevailing—French Gold Shipments Gain.

The stock market was lacking in interest yesterday, chiefly because of an inconsistent trend of quotations. While some issues in particular groups were moving forward, others proceeded to recede slowly, and everywhere was seen the evidence of a lack of speculative leadership. On the whole, however, the constructive side of quoted values was favored more than the side of reaction, and moderate rates for call loans were looked upon as encouraging by followers of both railroad and industrial shares who are examining the future for satisfactory developments after the heaviest part of the Autumn credit demand has been met. From 7 per cent. the rate eased off to 6 per cent. in the last hour of business, a trend which had not been expected in quarters where the income tax payment of mid-month was thought to carry possibilities of preliminary hardening of money quotations.

In speculative circles mere attention is being paid to the possible effect of gold importations on the credit situation in late October and November. The movement from London has brought in more than $35,000,000 in the last few months and at the same time that these imports are expected to continue the French Treasury transfers on account of the Anglo-French loan maturity are gathering headway. It was reported in banking circles yesterday that $15,000,000 was headed this way for French account, including the total between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 which left Havre on Sept. 4. The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows a loss of 20,000,000 francs of gold in the last week which would about cover the shipment from the French port. While the connection between the decline of the bank's gold reserve and the outward flow has not been established, it is reasonable to assume that this is the metal on the way to New York. Coincident with the decline of reserve, the bank reports an expansion of 289,800,000 francs in circulation; a growth by no means satisfactory to students of banking as the bank's gold cover had previously stood at a relatively low level. But whether France draws down her needed reserve behind notes and deposit liabilities or is able to take part of the gold from some other source, the effect will be the same, namely, to strengthen the reserve of the Federal Reserve system on this side.

The Steel Corporation's monthly tonnage statement indicated that shipments of finished goods were loosening up as railroad facilities improved, while at the same time consumers were hesitant in placing orders in advance of definite news of the application of freight rate increases to prices. The latter phase might be turned about by saying that the corporation was not anxious to add to its forward contracts until the freight increases had been thoroughly digested and a decision made on prices for early 1920 delivery, although no indication has come that quotations will be advanced. At any rate the order books showed a decline of 313,430 tons during August, the first reaction since May of last year. It is probable that cancellations played a part in the recession also, although steel men have asserted that orders let go by automobile and ship builders have been converted to the use of implement makers.

Demand sterling lost 1¼ cents to a new low level on the current movement, this being 3.50½. The downward movement of this week has run parallel to a marked falling off of grain and flour shipments from the United States and Canada, although the movements of the exchange and exports may not be considered as opposed or connected week by week. Preparations to finance exports are usually made considerably in advance of goods' movements. The total of wheat and flour equivalent shipped in the week ended Sept. 9, according to Bradstreet's record, was 7,721,448 bushels, against the unusually large outflow of 14,218,878 bushels the week before. The Continental exchanges were slightly lower on the day.

Third Liberty Loan Interest.

The Federal Reserve Bank yesterday issued the following statement regarding the payment of interest coupons on Third Liberty Loan bonds, due next Wednesday: "The Federal Reserve Bank of New York is now prepared to receive, in advance of the payment date, coupons due on next Wednesday, Sept. 15, detached from Third Liberty Loan bonds. Checks in payment of coupons thus deposited in advance will be ready for delivery at 10 A. M. on Sept. 15, 1920, or member banks, if they so desire, may have the proceeds credited to their reserve accounts, upon request."

$4,000,000 IN GOLD ON WAY FROM FRANCE

First Shipment for Anglo-French Loan Is Aboard the Lorraine.

$16,000,000 MORE IS READY

The Lafayette Is Expected to Bring $11,000,000 and the Touraine $5,000,000.

The first shipments of French gold, sent here to liquidate in part the Anglo-French loan, are at last in transit. A consignment of $4,000,000 has been started on the French liner Lorraine, and yesterday advices were received that the Lafayette, of the same line, would sail within a day or two, carrying $11,000,000 in round figures. The Touraine, which also will sail from the other side shortly, is expected to carry $5,000,000.

Yesterday's weekly condition statement of the Bank of France showed a loss in gold holdings of 20,000,000f., approximately $4,000,000, which, presumably, is the metal being brought here on the Lorraine. The other withdrawals for shipment on the Lafayette and the Touraine probably will be reported in next week's statement. It is now believed that most, if not all, of the gold which France will send here will come from the vaults of the Bank of France, at Paris, and that little or nothing will be drawn from the stocks of French gold held in England as collateral for loans made by the British to the French early in the war. On this point, however, there still is some question.

It was also learned that $3,500,000 gold had arrived yesterday from England on the Port Augusta. This gold has been on the water for nearly two weeks, and comes for British account, consigned to J. P. Morgan & Co. Upon receipt yesterday it was turned over to the Federal Reserve Bank.

Further purchases and shipments of Transvaal gold also were reported. It was announced in cabled advices that the Aquitania, which is due to leave England today, will bring on this trip $2,000,000 new gold for the account of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and the cables also reported that of yesterday's offerings in the London open maket a large portion had been obtained for American account. This, it is believed, also will come to Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

BOSTON BANK CLOSED; DEPOSITS $2,000,000

President of Prudential Trust Co. Says He Expects to Return Funds of Clients in Full.

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—The Prudential Trust Company, an institution capitalized at $200,000 with more than $2,000,000 in deposits in its banking and savings departments, was closed today by Bank Commissioner Joseph C. Allen. Withdrawals which had reduced its deposits by $1,200,000 in ten months, and loans that were considered both bad and slow, were said by the Commissioner to have made his action necessary.

John H. McNamee, President of the bank, said he expected it would be able to pay its depositors in full. He would make no statement regarding the difficulties of the institution, and the Bank Commissioner said that for the present he did not wish to discuss the reason for the withdrawals. The Bank Commissioner took over the institution's affairs before the opening hour, and although its doors were not opened today there was no excitement.

The closing found $40,000 of State funds in the bank. The Commissioner said there was no connection between the Prudential's securities and the affairs of any other institution.

President McNamee, who is a former Mayor of Cambridge, was treasurer of a fund raised here recently by the Friends of Irish Freedom. This money, he said today, had been transferred to a bank in New York. The Prudential changed treasurers two months ago, when William P. Bailey resigned and Joseph W. Travi was appointed acting treasurer.

NAMES TROLLEY RECEIVER.

Kansas City Judge Grants Petition of Street Railway's Creditor.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 10.—The Kansas City Railways Company, the local traction concern, was placed under a receivership today when Judge Stone, in the United States District Court, granted a petition of the Kansas City Refining Company. Frank C. Niles, a member representing the city on the Street Railway Board of Control, was named.

The traction company acquiesced. It is asserted to owe $5,000,000, which it cannot pay, and that it owes the refining company $21,404 for fuel oil. The petition stated that the fare increases granted "have been insufficient for the company to operate at a profit." The company now is collecting an 8-cent fare.

STEEL ORDERS DROP FIRST TIME IN YEAR

Unfilled Tonnage Recedes 313,430 During Month of August to 10,805,038.

THREE REASONS ASSIGNED

Improved Transportation, Failure to Fix 1921 Price and Cancellations.

Future business on the books of the United States Steel Corporation during August declined 313,430 tons, bringing the unfilled tonnage down from 11,118,468 to 10,805,038 as of Aug. 31. This is the first decline in forward bookings that the monthly figures have disclosed since May of last year. That month ended the decline, which set in with an abatement of the war time demand and cancellations brought about by the striking off of war orders. From May there was a steady increase in unfilled tonnage until the figures for August were announced yesterday.

The August recession, it is believed, was brought about by several factors of importance. For one thing business was not taken in anything like the volume that would ordinarily prevail, because the price question for next year is still to have a definite settlement. Furthermore, there was a decided improvement in the transportation situation which would make for a decrease in unfilled tonnage, especially if there was a cutting down of new orders. Free deliveries, with a greater quantity of cars for this purpose, prevailed during August. There was a big amount of finished product at some of the mills, and this would not be striken off unfilled tonnage figures until actual shipment was made.

The question of cancellations also played a part in the reduction of forward bookings. Most of these cancellations were from automobile companies, but steel men assert that the volume was not large.

Austria to Issue New Treasury Bills.

VIENNA, Sept. 10.—The Department of Finance intends to issue Treasury bills, redeemable in three or four years and carrying interest of 6 per cent., it was announced today. It will be permissible to sell or mortgage the bills three months after purchase. The total amount of the issue was not stated.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Today's Bank Statements.

Whenever the loan account shows anything unusual, as last week's Reserve Bank statement did when it reported the first rediscounting with other Reserve Banks since the end of last March, the Street is apt to lay great stress on the occurrence, and predictions of "more of the same kind" usually are plentiful. It was this way yesterday, when most observers, without the slightest actual knowledge of their own, were willing to predict that today's display would show an increase in the rediscounts from the $47,500,000 figure of a week ago. How much the increase would be was not hazarded, but a lot of people were satisfied there would be one.

Next Week's Money.

With next Wednesday the 15th of the month, the day when many Treasury certificates mature, when payment is due on the new issues, when the third income tax installments must be paid, and when various and sundry corporations have either to make payments or to receive them, there is the chance that today's loan accounts will be up. Also there is the chance, or the probability, that after Wednesday money will be somewhat easier and rates a little lower than they have been. Of the two possibilities, it seems more probable that money will be more plentiful, rather than that it will be cheaper, for current rates, as such things are gauged these days, are relatively cheap. Certainly, there is small chance that call money will go below 6 per cent., and it is almost as unlikely that time funds will be marked down any appreciable extent.

Senator Owen's Charges.

Senator Owen's charges that the "big banks" of New York are in conspiracy to depress business by making credit scarce and dear, with the idea of causing embarrassment to the present Administration, naturally evoked more or less heated comment in banking circles. But nothing was said for publication, which may be as well, for the things which were said not for publication could not very well have been printed. However, some bankers did point out that when Senator Owen charges that $500,000,000 has been loaned at rates up to 30 per cent. he is speaking without the record. That high figure obtained on the Stock Exchange for about ten minutes one afternoon in the middle of last November and probably as much as $1,000,000 was loaned at the rate.

Political Consistency.

A banker in one of the big institutions of Wall Street yesterday had two political pamphlets on his desk which had been sent him by correspondents in the Middle West. One, obviously Democratic, charged the big banks with supporting Harding "because they want high tariff and other favors." The other, aggressively Republican, said the big banks were for Cox, arguing that these big banks had loaned untold billions to Europe and that unless the Democrats got in and gave us free trade, the European borrowers never would be able to repay what they owe.

Price Movement Irregular.

Prices in the stock market followed a more or less drifting course yesterday. A definite trend was lacking, there being irregularity of quotations in the same group of stocks, some managing to forge ahead a little, while others receded. Furthermore the total turnover was light and where activity developed it was almost entirely in the hands of the professionals. It was true, however, that such endeavors as were made to put the market down met with no pronounced success. For the most part the changes were small, whether they were recorded on the down side or represented an upturn. Doubtless some issues have accumulated a considerable short interest but there has been no scare for the bears thus far that would bring hasty covering.

Steel Tonnage Lower.

A decline of some 300,000 tons in the future bookings of the United States Steel Corporation was perhaps a bit larger than had been anticipated, but the Street was at least prepared for a falling off in unfilled tonnage. Several factors served to make for the reduction in tonnage, the first that has been recorded since the figures began to forge ahead in June, 1910. First of all, the transportation situation has shown improvement and this permitted a more free shipment of goods by the Steel Corporation during August than was possible in earlier months of the year. Also cancellation played a part. There was this important factor, however; that both the steel companies and the buyers of steel were content to refrain from future business until there was something definite to be recorded in the way of prices as reflecting the recent freight advance. It is impossible to determine just how much cancellations amount to but at any rate the steel companies are not disconcerted by such reductions in unfilled business. The present unfilled tonnage is sufficient to keep the Steel Corporation busy for many months even though there are no increases in the way of new business.

The Porphyry Dividends.

The maintenance of the dividends on the porphyry group of copper companies, Utah, Chino, Ray and Nevada, at the same level as three months ago brought about a moderate rally in these issues. That this should have taken place simply because the last quarterly dividend rate was adhered to was probably due to a degree of satisfaction that no cut was announced. For some time it has been customary to expect that copper dividends would be reduced with each succeeding declaration, and it has actually worked out somewhat in that manner. Possibly an increase in European buying recently has stimulated the confidence of the copper producers.

Rail Announcement Not Expected Now.

While there have been recent indications that a formal statement of the action taken by the Association of Railway Executives in Chicago in regard to the demands of organized railway labor for the nationalization of boards of adjustment and other arrangements which were effected during Federal control, it now appears that nothing formal will be said immediately. At the same time, it is understood that the faction within the association which believes that this is the time for the roads to make their fight for a decentralization of what now amount almost to nationalized labor adjuncts, is still pushing the matter and that within a week or so some formal statement may be made explaining the stand of the association in the matter.

President's Stand Approved.

The reply of President Wilson to the coal miners, in which he refused yesterday to reconsider the wage awards made to anthracite miners by his special Anthracite Coal Commission was approved generally in local coal circles. Some operators have already decided that this is the time to have a showdown, inasmuch as the miners have failed to accept the findings and the award of the commission, as they promised, and the fact that the President took a firm stand in his reply was considered as significant. Coal men feel that the public has reached the point where it will tolerate few more strikes which in the end it has to pay for.

***

The State Commission Convention.

Considerable interest has already been displayed in the possible developments which may result from the thirty-second annual convention of the National Association of Railway and Utility Commissions in Washington on Nov. 9. Railroad men are interested particularly, as they feel that the question of the State commissions' stand on the new railroad freight and passenger rate schedules will be thoroughly thrashed out.

***

Railroad Traffic to Decrease.

Careful students of the railroad situation say that within the next year or two a considerable slump in the volume of traffic moved by the railroads of the country will occur. But, on the other hand, there are evidences on many of the lines that that slump has not started yet and shows no signs of starting. In fact, some of the big systems report that they must do additional construction work to handle the increased volume of business that is being offered to them. How soon the slump will come has not been more than tentatively guessed, that guess being the fore part of 1921, after the crop movement for the season is virtually over.

BANKS TO OPPOSE SAVINGS LOANS BAN

MAY ENLIST RESERVE BANK

Proposed State Law, They Say, Would Merely Lead to Return to Deposit System.

The proposal to include in the legislative program, for the relief of the housing problem a bill prohibiting savings banks from investing in bankers' acceptances, which is designed to force the savings banks to lend more money on land and mortgages, is expected to meet the serious opposition of bankers of all classes. Whether there will be any organized opposition to the proposed law could not be ascertained yesterday, but bankers, speaking individually, expressed strong sentiments, against the idea and some even hinted that the Federal Reserve authorities might be induced to lend their weight against it.

If the bill should become law, it was pointed out, it would not serve the purpose for which it is intended, as the money which savings banks now use for investment in acceptances formerly was kept on deposit with commercial banks or trust companies, and if the investment in acceptances were denied to them they would be likely to do so again, for the funds are essentially liquid and must be kept so.

One banker used the returns of the savings banks to the State Superintendend of Banks, as of July 1, last, to illustrate this point. At that time the savings banks of the State had invested in real estate $1,227,117,578, and in stocks and bonds $1,121,018,314. They held as investment promissory notes valued at $22,364,926 and were carrying in their portfolios bankers' acceptances to the value of $34,997,166. This latter amount, it was said, would not be available for real estate investment under any circumstances, as the savings bank simply would sell their acceptances and deposit the proceeds with their correspondent banks if they were not allowed longer to invest in prime bills.

The average savings bank buys its acceptances through its correspondent bank and pays for them out of its balances with that institution. It was said yesterday that the savings banks receive on their balances with correspondent banks 2¼ to 2½ per cent. whereas when they invest the funds in acceptances they can make as high as 6 per cent. Thus, there is a distinct gain by buying bills, which are, to all intents and purposes, quite as liquid as ordinary deposit accounts, for if the correspondent bank cannot or will not dispose of the acceptances promptly, they may be sold direct to the Federal Reserve Bank.

In point of fact, the bankers' acceptance is the only connecting link between the savings bank and the Reserve Bank. It is the only instrument the savings bank has which may be used to take advantage of Reserve Bank credit facilities, and for this reason bankers believe that the proposed legislation would be a serious mistake. Also, at this time, when the Reserve Board and other agencies have been making every effort to expand the acceptance market, it would be greatly regreted if the State of New York should stop savings banks from investing in this form of paper and, some bankers believe, might react to the detriment of general business and finance.

SAY FORD SAVED RAILROAD.

Answer to Suit Asserts Company Was Near Bankruptcy.

Henry Ford is credited with saving the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad from bankruptcy in answers filed in the Supreme Court yesterday by the railroad company and Frederick Osborn, who arranged the plan by which Mr. Ford and his son acquired control of the road and agreed to finance it. The answer, filed by Leventritt, Cook, Nathan & Lehman in behalf of the railroad, states that 98 per cent. of the holders of stock and bonds of the road have agreed to the lease to the Ford corporation organized to take over the property. The suit was brought to set aside the lease.

The answer states that the road runs through a territory from which the coal supply has been exhausted and that the hauling of steel and iron, the only other large commodities of the territory traversed, is handicapped by operating defects and lack of equipment. The road was operated for twenty years prior to 1914, when the last reorganization took place, and during that time there have been numerous receiverships. The last receiver left an operating deficit of $3,500,000, and there was a continued loss in 1916 and 1917.

After reviewing the financial operations of the railroad and its losses, the answer tells how Mr. Ford took over the company.

Only 2 per cent. of the security holders, including Leon Tanenbaum and Benjamin Strauss, the plaintiffs, refused to consent to the plan. The Ford corporation assumed $520,000 interest obligations, the $1,110,764 debt to the Government, $1,638,720 equipment trust obligations, and a $400,000 floating indebtedness to Sept. 1.

The answer contends that the lease of the property was not "improvident," as alleged, but is "fair, reasonable and equitable."

TO INCREASE CAPITAL STOCK

Penn Seaboard Steel Corporation to Ask Shareholders' Approval.

The Penn Seaboard Steel Corporation has called a special meeting of stockholders for Sept. 24 to authorize an increase in the capital stock of the company from 250,000 to 350,000 shares, increasing the stated capital from $1,250,000 to $1,350,000. The stockholders will also be asked to authorize the sale by the Directors of stock purchase warrants covering 15,000 shares, at a price of $33.33 at any time after March 1, 1921, and prior to the conversion, redemption on maturity of the three-year 7 per cent. convertible notes of the corporation, each warrant to provide that the holder may pay for thirty shares of stock represented by the warrant either in cash or by surrender of one of the notes.

It is proposed to issue $500,000 of the three-year 7 per cent. notes now in the company's treasury to provide new working capital. This will increase the outstanding note issue to $2,000,000. The notes have been underwritten by bankers, but the privilege has been reserved for stockholders to purchase the notes direct from the corporation.

Luxury and Special Taxes Swell Internal Revenue Terms.

OTTAWA, Sept. 10.—Luxury taxes and other special levies tended to swell internal revenue receipts for the five months ended August 31 to $20,885,859, an increase of $13,107,458 over the corresponding period last year. These figures were contained in the monthly statement of the Department of Finance, issued today.

Ordinary revenue for the same period this year was $183,527,579, an increase of $51,140,880 over the corresponding period last year, and ordinary expenditures $135,675,321, an increase of $38,096,982. This year's expenditure figures, it was explained, include the first interest payment on the last Victory loan.

Revenue from income tax during August was $7,481,647, an increase of $6,097,798 over August, 1919, and from business profits tax, $2,315,946, a decrease of $3,113,215.

The total net debt is $2,234,496,915.

KRUPPS UNDERBID US ON LOCOMOTIVES

Depreciated Mark Believed to be Basis of Deal by Former Munitions Works.

ORDER IS FOR JAVA STATE

Continued Underbidding Not Looked For, However, as Germans Lack Raw Materials.

Locomotive builders of this country were recently underbid by the Krupp Works of Germany on an order of eighty-three locomotives for the Java State railways, it was learned yesterday. This, it is believed, is the first time that the Krupp Works, formerly devoted to munitions, have been an important factor in the railway equipment field. It was announced some time ago that the Krupp Works were being remodeled for this purpose and the taking of this order, it is believed, indicates that the transformation of the big plants to the new work is complete. It could not be learned how much the Krupp Works underbid the American quotations, but it is believed that the depreciated German money afforded the foundation for the underbidding. Holland was the actual bidder for the engines and, with a gold payment to make, could obtain better terms under the German currency situation than in dealing with the United States.

While Germany was successful in underbidding in this instance, it is not believed that, for the time being, at any rate, she will be an important factor in the foreign equipment field. This opinion is arrived at because of the lack of raw materials which the Krupp Works will be forced to face in competition with American companies. The raw materials for manufacture in iron and steel are to be had cheaper here, and in earlier supply, than at any other point in the world, according to well informed men in the equipment business. This presumes that American companies will continue to be a big factor in the world markets, even though the adverse exchange situation in which foreign countries find themselves prevails for a long time. In the long run, however, the opinion was expressed that the question of exchange might play a big part in our export operations. One authority said he did not believe that European exchange would go back to normal for perhaps as long a period as twenty to twenty-five years, in which case this country, on a gold basis, would be one of the easiest places in which to sell goods, but one of the hardest from which to carry on an export trade.

Equipment orders from American railways are not expected to flood the market during this Fall and winter. It was pointed out yesterday that the heaviest business of the railroads would be done during the next five to seven months and that next Spring would see a lull. An order for railroad equipment could not be placed now and be delivered before Spring, when the light season in ironmaking was beginning to develop. It was held, therefore, that the railroads would probably refrain from buying heavily until Spring, by which time there might have been a readjustment of prices. Furthermore, it was said that the railroads by that time would have had an opportunity to test out the new rates and that if they prove as successful as to earnings as was predicted the roads might be able to borrow money on more advantageous terms. For the present it is said the railroads are bending every endeavor toward repair work so that they may have locomotives and cars quickly to handle the heavy traffic.

Equipment companies are in many cases now operating at better than 50 per cent. of capacity. Domestic orders make up the bulk of this business, although there is a goodly proportion of foreign business.

SAVINGS PLAN IS APPROVED.

Meyer's Proposal to Extend Postal System Wins Wide Favor.

Eugene Meyer, Jr., formerly Managing Director of the War Finance Corporation, yesterday said his proposal to extend and expand the Postal Savings system was being favorably received by all classes of bankers. He said he had received a large number of written and verbal communications from heads of national banks, private bankers, labor leaders and businessmen in general and was gratified at the reception given the proposal.

He added that the communications addressed to him showed opinion virtually unanimous on three leading points. These are that the 2 per cent. rate of interest now paid by the Postal Savings system is entirely too low; that the arrangement whereby interest is allowed only on deposits with the Postoffice a full year should be revised, and that the present condition which gives the Postmaster no credit for the Postal Savings business in establishing the rate on which his pay is based should be changed, so that instead of the Postmaster having this business as an additional burden, as is now the case, he would be properly compensated.

Mr. Meyer also said that at a recent conference with presidents of a number of leading savings banks he was assured of their support.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Montgomery & Co. are offering at 102.75 and interest yielding about 5.15 per cent. to optional period and 5.50 per cent. thereafter $700,000 Schuylkill County, Penn., 5½ per cent. highway bonds of 1920, dated July 1, 1920, and maturing July, 1950.

The Imperial Oil Corporation, a subsidiary of the Middle States Oil Corporation, yesterday announced initial dividends of 2 per cent. quarterly on the preferred stock and 1 per cent. monthly on the common stock.

The first luncheon of the Bond Club of New York will be held Tuesday, Sept. 14, at 12:15 at the Bankers Club in honor of Monsieur Jean Parmentier, head of the French financial mission now in this country, and Monsieur M. Casenave, Minister Plenipotentiary, Director General of French Services in the United States.

Gordon R. McAllister, formerly of Berdell Brothers, and Arthur C. Bray, have formed a co-partnership under the firm of G. R. McAllister & Co., for the transaction of a general investment and brokerage business, dealing in public utility, inactive and unlisted stocks and bonds, with offices at 74 Broadway.

The Wall Street division of the New York University School of Commerce enters upon its seventh year on Tuesday, Sept. 21, with the beginning of the Fall term.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

The improved business sentiment which was noted in some quarters last week has continued, according to the weekly review of R. G. Dun & Co., but this, it is considered, is based rather on expectations of reviving activity than on any actual increase in business.

In discussing conditions the publication says in part:

Some seasonal broadening of demands would not be surprising, especially after a period of conspicuous dullness in various lines, and the official September forecast of abundant grain harvests is obviously a constructive development. With the virtual assurance of large crops this year, reason for confidence is not lacking, and trade advices from the agricultural regions are of a more cheerful tenor than those from strictly manufacturing sections.

If general farming results alone were to govern the course of business, the outlook would leave little to be desired; but the price question clearly remains the controlling element in the situation, and further downward revision of some markets is essential to future progress. Recognition of this fact is being forced upon some sellers who have been slow to appreciate the importance of the reversal of purchasing policy, and there is now less disposition, following many consecutive weeks of yielding of wholesale quotations, to doubt the genuineness of the price deflation.

Bradstreet's says:

Two divergent influences, price uncertainty and the advance of the Fall season, are visible in the trade and industrial situation, resulting in a curious cross-current effect upon conclusions, but on balance it may be said that a little more optimism is displayed as to the future and the volume of trading is larger. Reports from manufacturing districts too are slightly better, despite some quieting down in new buying in lines such as iron and steel, hitherto displaying activity. The tone of collections too shows a slight improvement, and crop reports are better, though the lateness of the two big crops whose maturity is dwelled, corn and cotton, renders it absolutely necessary that a late, warm Fall season be had if present favorable prospects are to be realized.

DIRECTORS APPROVE CHEMICAL MERGER

WILL RECEIVE COPIES SOON

New Company Will Be Known as the Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation.

The Boards of Directors of the five companies which are to take part in the chemical merger, General Chemical, Barrett Company, Solvay Process, Semet-Solvay and National Aniline and Chemical yesterday approved the plan submitted and in the course of a few days copies of the plan and the deposit agreement will be mailed to stockholders. Following that, special meetings of the stockholders will be called to give final ratification.

The new company will be known as the Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation. The authorized capital stock will not exceed $85,000,000, 7 per cent. cumulative preferred of $100 par value and 3,000,000 shares of common stock without par value. It is estimated that the outstanding capital of the company, based on the deposit of all outstanding stock of the consolidating companies and eliminating inter-company holdings, will consist of the undisturbed bonded indebtedness of the consolidating companies, amounting to $9,493,000; $39,374,300 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock and 2,119,677 shares of common stock.

In an official statement the Stockholders' Committee says:

"If current earnings should be substantially maintained, as the committee believes they will be, and if substantially half of such earnings in excess of preferred dividend requirements should be distributed in regular quarterly cash dividends on the common stock of the new company, as the committee would favor, holders of such common stock may expect to receive regular quarterly cash dividends thereon at the rate of $6 per share per annum."

The committee of stockholders of the consolidating companies which will be in charge of the consolidation is composed of the following:

Dr. William H. Nichols, Chairman of the board, and W. H. Nichols, Jr., President of the General Chemical Company; E. L. Pierce, President, and R. W. Swift, Treasurer of the Solvay Process Company; H. H. S. Handy, President, and A. W. Hudson, Vice President of the Semet-Solvay Company; Eversley Childs, Chairman of the board and William Hamlin Childs, President of the Barrett Company and Orlando Weber, Chairman of the board and William J. Matheson, Director of the National Aniline and Chemical Company.

The Guaranty Trust Company will be depository for all classes of securities and will issue transferrable deposit certificates against deposits of stock under the plan. The Bankers Trust Company will act as registrar of deposit certificates.

OCTOBER COTTON JUMPS 100 POINTS

Option Stands at 29.38 at Close After a Sudden Covering Movement.

CARRIES LIST WITH IT

Gains Run as High as 52 in December to 2 in July—Liverpool Quiet and Lower.

The outstanding feature of yesterday's cotton market was the abrupt turn in the October contract. After two days of irregularity, during which the market showed no particular trend, there suddenly developed yesterday a very sizable covering movement in October and before the movement got through the option was up considerably more than 100 points. At one time it sold at 29.60, for a net gain of 135 points, and at the close it stood at 29.38, a net gain on the day of 113 points. Incidentally, October closed up the gap between its position and that of September by about half, finishing the day within 80 points of the spot month.

The opening of the market was dull and heavy. On the call prices were down about 50 points on the average, but very shortly after the call the buying of October started and lifted the whole list. The buying of October was said to be largely a covering of contracts put out during the last fortnight, with quite a little hedge buying thrown in. It is natural, of course, for October to improve, considering that it will be the spot month within a few weeks and also the lack of speculative interest in September, but the reasons for yesterday's strong display are not entirely clear.

The other months responded to the strength in October and after their early losses recovered all of the decline and added net gains which ran as high as 52 points in December down to 7 points on May and 2 in July. Spots were up 50 points here, and in the South there were reported advances of 50 to more than 100 points in some of the active markets. Liverpool was quiet and somewhat lower than the previous day for both spots and futures.

NEW FLAX PULLER TESTED.

Special to The New York Times.

TROY, N. Y., Sept. 9.—An invention which, it is declared, should revolutionize the linen industry as the cotton gin did the preparation of cotton for manufacture was demonstrated in a flax field on the Riley farm at North Hoosick today before a group of New York manufacturers and scientists, Canadian growers and Government experts. The invention is a flax-pulling machine by which, in less than three hours, a five-acre field was cleared. The same work formerly required nearly forty persons three days to perform.

The flax was pulled up by the roots and the fibres, preserved unbroken, were delivered tied in bundles. The inventor is Theodore Kreite, a Canadian, who has been working on the machine for twelve years, the last three years in the plant of the Walter A. Wood Company at Hoosick Falls, where the machine was manufactured for the Freeman-Sumner Company of New York.

The experiment was witnessed by C. E. Daly, textile engineer, and L. P. Whitaker of New York, George Sumner, President of the Montreal Board of Trade; Henry A. Bodwell of Smith & Dove, flax manufacturers of Andover, Mass., and R. Oakley Kennedy and Sanford Cluett of Troy.

WHEAT PRICES LOWER.

Break in Sterling Exchange Causes Decrease.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—Wheat prices turned downward today, influenced by a break in sterling exchange and by reports of rain in Argentina. There was a rise in the Eastern buying which recently has been a feature. Selling, however, was not aggressive. Opening quotations, which varied from ¼ to 1¾c lower, with December 245¾ to 246 and March 242 to 243¾, were followed by a general further decline and then something of a rally.

Scantiness of country offerings tended later to check declines. The close was unsettled, 1c to 2c net lower with December 246 and March 241¾.

LACKAWANNA PLAN NEARS COMPLETION

Method of Distributing Surplus Expected to be Decided Upon Early Next Week.

DIVERS OPINIONS DEVELOP

Some Stockholders Favor Formation of $42,000,000 Coal Company Segregated from Railroad.

The much-discussed plan for a distribution of the large surplus which has been rolled up by the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad will be presented at a meeting of the Executive Committee probably early next week, and, if approved, will be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission immediately. While no definite information regarding the plan has been forthcoming from authoritative quarters other than that it was believed to be nearing completion, it has developed that there is a difference of opinion as to how the distribution of surplus can be most advantageously effected.

Some stockholders are known to favor the formation of a coal company segregated entirely from the railroad company, with separate management and individual operation. This plan, according to rumors which have been circulating for months in the financial district, calls for the formation of a new company with a capital of $42,000,000 or more, the stock to be distributed to present holders of the railroad shares. This rumor, however, was branded some time ago as false.

At the same time it is the belief in some quarters that the coal properties may be segregated and placed under separate management, despite this opposition. Those who do not favor segregation are understood to hold that the present arrangement not only is well within the law, but is an extremely economical one in that it allows for an interchange of many materials between the two companies which would be impossible if they were separated.

Because of the proximity of an announcement outlining the plan the rumor mart has been busy with Lackawanna gossip, one item attracting a good deal of attention yesterday being to the effect that Delaware, Lackawanna & Western would take over the Erie system. In conservative circles this was belittled because of the fact that the properties are in many respects parallel. Another bit of gossip in connection with Delaware, Lackawanna & Western has been the report that the Panhandle would be taken over. The last rumor is one that has been born and reborn in Wall Street for the last fifteen or twenty years and causes but little interest when it crops up nowadays, because it has been denied so many times.

Cuts Refined Sugar to 17.10 Cents.

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—The Revere Sugar Refinery re-entered the market today and announced a reduction from 22½ cents to 17.10 cents in its price of refined sugar, free on board, Boston.

AIR MAIL FOR NEW YORK LEAVES SAN FRANCISCO

Plane Which Started from Mineola Reaches Cheyenne and Continues Flight.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10.—Carrying 700 pounds of mail, the first transcontinental postal airplane to leave San Francisco cleared from the Marina Field at 6:15 A. M. Raymond J. Little was the pilot. The schedule called for the plane's arrival in Salt Lake at 3:31 P. M., mountain time, today. It is due at Mineola Field, New York, at 4 P. M. Sunday.

The first regular transcontinental airplane mail from New York was scheduled to arrive here at 2 P. M. today, but according to dispatches from Cheyenne, whence it started its third lap this morning, it probably will not arrive before tomorrow.

The plane starting from New York failed to reach this city today and ceremonies which were to mark the arrival were postponed until tomorrow. A delay of an hour and a half on account of a civic celebration at Salt Lake City caused the plane to reach Reno too late to make the last leg of the flight before nightfall. The pilot reported encountering heavy gales while crossing the Rocky Mountains at an altitude of 14,000 feet. The plane which departed at 6:15 this morning put up for the night at Salt Lake City.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 10.—The transcontinental mail plane, piloted by J. P. Murray, which landed here early last night, hopped off at 5:18 o'clock this morning for the West, with Rock Springs as the first stopping place. Murray expected to reach Reno, Nev., before night. He arrived with 400 pounds of mail, part of which he left here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Bids for three new air mail routes, part of the transcontinental chain, were opened today at the Post Office Department. All were made by Alfred W. Lawson of the Lawson Air Line Company of Chicago. From Pittsburgh to St. Louis, via Columbus, Ohio, Cincinnati and Indianapolis, Mr. Lawson bid $147,000, the limit being $200,000; from New York to Chicago, via Harrisburg, Pa., Pittsburgh and Fort Wayne, Mr. Lawson bid $288,000, the limit. On the route from New York to Atlanta, Ga., via Washington, D. C., Raleigh, N. C., and Columbia, S. C., Mr. Lawson bid the maximum of $300,000.

Mr. Lawson proposes to carry passengers as well as the mail. The planes can carry from ten to twenty passengers.

WOMAN SLAIN IN MOUNTAINS

Young Kentucky School Teacher Found Near Convict Negro Camp.

HARLAN, Ky., Sept. 10.—Miss Emma Parsons, 25 years old, of Lancaster, Ky., a teacher of domestic science in the Pine Mountain settlement school, twelve miles from Harlan, was murdered on Tuesday on a lonely mountain trail near Dillon, Ky. The body was found last night. News of the tragedy trickled through to Harlan today.

Apparently, she first had been beaten with a fence rail, then assaulted, and finally her throat was cut. The body was found under a ledge near a convict camp of seventy negroes by searchers who had been looking for her since Tuesday, when she left a train at Dillon after a visit with relatives in Lancaster. A mountain trail only led to her destination. She had gone six miles on her lonely walk over the rugged country when she was slain.

DRY AGENTS CURBED BY FEDERAL RULING

APPLIES 4TH AMENDMENT

Search After Failure to Buy Liquor Held to be Violation of Constitution.

Federal Judge Garvin, in Brooklyn, yesterday handed down a decision which lawyers said would virtually do away with the practice of trying defendants under Volstead act informations. It was held by Judge Garvin that prohibition agents have no right to search the premises of a saloon keeper without a warrant when they have no reason to believe the law is being violated. In the case before him, the agents made a search of the saloon after they had failed in an attempt to buy liquor in the place.

"As the agents of the Government had no reason to believe any violation had taken place," Judge Garvin held, "their search of the premises without a warrant and the seizure resulting therefrom was a clear violation of the Fourth Amendment of the Constitution, and no conviction could be had upon evidence so obtained. The rights guaranteed to the people by the Fourth Amendment cannot be disregarded. As a part of the fundamental law of the land, they were granted as a safeguard against oppression."

When arraigned before Commissioner Henry D. Barmore, in July, Harold W. Quaritins, a saloon keeper at 2,138 Rockaway Avenue, Brooklyn, and his bartender, John Trainor, on warrants charging violation of the Volstead act, the cases were dismissed on the ground that when the agents went into the saloon, and asked for a drink, it was refused, and the agents proceeded to search the place, seizing a quantity of liquor without a search warrant.

The Commissioner held that the action of the agents was a violation of the Fourth Amendment and in this position he was sustained by Judge Garvin in his decision yesterday. United States Attorney Ross, as has been the custom when a case has been dismissed by a Commissioner for lack of evidence, proposed to bring the two defendants into the Federal Court on informations. Counsel for the defendants requested hearing on the granting of the informations. Judge Garvin decided they had the right to be heard and also that the informations could not be granted in the case as sufficient substantial evidence had not been adduced.

An information is ordinarily desirable, expediting justice, Judge Garvin said, after quoting several authorities, but said that there must be a substantial reason for granting it.

"This court will not make an order allowing an information to be filed," Judge Garvin said, "where it is apparent that the prosecution cannot prevail."

MENOCAL ANSWERS GUERRA.

Denies Interference with Ballot and Calls Charges "Insolent."

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 10.—Charges that President Menocal has "interfered with the electoral machinery of Cuba," and indirectly "protected perpetrators of criminal acts," are preferred in a letter to the President made public last night by Faustino Guerra, President of the Liberal Party. The reply of the Cuban Chief Executive to Guerra's letter, which also was made public, denies the charges and declares that any further letters from Guerra to the President must be couched in more moderate language if they are to receive consideration.

In addition to "publicly exercising every kind of pressure to force the Conservatives to resign their just aspirations," Guerra alleges President Menocal appointed his personal counsel as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Cuba.

"The Liberal Party," Guerra's letter says, "is under the imperative necessity of listening to the complaints of its members and of demanding exact fulfillment of the law * * * and if we do not find in you, not only promises, but solid guarantees which the people have a right to exact, our political group will see itself obliged to take definite resolutions, however hard they may be, to prevent our country's most sacred right—that of suffrage—being converted into a joke."

SCHOOL HEAD ENDS LIFE.

Margaret S. Winslow Shoots Herself as She Prays Beside Bed.

Margaret S. Winslow, 45 years old, of 530 First Street, Brooklyn, who had been the Principal of Public School 140 at Sixtieth Street and Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn, since 1912, committed suicide at 10 o'clock last night in her home by shooting herself with a revolver.

The report was heard by Elinor Bennett, a friend, who rushed to Miss Winslow's room and found her dead, kneeling beside the bed as if she had prayed before firing the revolver, which was lying on the bed.

Miss Winslow is said to have been in poor health for the last twelve months and it is thought this might have made her despondent. At school on Thursday she complained of her health and did not go there yesterday.

In April, 1913, Miss Winslow was reprimanded by Thomas W. Churchill, President of the Board of Education, for speaking to her teachers in school hours against the McKee bill. She alleged the reprimand was made in a discourteous manner. This was denied by Mr. Churchill.

CORRECTS GAME LAW ERROR

Open Season for Partridge from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15.

The Conservation Commission has issued a statement correcting a clerical error in the game laws for 1920 regarding the open season for partridge or ruffed grouse. About 1,000 copies of the new game laws have been distributed in which the open season for partridge or ruffed grouse is given as Oct. 1 to Nov. 30, both inclusive. According to the commission, the open season for these particular denizens, as set by law, is Oct. 15 to Nev. 15, both inclusive.

All game laws sent out hereafter will include the correct season, and the Conservation Commission wishes to call the attention of all who may have received the books so far circulated to this error. In the syllabus of the game laws, which is given to every applicant for a hunting license, the grouse season is correctly stated.

PENNSYLVANIA CLUB ADDS TO REALTY

New York Alumni Organization Buys Valuable East Forty-sixth Street Building.

ABUTS RECENT PURCHASE

Same Interests Took Over the Former Home Club Property Last March.

The New York Alumni of the University of Pennsylvania, who last March purchased the former Home Club property at 11 to 17 East Forty-fifth Street for a clubhouse, prove to be the buyers of the abutting eight-story structure at 12 and 14 East Forty-sixth Street, on a plot 50 by 100.5. The latter property was reported sold last July by Henry Mandel, who had bought it a short time before from Livingston Phelps., attaché of the American Consul at Rome, Italy. The property is assessed at $350,000.

With this purchase the alumni will have one of the most spacious clubhouses in this city. The former Home Club, which was originally started by Pliny Fisk, the banker, consists of a nine-story structure with stores, and a five-story building, the two occupying a plot 95 by 100.5 and adjoining the Abercrombe & Fitch building at the northwest corner of Madison Avenue. The combined properties are assessed at $690,000.

They have been taken by the club subject to a mortgage for $450,000, and as part of the deal the Home Club Company allows a second loan in the way of a purchase money mortgage for $300,000 to remain for three years at 6 per cent.

The Forty-sixth Street building was acquired subject to a mortgage of $275,000.

Title has been taken in the name of the Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth Streets Corporation, formed in July and capitalized at $675,000. Its incorporators are W. F. Sweeney, E. J. Roseberry and F. A. Richardson.

Other Business Buildings Sold.

Snowber & Co. sold for the Chambers-Greenwich Street Company the five-story building at 165 Chambers Street, on a lot 25 by 78. This sale disposes of the entire property, 78 by 193, owned by the sellers at the northeast corner of Chambers and Greenwich Streets.

Leonard Weill has resold to the Hildenbrand Bathgate Holdings Company, the present tenant, the five-story loft building at 14 and 16 Vandewater Street, on a plot 51.9 by 123.10, irregular, just north of Brooklyn Bridge.

Charles Laue bought the six-story loft building at 332 Canal Street running through to 39 and 41 Lispenard Street, between Broadway and Church Street, with a frontage of 24.10 feet on Canal Street and 50 feet on Lispenard Street, the easterly 25 feet of which is leasehold. The sale was made by Mrs. Emma C. Woerishoffer through E. H. Ludlow & Co.

The Liberty Building, at the northeast corner of West and Cedar Streets, has been sold by William Seitz, Jr., Corporation to the Broadway-John Street Corporation. The building is five stories high.

APARTMENT TRADING.

Lido Hall, Valued at $400,000, Sold to New Company.

Apartment house trading was a strong feature of yesterday's realty market, one of the largest transactions involving Lido Hall, a nine-story structure at 1,800 to 1,806 Seventh Avenue, which was sold by the Rosmor Realty Company to the Lido Hall Apartment Company.

The property is valued at about $400,000. It rents for nearly $50,000 and has thirty suites. A mortgage of $325,000 was retained by the vendor.

The West 108th Street Realty Company sold to the Beneson Realty Company the Algeria apartments at 241-245 West 108th Street, held at $300,000. The apartments are eight stories high and cover a plot 75 by 101. P. A. Edmiston was the broker.

The same broker also sold to the Benenson Realty Company 7 and 9 West 116th Street, two six-story houses, renting for $14,000 a year and held at $90,000.

Rafael Dankowitz sold to the K and H Realty Company the five-story Marcella apartment building, with stores and the adjoining four-story and basement store and tenement building, with a combined frontage of 145 feet on 125th Street, known as No. 4 to 14. A mortgage of $173,812 formed part of the purchase price.

Charles R. Faruolo has sold for Carolyn Foster, Princess Aymon de Faucigny Lucinge, to Arthur Apfelbaum the five-story tenement 86 Ludlow street.

Pepe & Brother have sold for Herman Reher to a client the six-story apartment house, on lot 50 by 75, at 250 and 262 West Twelfth street. The property was held at $65,000.

Louis Cohen purchased from Samuel Richman the five-story flat at 31 West 112th street.

Samuel Rosenbaum sold to the Masure Realty Company the two five-story flats, 521-523 West 156th street.

Jules Nehring, Inc., sold for Arnold Thayer to Nathan Bregstone, 123 and 125 Edgecombe avenue, two five-story flats, renting for $8,500 a year, and held at $80,000.

Realty Market Notes.

The five-story building at 557 Fifth Avenue was leased for an aggregate rental of $850,000, and not $350,000 as reported Thursday.

Bryan L. Kennelly has been retained by the Grand Rapids Trust Company to sell eighty-six lots at Hackensack, N. J., and 400 lots at Metuchen, N. J., Oct. 9.

Peter Theobald and Oscar P. Rinas are the buyers of the dwelling at 64 East 124th Street, sold recently.

Charles Laue bought the six-story loft building at 332 Canal Street running through to 39 and 41 Lispenard Street, between Broadway and Church Street, with a frontage of 24.10 feet on Canal Street and 50 feet on Lispenard Street, the easterly 25 feet of which is leasehold. The sale was made by Mrs. Emma C. Woerishoffer through E. H. Ludlow & Co.

PRIVATE HOUSE BUYERS.

Major Bensel Buys Home on East Fiftieth Street.

Bryan L. Kennelly has sold to Major John A. Bensel for the E. B. Burnham estate 44 East Fiftieth Street, a five-story dwelling on lot 21 by 100. Mr. Bensel has bought the dwelling for his own occupancy. It was held at $100,000.

John H. Pierce sold for Thomas H. Smith to Susie L. Fletcher of Washington, D. C., the three-story dwelling at 229 West 130th Street, 16.8 by 100.

Don H. Bacon sold to Agnes C. O'Neill the four-story dwelling at 109 East Thirty-ninth Street, near Park Avenue, on a lot 25 by 98.9.

I. Jacobs sold to a client of Edward S. Foley the four-story and basement dwelling at 14 West Eighty-fourth Street, 20.10 by 102.2.

District Attorney Edward Swann has closed another deal in the Washington Square section, affecting a four-story and basement dwelling at 129 West Twelfth Street, on a lot 22.5 by 103.3. Mr. Swann bought the house recently from the estate of Margaret A. Keane and has resold the property at a profit to Helen A. Dexter.

Shaw & Co. have sold for Caroline Denniston 19 West 121st Street, a four-story dwelling on lot 20 by 100.11, to a client for occupancy.

The four-story dwelling at 132 East Forty-seventh Street has been sold by Susie Raboch to John G. Nugent.

Mulvihill & Co. sold for Julia Dillon the frame dwelling 45 West 127th Street, size 20 by 100, to Hettie Johnson.

E. Sharum sold to Emma J. Pauli 81 West 113th Street, a three-story and basement dwelling, 17 by 100, between Fifth and Lenox Avenues. The purchaser is the tenant of the property.

Westchester Home Buyers.

Fish & Marvin sold for Charles E. Gardner of New York City his residence at Lawrence Park West, Bronxville, to Dr. J. T. Duryea. The property consists of large Colonial residence of hollow tile construction, a two car garage and about three-quarters of an acre of land. The place was held at $65,000.

Chauncey B. Griffin & Co. sold for Edward H. Hart his house and large plot, situated on Neptune Avenue, New Rochelle, to William Sherwood of New York City.

Suspends Higher Rates on Peaches.

ALBANY, Sept. 10.—Increased freight rates covering the shipment of peaches in New York State were suspended until Dec. 10 by the Public Service Commission, Second District, today. The commission took the ground that if the peach shipping rate had been filed on the statutory notice of thirty days the Western New York growers would have moved virtually their entire crop before the increased rate would have gone into effect. The suspension order covers carloads shipments only.

BRONX TRANSACTIONS.

Demand Concerns Itself with Small Residential Holdings.

Patrick Holland sold 1,474 Southern Boulevard, a three-family house, through Charles Lennox, to A. Vittalote; also 172 Alexander Avenue for Isabelle Kidd to J. G. Johnson.

George Meyer sold for Daniel Jackson 1,056 Hoe Avenue. Negotiations are pending for resale.

Walter E. Brown sold for Louise A. Jackson property situated at 1,203 Franklin Avenue, a one-family frame dwelling, to a client for investment.

Alexander Selkin, David Mintz, and Harry B. Katz have sold to a client for occupancy 2,707 Creston Avenue, a three-story dwelling, on a plot 50 by 100.

The Hudwill Corporation, Hudson P. Rose, President, is the buyer of the three houses recently sold by the Debi Corporation at 452, 454 and 456 East 159th Street.

Samuel Cowen sold to M. Schmulowitz the five-story house at 865 Cauldwell Avenue, corner of 161st Street.

Commercial Leases.

Henry Shapiro & Co. leased for the 218-20 West 34th Street Corporation a store in the building now being altered at 218-222 West Thirty-fourth Street to Samuel Roffwarg & Co. The lease is for a term of years at an aggregate rental of $75,000.

Charles F. Noyes Company has extended the lease on 39-41 South William Street with Baracca Restaurant at a rental of about $10,000 per year.

Plan New Convent.

The Order of Poor Clare Nuns, now at 764 St. Nicholas Avenue, has purchased a Colonial house, on plot 93 by 105 by irregular, at 328 Haven Avenue, near 180th Street. The Poor Clares plan eventually to build a new convent.

$325,000 Garage Lease.

Sidney L. Warsawer leased the two-story garage, now in course of construction, at 334 to 340 West Fortieth Street, to Matthew H. Burke. The lease was for a term of twenty-one years, at an aggregate rental of about $325,000. The Garage Realty Company was associated as broker.

Will Remodel Flats.

Joseph Polstein has purchased from the Fitzpatrick estate the two five-story flats at 139 and 141 West Eighty-fourth Street, assessed at $48,000. The present eight-room suites will be altered into four-room apartments at a cost of about $50,000. Edward N. Crosby & Co. and Julius Levy were the brokers.

Estate Makes Another Loan.

A loan of $165,000 has just been made by the estate of William Ziegler through Alfred Marks and J. Curry Watson on the Hotel Richmond, at 70 and 72 West Forty-sixth Street. The building is ten stories in height. The loan is for three years.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The disturbance that was central over the upper lakes Thursday night moved eastward Friday night. Its centre was near Cape Cod. Another disturbance is moving eastward along the northwest border. There were showers within the last twenty-four hours quite generally east of the Mississippi River except in the East Gulf States an dalso in Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota and the far northwest. Low temperatures continue general west of the Rocky Mountains, while east of the Rocky Mountains temperatures are normal. In New England and the Middle Atlantic States the weather will be fair Saturday and become overcast and unsettled on Sunday without material change in temperature. In the South Atlantic and East Gulf States the weather will be generally fair Saturday and Sunday. In Tennessee, the Ohio Valley and the region of the Great Lakes the weather Saturday and Sunday will be unsettled with local showers.

No temperature changes are indicated for the eastern half of the country within the next forty-eight hours.

Winds off the Atlantic Coast: Off Sandy Hook, fresh northwest winds, clearing weather Saturday; Sandy Hook to Hatteras, moderate west winds and fair weather Saturday; Hatteras to Florida Straits, over the East Gulf, gentle to moderate variable winds and fair weather Saturday.

Forcasts for today and Sunday:

Western Pennsylvania and Western New York—Partly cloudy Saturday, probably followed by local showers by Saturday night and on Sunday; no change in temperature.

Southern New England—Fair Saturday. Sunday cloudy; moderate temperature.

Eastern New York—Fair Saturday. Sunday cloudy, probably showers north portion.

Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey—Fair Saturday. Sunday clear; moderate temperature.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1920.	1919.		1920.	1919.

27 PROMOTIONS FILL POLICE VACANCIES

Enright Announces Appointments of 4 Captains, 11 Lieutenants and 12 Sergeants.

TWO STILL IN U. S. ARMY

Lieutenants Busby, Miller, Austin and Hayes Advanced and Get New Assignments.

Police promotions to fill vacancies in precinct commands, some of which have existed since the war period, were made yesterday by Commissioner Enright by the appointment of four captains, eleven lieutenants and twelve sergeants. The lieutenants promoted to a captaincy and their new assignments, are: George Busby, to the detective bureau; Theodore D. Miller, to the Vernon Avenue station, Brooklyn; Benjamin F. Austin, to the Elizabeth Street station, and Edward F. Hayes, to the Oak Street station. Busby, Hayes and Miller have been in the Police Department twenty-four years, and Austin's police experience covers twenty-nine years. His father was a New York policeman, and his son is a member of the force.

Capt. Busby earned his promotion as a detective in the bomb squad, but a technical question involving civil service regulations almost deprived him of it. Until the end of the war he was on leave of absence acting as a member of the Army Intelligence Service, in which he reached the rank of major. His name was on the old list of eligibles for promotion in the Police Department. This list was superseded, however, by the Civil Service competitive examination, while he was engaged in war work. His plea for exemption from civil service examination on the ground of lack of time to get on the list after his release from army service was decided in his favor by the Corporation Counsel.

Nine of the Sergeants advanced to Lieutenants served in the army, and one of whom, Major Harry A. Taylor, is still in the United States service. The others and their present stations are James J. Phelan, West Sixty-eighth Street; Thomas F. A. Ward, East 104th Street; Peter T. Donovan, Williamsbridge; John J. Hines, Brooklyn Avenue; Henry E. Kelly, Lawrence Avenue, Brooklyn; Richard Hamilton, Jr., Grand Avenue, Brooklyn; James A. Murray, Classon Avenue, Brooklyn; John O. Kluber, Elmhurst, Queens; Thomas B. Goodman and Lambert R. Furey, Jamaica.

The new Sergeants are Richard Holt, 177th Street and Haven Avenue; Gustave M. Bleasman, Bay Twenty-second Street and Bath Avenue; Matthew D. Kelly, Amity Street, Brooklyn; Edward J. Ghoensky, Traffic A; Carl A. Anderson, Traffic B; William H. Randolph and Charles A. Hill, who is in the Army Headquarters Division; William J. Ryan, Robert W. Duggan, Marine Division; Edgar A. Olive, Thomas F. J. Cavanagh and William Newburg, Detective Division.

These Captains were transferred: William F. Peabody, from Stapleton to Tottenville; John J. Lantry, from Morrisania to West New Brighton; Frank J. Hobrig, from New Brighton to the office of Inspector John O'Brien, Traffic Division; George H. Kauff, from Vernon Avenue, Brooklyn, to the Morrisania Station, Bronx, and Charles Zanes, from Oak Street to the Quartermaster's Division, to replace Lieutenant John Bank, who was placed in command of the Transportation Division.

It was said at Police Headquarters that the transfers of the older commanders was not a reflection on their work, but was intended to provide the new officers with active training and experience.

CHARGES CLUBMAN IS CRUEL

Mrs. Nanine I. Smith Brings Suit for Separation.

Edgar M. Smith, Vice President of the Q. & T. Co., dealers in railway supplies, at 90 West Street, and living at 29 Claremont Avenue, was sued in the Supreme Court yesterday by Mrs. Nanine I. Smith, for a separation with $350 a month alimony on the ground of cruel treatment since 1911. The couple were married in Massachusetts in 1898 and have three children.

Mrs. Smith alleges that her husband threatened to strike her with his belt at 379 West End Avenue; raised his cane at her in the Casino Theatre and caused her dress to be torn in her struggle to protect herself; choked her in their bungalow at Nantucket, dragged her across the footboard of their bed at Allenhurst, N. J., causing her spine to be injured, and threw her out of their apartment at 605 West 112th Street. She says he has a salary of $6,000 a year, and is a member of the Engineers Club, the University Club and the Old Colony Club in Boston.

BRONX CHILDREN BENEFITED

Entertainment by Tuberculosis Association Reveals Good Work at Camp.

An entertainment was given at the old Hunter Island Mansion, Pelham Bay Park, yesterday afternoon for the children of tuberculous parents of the Bronx who have been the attendants at the day camp conducted there by the Bronx Committee of the New York Tuberculosis Association. The party celebrated the closing of the camp for the season.

The children, ranging in age from 4 to 14 years, have been attending the camp for the last three months, improving greatly in health. One boy whose father is suffering from tuberculosis gained eight pounds during the Summer. There were hikes in the woods, bathing and a daily talk on healthful living by the nurse in charge. The camp is partly supported by the sale of Christmas seals.

JEWISH INMATES MOVED.

Twenty Are Taken from City Home by the Daughters of Jacob.

Twenty Jewish inmates of the City Home on Blackwell's Island will celebrate the opening of the Jewish New Year with more joy in their hearts than they have known for many a long year. Yesterday Judge Otto Rosalsky and Alderman Louis Zeltner drove up to the home with five automobiles and met Dr. Joseph Lanahan, Director of the home. Dr. Lanahan took the visitors into the building and announced that they had come to take several of the oldest Jewish inmates to the Home of the Daughters of Jacob at 167th Street and Finley Avenue in the Bronx.

The first chosen to go was Louis Levine, who came to America from Russia, he says, almost a hundred years ago. Mr. Levine says that he is 104 years old and that as a small boy he worked on a farm near William Street, the Bronx. This return to the home of his boyhood, he says, makes him twenty years younger and he confidently expects to live to enjoy them.

Woman Prisoner Dies After Leap.

Mrs. May Walsh of 155 East Fifty-sixth Street, died today of injuries received when she jumped from a second-story window last night. A detective of the vice squad had accompanied her to her apartment and was in the act of arresting her when she ran to a window and jumped.

"They came to me and I helped them out"

MONTHS ago I knew they were coming and I waited for them. I figured that many of the more eminent makers of high priced hats were riding for a fall. I figured that with prices on the decline, the retail trade would not pay the high prices these high and mighty hat manufacturers were asking.

These high class hat makers figured the dealers would have to pay their prices. But they figured wrong, for the retailers bought lower priced hats from lower grade makers. The result—

When the retail hat buying season was about over for the Fall, these makers found they didn't have enough orders to keep their plants going.

Then they rushed to me. They knew I hadn't placed an order for my 50 stores. They just had to have orders to keep their plants running, utilize their raw materials, pay their overhead and retain their skilled labor.

I gave them orders—all they wanted of them—but at my prices.

And now, I take great pride in offering the most remarkable values in the history of hat retailing. A wonderful assortment of genuine

$6 and $8 Hats All at one price 4.35

These are by far the finest felts that ever entered my stores. They're the quality you'll find only at the highest priced and most exclusive hatters. They're regular $6 and $8 hats from every standpoint. There's no mistaking that fact.

Mark this well—they're finished with those rich wide silk bands, with bows in the back, that every smart dresser will insist on this Fall—and which you will find nowhere else at less than $6 and $8. Full leather sweatbands, of course, and brims bound, welted or raw edged, as you prefer.

There are more good styles than you'll find anywhere. Everything that's new and smart and becoming. Every color and shade endorsed by Fashion. Every size and style of block to meet the varying demands of different types of faces.

My windows tell the story. Go to any Kaufman Shop—even if it takes you a few moments out of your way. My windows will show you genuine $6 and $8 Felts; both stiff and soft, at one price, $4.35.

The Reason Why

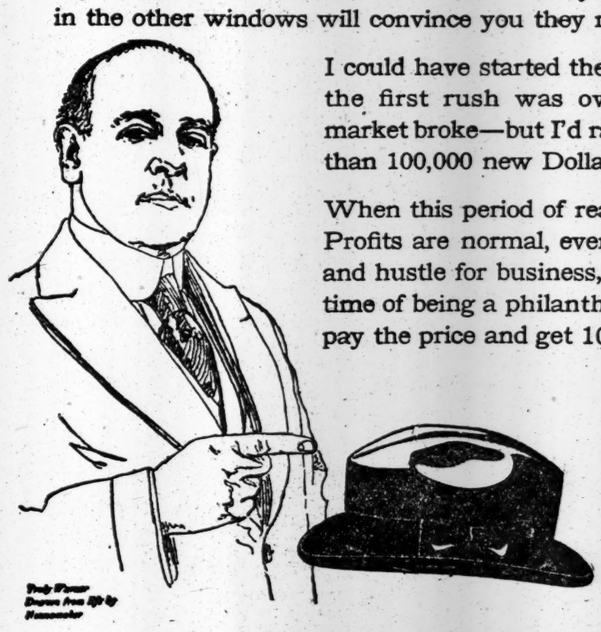
THE REASON why I decided to sell $5 hats for $3.85 and do business without profit this Fall is a simple, straightforward business proposition.

I haven't anything up my sleeve—there's no Joker in the pack—there's no mystery about my policy, it's simple as A. B. C.

Conditions in this country have changed since I started last Spring to make hats for this Fall. At that time I couldn't see the end of high prices—but now I can see the finish.

This Fall the Public won't listen to any explanation why any article of merchandise costs more. They won't buy and pay more and I want MORE business. That's the reason in a nutshell why I'm not charging any more.

My hats were not made to sell at $3.85. They were built to sell at $5 and a peek in the other windows will convince you they represent unusual value at $5.



I could have started the season with a $5 price and when the first rush was over announced a drop when the market broke—but I'd rather have 100,000 new Customers than 100,000 new Dollars.

When this period of readjustment is over, and Prices and Profits are normal, every merchant will have to get out and hustle for business, and no one will accuse me at that time of being a philanthropist today because I'm willing to pay the price and get 100,000 new customers now.
